CUTTACK,
The 21st December 1905.

HERBERT A. STARK,
Inspector of Schools, Orissa Division.

RULES FOR GRANTS-IN-AID TO COLLEGES IN BENGAL SANCTIONED IN BENGAL GOVERNMENT ORDER No. 2838T.—G., DATED THE 24TH OCTOBER / 7TH NOVEMBER 1905.

(1) Government from time to time sanctions grants-in-aid to colleges not under Government management, which work according to the Transfer Rules of the Department and which fulfil the conditions prescribed in the following rules.

(2) Annual grants are given in aid of ordinary recurring expenditure. Special grants are given in aid of non-recurring expenditure of a special character. Temporary grants are also given in aid of boarding establishments, in accordance with the principle laid down by the Government of India that boarding-houses and hostels should be made self-supporting, so far as recurring expenditure is concerned.

(3) Grants-in-aid are given on the principle of strict religious neutrality, and no preference will be shown to any college on the ground that any particular religious principles are or are not taught therein.

(4) Applications for grants-in-aid are made direct to the Director of Public Instruction in the case of first grade colleges and through the Divisional Inspector of Schools in the case of second grade colleges.

(5) Grants-in-aid will be given only to such colleges as require the payment of fees from their students. The fee-rates shall be fixed in consultation with the Director of Public Instruction at the time when the application for a grant is being made or renewed.

(6) Free-studentships shall not ordinarily exceed 5 per cent. of the total number of pupils on the rolls. The governing body of colleges are at liberty to admit, in addition to the 5 per cent. allowable, Muhammadans as free students up to the limit of 8 per cent. of the total number of students on the rolls, but not exceeding 12 in all. Colleges requiring special arrangements for free students must obtain the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction.

(7) The governing body of any college by whom application for a grant is made must appoint a Secretary from among themselves, or some responsible member of the staff, to conduct their correspondence with the Department. Every change of Secretary must be notified to the Director of Public Instruction under the signatures of the new Secretary and the Chairman of the governing body.

(8) Before a grant-in-aid is given or renewed, full information must be supplied on the following points, on which the amount of the grant, if given, will depend :—

(a) The constitution of the governing body, and the names of its members, together with their professions.
(b) The suitability of the buildings, their site and surroundings, accommodation for students, furniture, attached library and laboratory, lighting and ventilation of the rooms, drainage of the surrounding premises, and the efficiency of the sanitary arrangements for the students and staff.
(c) The pecuniary resources, permanent and temporary, on which the college will depend for support.
(d) The names, qualifications and salaries of the teaching staff, and the conditions governing their tenure of office.
(e) The average monthly receipts from fees, Government grants and other sources, and the average total monthly expenditure of the college in detail for each of the preceding three years.
(f) The average number of students in each class for each of the preceding three years.
(g) The rate of fees charged in each class.
(h) The results of public examinations during each of the preceding three years.
(i) The provision made for physical exercise.
(j) The extent of hostel accommodation.
(k) The amount of aid sought.
(l) The treasury at which the grant, if sanctioned, is to be payable.
(m) The name and the class of the college or colleges within ten miles of the Institution.

(9) Every new election to the governing body must be notified to the Director of Public Instruction under the signature of the Secretary and the member or members elected, in the case of first grade colleges, and, through the Divisional Inspector of Schools, in the case of second grade colleges. If the governing body is not considered to be sufficiently representative, the Director may suggest any necessary alterations.

(10) No grant shall be given, or, if given, it shall be withdrawn, unless the particulars given in connection with Rule 8 (b) are satisfactory.

(11) No new building shall be constructed for the college until the plan and estimates have been approved by the Director of Public Instruction.

(12) The appointment and dismissal of every Principal, Professor or Lecturer shall be notified to the Department. The Department shall have power to enquire into any case of removal of a member of the teaching staff.

(13) No grants shall be given, unless the conditions of residence of students are satisfactory, and unless due attention is paid to this point by the authorities of the college.

(14) Any college to which aid is given, together with all its account books and other records, shall at all times be open to inspection by the Director of Public Instruction, or a senior officer of the Department who may be deputed by Government for the purpose. In the case of second grade colleges, all account books and other records shall at all times be open to the inspection of the Divisional Inspector of Schools.

(15) All receipts from whatever sources or for whatever purposes collected must be entered in the account books of the college.

(16) Any balance at the credit of the college must be employed for college purposes only, and no portion of it shall be spent for any other purpose without the previous sanction of the Director of Public Instruction.

(17) The surplus funds of the college must be placed to the credit of the college in some Bank at the end of each quarter, and the account should be made out in the joint names of the Secretary and one of the members of the governing body who will be selected for the purpose by that body.

(18) The following books shall also be kept :—

(a) An admission register.
(b) Attendance registers of Professors and students.
(c) A students' conduct register.
(d) A register of transfer certificates issued and received.
(e) A visitors' book.
(f) A book containing the proceedings of the meetings of the governing body of the college.
(g) A register of the progress of the students, indicated specially at periodical examinations.
(h) A correspondence file.
(i) A library catalogue.
(j) A stock book of scientific apparatus, chemicals, etc.
(k) A fee and fine collection book.
(m) An acquittance roll.
(n) A cash book.

(19) At visits of inspection, the inspecting officer shall enquire into the information supplied in accordance with the provisions of Rule 8, and also into—

(a) the efficiency of the teaching ;
(b) the state of discipline ;
(c) the adequacy of the professorial staff, college library, teaching appliances and equipment of laboratories ;
(d) the courses of study, subjects taught, routine of work and arrangements for exercises and tutorial assistance ;
(e) the strictness with which the college registers are kept and the transfer rules observed ;
(f) the degree of efficiency attained in the supervision of the hostels and messes attached to the college.

(20) Grant-in-aid colleges shall as a rule follow the rules in Government colleges in the matter of holidays. Exceptions may be made under special circumstances and with the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction.

(21) Government may claim a fair share of any balance at the credit of a grant-in-aid college at the time of its abolition, as well as of the sale proceeds of any college building or furniture towards the erection or purchase of which a grant may have been made by Government.

Annual Grants.

(22) Annual grants-in-aid shall not exceed in amount the sums to be expended from private sources (after excluding the fees of scholars), except in special cases, under special orders of Government.

(23) Grants will be sanctioned ordinarily for a period of three years ; but the Director of Public Instruction may, at any time during its currency, recommend the revision of any grant for reasons to be stated, and to which the college authorities shall have an opportunity of replying.

(24) The grant is payable every month or every quarter at the option of the Department.

(25) The monthly or quarterly bill in the accompanying form must be sent in duplicate to the Director of Public Instruction for countersignature, and must be accompanied by a certificate that all salaries due for, and up to, the previous month have been paid in full.

(26) The monthly bill and the certificate must be signed by the Secretary of the governing body or the Principal of the college.

(27) Salaries for service in any month become due on the first day of the following month:—

SPECIAL GRANTS.

(28) Grants may be given to the governing body of colleges in aid—

(a) of erecting, enlarging or furnishing college buildings;

(b) of executing extensive repairs; and

(c) in special cases, of paying off debts incurred in erecting or enlarging college buildings.

NOTE 1.—Expenditure in the purchase of buildings may be treated as expenditure in the erection of buildings.

NOTE 2.—The sum to be allotted annually for building grants to colleges will be fixed provisionally for a term of years. It will not, in ordinary circumstances, be reduced, though it may be increased for any year during that term.

NOTE 3.—Every application for a grant must be submitted to the Department not later than the 31st December, if the grant is to be admissible for sanction during the following financial year. If found to be in accordance with the rules, and in other respects deserving of support, it will be included in the list of 'approved applications.' If not so included the reasons shall be notified to the governing body.

NOTE 4.—In case of an application for a repair grant under this rule (b), the governing body will be required to show that the necessity for such a grant has not arisen from the neglect of current repairs in previous years.

(29) Except in the case of the foregoing rule, no grant shall be made in consideration of former expenditure in college buildings.

(30) In general the proportion of the Government contribution made under Rule 28 shall not exceed one-half of the amount guaranteed from private sources.

(31) Before a building grant is sanctioned, the site, plans, estimates, specifications, title and draft-trust deeds must be approved by the Director of Public Instruction. If the college receives no monthly grant, the governing body must also satisfy the Department that it is likely to be maintained in efficiency and that it will be open to inspection.

(32) The trust-deed must declare the building to be granted in trust for college purposes only. It must also provide for the legal ownership of the premises, for the proper maintenance of the building and for the inspection and management of the college.

NOTE (1)—This rule does not preclude the governing body from using the building for other purposes, subject, if necessary, to the sanction of the Department, when not required for the purposes of the college.

NOTE (2)—When the grant does not exceed Rs. 1,000, the governing body may execute a deed of acceptance in place of a trust-deed—vide Government order No. 584, dated the 13th November 1890.

(33) No grant is finally sanctioned until a certificate is received from the governing body setting forth that the funds in their hands will, when added to the grant, be sufficient to meet all claims and to close the account.

(34) Advances may be made from time to time out of the sanctioned grant on receipt of a report from the Public Works Department that the work is proceeding satisfactorily.

(35) The grant is not paid in full until:—

(1) a report is received from the Public Works Department or other sufficient authority that the building is satisfactorily completed;

(2) the trust-deed is duly registered and lodged with the Department.

NOTE.—"Title-deeds of property mortgaged to Government on account of building grants may, as hitherto, remain with the mortgagor,"—vide Government order No. 41T.—G., dated the 16th June 1890.

RESOLUTION ON THE BOARD'S LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1904-1905.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 28th December 1905.

RESOLUTION No. 3726.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on Land Revenue Administration for the year 1904-05.

The report was submitted with commendable punctuality, reaching Government nearly a fortnight before the 31st August, the date on which it was due.

General.

2. Nothing could well give a more striking picture of the extraordinary diversity of the Province than the portions of the report dealing with the condition of the people, the prices of food and labour, and the state of the weather and crops during the year under review. Almost all the districts with their diverse interests are shortly dealt with, providing a vivid glimpse of the Province as it is. Drought and excessive rainfall, a total failure of the crops on one side and a full harvest on the other, the rapid development of railways and factories in one direction and the lapsing of once well-cultivated land back into jungle in another are but a few of the contrasts furnished by the report. The vicissitudes experienced by the Patna Division alone are noticeable. A heavy downpour in July and August, it is reported, caused considerable damage to the bhadoi crop. Then came drought in September, injuring the paddy, which was only just saved from total failure over a large area by the storm of October 17th and 18th. Then again, in February and March, rain, hail and frost combined to destroy the rabi crop and seriously affected the outturn. In Mymensingh, the jute crop suffered from excessive rain early in the season and inadequate rainfall when the plant was maturing. In the neighbouring district of Dacca, the crops are reported excellent. In Noakhali, heavy rain, during the early part of April, considerably damaged the crops, while, in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, seasonable rainfall produced a marked increase in the outturn of plough paddy. The diversity of the crops is scarcely less noticeable than the climatic conditions to which they were subjected. Every form of paddy, rabi, bhadoi aus, aman, aghani, boro, marua, makai with tea, jute, indigo, opium and tobacco were all brought under cultivation. The price of foodstuffs shows the same variation, caused chiefly by local and temporary conditions. Only in four districts—Darjeeling, Rangpur, Champaran and Singhbhum—was the price of common rice stationary, while in 16 districts it was higher and in 26 districts lower than in the previous year. Owing to the reduction of duty on salt, its price was lower in all the districts of the Province, save in Burdwan, Midnapore, Bhagalpur, Sonthal Parganas, Pabna, Puri, Angul and Manbhum, and here the rise was not appreciable. Wages, as in the previous year, remained stationary, save where disturbed by unusual conditions. They rose in Birbhum and Bankura owing to the opening of new railway lines; in Hooghly owing to the demand for labour in mines and factories; and in Darjeeling owing to the activity caused by the Tibet Mission. In Nadia, they showed a tendency to return to normal after the higher rates caused by extensive railway works in the previous year. The material condition of the people, in spite of the adverse climatic conditions which affected many parts of the Province, was on the whole prosperous. Though, owing to unseasonable rainfall and severe frosts in the cold weather, the crops were somewhat below the average, it was not sufficient, save in exceptional cases, to affect the material prosperity of the people or the revenue returns of the year. Industries continued to create an ever-increasing demand for labour. In Birbhum, railway work provided for many hundreds of labourers In Midnapore, the opening of the large railway workshop at Kharagpur caused a great demand for labour of all kinds. In Hooghly, work was to be found, in the mills and other industries, on good wages. In this district, there are many well-to-do traders, and the chikan needle-work provides lucrative employment to a large number of Mussalmans; while a considerable number of persons are also employed in the manufacture of cotton and tassar cloth and in brick and tile making. A great many are also employed as clerks in Calcutta. The development of industries in the district of Tippera demanded skilled labour, such as blacksmiths, goldsmiths and carpenters. In Noakhali, the Victoria Memorial Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition brought to light certain industries, such as the manufacture of cloths, cutlery and wood-work in Ramganj and mats in Feni. The opening of the railway has also given a marked impetus to the cultivation of jute, the exportation of which is steadily increasing. In the Sonthal Parganas, the activity of the lac trade brought much money into the district Against this prosperity, there was the prevalence of plague in portions of the Patna Division, and an epidemic of cholera and malaria of a severe type in Jessore and the partial failure of staple crops in Burdwan, which considerably affected the material condition of the people there. In the 24-Parganas, the Collector notices a general tendency towards decline in the prosperity of the people of rural tracts near the manufacturing centres. He remarks that there is great difficulty in cultivating the high lands surrounding the villages owing to the dearth of labour, and the result is the growth of dense jungles around village sites which seriously detract from the healthiness of the villages themselves. The immigration of Sonthals and other aborigines into Hooghly and Burdwan for cultivation, for work on the brick-fields and in the coal mines continued. Nearly half the artisans in the jute mills belong to the districts of Bihar and the eastern part of the United Provinces and Orissa. In the Sundarbans tracts, labourers from Orissa, Midnapore, Chota Nagpur and Sonthal Parganas immigrated largely, some of them coming with the object of settling permanently, others merely for temporary work during the harvest season. The immigration of coolies from Chota Nagpur, Sonthal Parganas and Nepal to work on tea-gardens in the Duars and Darjeeling took place as usual. Permanent immigration of Sonthals and Bunas into Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri and Rajshahi took place to some extent when these immigrants settled down and became regular cultivators. With regard to emigration, very large numbers of men emigrated temporarily eastwards, in the cold weather, after the rice had been harvested, returning in the hot weather. During the year under review, 4,270 persons, including dependants, emigrated to Assam to labour on the tea-gardens there. The number of registered emigrants who went from Bankura to Assam slightly increased, while in Midnapore recruitment altogether disappeared. In Monghyr only 98 coolies were recruited against 288 last year, the sudden decrease being attributed to the outbreak of plague in the recruiting season.

Immigration.

Emigration.

3. The first portion of the report deals with the collection of land revenue, in which some interesting statistics, are given and comparisons made with previous years. One of the most noticeable features of the statistics, which are given in detail in Appendix I, is the continued reduction of the balance of arrear demand, which now stands at a considerably lower figure than in any previous year of the quinquennium. The percentage of total arrear collections on total arrear demand in permanently-settled estates was 98·82, the highest for the preceding four years. Only in five districts did the collections fall short of 99 per cent. The percentage of total collections on current demand and of current collections on current demand, however, fell slightly short of those of the preceding three years. In the remissions made there is a marked reduction, the figures being the lowest for the last five years. Remissions of grace were allowed mainly in the estates held direct by Government on account of death, desertion or poverty of raiyats, failure of crops, diluvion and deterioration of soil. Considerably more than half the remissions under this head were made in the three districts of the 24-Parganas, Chittagong and Palamau. Remissions of right were chiefly due to diluvion, the release of lands to private zamindars and the acquisition of lands for public purposes. The nominal remissions were mainly deductions for erroneous assessment of lands, mistakes in accounts and non-settlement of relinquished holdings, and it is satisfactory to observe that by far the largest reduction is noted under this head.

Part I.—Collection of land revenue.

Remissions.

Miscellaneous revenue.

4. The total receipts of miscellaneous revenue, including receipts from forest lands in Government estates, were more than double the amount of the previous year. This striking increase was due mainly to the recovery of survey and settlement charges. Other receipts were in the districts of Burdwan and the Sonthal Parganas. In the former, nearly the whole amount of more than half a lakh of rupees represented the charges for repairs to Government embankments realised from the Burdwan Raj; while, in the latter, the receipts (Rs. 66,108) were mainly on account of royalties on sabai grass and fees for fuel. The total outstanding balance amounted to Rs. 46,138, and consisted mostly of fines under Act XX of 1848 and of the survey and settlement charges.

Road and public works cesses.

5. Both cesses were, as in the preceding years, levied at the maximum rate of one anna in the rupee in the 43 districts in which the Act is in force. In the Sonthal Parganas, in which the Act is being gradually introduced, the valuation, for the first time, of some of the resettled estates was completed and given effect to from the beginning of the year 1905-06. The current demand of cesses, as in the previous year, shows a large increase of over a lakh and a half, mainly due to revaluations in various districts, of which Rangpur, Noakhali, Gaya, Rajshahi and Hazaribagh contributed the largest shares. It is satisfactory to note that the total collections on the net current demand was 100·4, against 99·2 of the preceding year. During the year under review, revaluation proceedings on an extensive scale were in progress in the districts of Burdwan, Birbhum, Bankura, Hooghly, Dinajpur, the regulation portion of Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bogra, Pabna, Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Tippera, Saran, Champaran, Muzaffarpur and Malda, of which the work in the regulation portion of Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bogra, Dacca, Tippera, Saran and Malda has been completed.

Redemption of land revenue.

6. Of the total number of 458 redemptions of land revenue allowed during the year, no less than 443 were contributed by the district of the 24 Parganas alone, and were apparently due to the wide circulation of the rules regarding redemption. In Chittagong, however, where the number of petty estates unredeemed is 13,544, the proprietors are still reported to be unwilling to redeem.

Remittances of land revenue by special money-orders.

7. There has been a large increase in the number of revenue money-orders from 253,849 in the previous year to 369,870 in the year under review. The amount remitted, however, has only increased from Rs. 22,92,810 to Rs. 24,11,712. This large increase in the number of orders and the comparatively small increase in the total amount remitted show the increased popularity of small money-orders consequent on the reduction of fees for sums of Rs. 5 or less. The introduction, during the year, of separate forms of money-orders for land revenue and cesses has doubtless contributed to the increased number of orders issued.

Payment of rent by money-order.

Payment of rent by money-orders is now in force throughout Bengal except in the districts of Darjeeling, Cuttack, Balasore, Angul, the Sonthal Parganas and Chota Nagpur. In Puri the system is still not taken advantage of by the tenants; money-orders, covering Rs. 328, being issued during the year. In Chota Nagpur, though the system is not in force, rents remitted by money-orders are accepted in Government khas mahals, and the Board is requested to consider and report whether the system might not now be introduced in the Chota Nagpur Division. The percentage of refusals is very large in certain districts, parti- cularly in Champaran and Malda, where it is as high as 78·3 per cent.

and 56·4 per cent., respectively. The Board is requested to enquire into this wholesale refusal of money orders by landlords in Champaran and to ascertain whether it is confined to a few estates or is general; and, if so, whether there is any special cause.

Operation of the Sale Law.

8. It is satisfactory to note that there were only 19 cases in which Commissioners found it necessary to refer to Government for the annulment of sales on the ground of hardship. The chief causes, which led to estates in various districts being brought to sale during the year, were disputes among co-sharers, wilful defaults, diluvion, difficulty in getting possession when estates had diluviated, but subsequently reformed, insolvency of proprietors and annulment of encumbrances. The Sale Law was generally administered with due leniency and moderation.

Certificate cases.

9. With regard to certificate work, the disposal of cases in the Province generally has been fairly satisfactory. A striking exception, however, is the 24-Parganas, where the number of cases pending for more than six months rose from 88 to 1,076; the percentage of disposals there being only 65·5, against 83·42 in the previous year. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to observe that the Board is of opinion that the working of section 21 of the Public Demands Recovery Act, which permits a judgment-debtor to redeem his property after sale by payment of the amount of the certificate with costs and of a penalty equal to one-tenth of the auction-price to the purchaser, has proved satisfactory. In various districts, auction-purchasers have shown themselves not unwilling to accept the return of their money with one-tenth of the purchase-money added as profit.

Part II—Administration of land revenue.

10. The second portion of the report deals with the administration of the land revenue. The condition of the raiyats on the Government estates was on the whole satisfactory. In Burdwan, some hardship was caused by the excessive floods in the month of July, but the suspension of the realisation of the first two instalments of rent till the harvesting of the winter rice and spring crops afforded sufficient relief. In Bankura, the tenants were unfortunate, as they suffered from a succession of bad harvests and the damage done to their holdings by the River Darkeswar. In the Chittagong district, the winter crops suffered to some extent from the unusually high flood in the Cox's Bazar subdivision, in August 1904, and a cyclonic gale, in the northern part of the district, in November of the same year. The rabi crops were also seriously damaged by the heavy continuous rain in March last. It is stated that the people of Cox's Bazar have hardly yet regained their former prosperity. In Monghyr, the Ganges flood in the month of August, caused great distress for a time, but prompt measures were taken and there was no loss of life in any Government estate.

In Midnapore, the management of khas mahals by a Deputy Collector acting directly under the Collector has not proved satisfactory, and it has been decided always to post a Civilian as Subdivisional Officer at Contai in future.

Abandonment of dual control of cadastral survey and record-writing.

11. A very important change has been made in settlement work since the close of the year. The system of dual control of cadastral survey and khanapuri (record-writing) hitherto followed has been abandoned, except in the case of the record-of-rights now going on in the Bhagalpur Division, and since the beginning of October last the cadastral survey in Chota Nagpur has been placed under the Settlement Department. The change has been introduced to prevent friction and to improve the supervision of officers engaged in the survey by placing them altogether under one department. It is of the first importance that there should be no neglect of accuracy in survey work, and the Board has been requested to report specially on this point next year.

Deputation of Munsifs to learn settlement work.

12. It has also been arranged that the High Court should deputo a certain number of Munsifs for a few months to learn the principles of settlement work and to enable them to understand the records more clearly. The Board is requested to report on the experience gained by Munsifs from this training.

Land registration.

13. The percentage of applications for land registration to the total number of interests in the registers for the whole Province was only 4·6 per cent. It should be possible to do much to improve land registration when better panchayets have been appointed in all districts. Wherever the panchayets have been already revised, District Magistrates should endeavour to obtain informaion from them of all changes in the holding of land not otherwise brought to notice.

Irrigation and drainage.

14. Many irrigation and drainage works were undertaken in different parts of the Province. One of the most important schemes is that for the drainage of the Mograhât and Kaorapukar swamps, undertaken to improve the condition of a large tract of land measuring two hundred and ninety square miles and of the navigation channels in the southern portion of the 24-Parganas. The cost has been estimated at over 17 lakhs of rupees, of which Government has promised a contribution of five lakhs, the balance to be paid in 30 years by the levy of an additional cess equivalent to four times the road cess. Work commenced towards the end of the year and has made satisfactory progress.

Estates Partition Act.

15. The new Estates Partition Act is reported to have generally worked smoothly. No case of enhancemeut of rents by landlords immediately after a partition has been brought to light. The provision in the Act for the distribution among the tenants of parchas, which contain particulars of the holding and the existing rents, will, it is hoped, serve to check any subsequent attempt on the part of zamindars to enhance rents.

The Sundarbans.

16. The Backergunge portion of the Sundarbans was transferred during the year from the jurisdiction of the Commissioner in the Sundarbans to that of the District Collector, and under Government orders a system of raiyatwari settlement will in future replace the leases to large and small capitalists.

Zamindari cesses.

17. The levy of illegal cesses in addition to rent still prevails to a regrettable extent throughout the Province. Long custom and inability to resist the authority of the landlord prevent the tenants from availing themselves of the protection afforded by the law. They have but too often found it cheaper to pay for the goodwill of their landlord than to resist the illegal demand and suffer innumerable petty annoyances at his hands and those of his retainers. In Ranchi, where old customs are specially tenacious, disputes between raiyats and landlords regarding rates of rent and predial services, such as rukumat and begari are still common. It is hoped that the extension of the survey and record-of-rights may place a check in the future upon all such petty disputes and illegal exactions.

Part III.—Rent.

18. The Bengal Tenancy Act governs the relations of landlord and tenant in the greater portion of the Province. It is partially in force in Orissa and the Sonthal Parganas, and, for the purposes of a record-of-rights, portions have been recently extended to the districts of the Chota Nagpur Division except Manbhum. The Commissioners generally agree that the Act continues to work smoothly, although its object is frustrated in many instances by the attempts of powerful zamindars to obtain illegal enhancements of rents in and out of Court, to levy abwabs abolished by law and to violate tenant rights in other ways.

19. The Lieutenant-Governor thanks the Board for their successful administration of the Land Revenue Department. The names of officers mentioned as deserving of special commendation have been noted by the Lieutenant-Governor and will be recorded by the Appointment Department.

20. Extracts from the Report are appended, giving more detailed information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

R. W. CARLYLE,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Extracts from the Report on the Land Revenue Administraiion of the Lower Provinces for the year 1904-1905.

* * * * * * * *

3. The Land Revenue Department of the Board was administered by the Hon'ble Mr. H. Savage, C.S.I., from the 1st April 1904 to the 3rd October 1904, and by the Hon'ble Mr. L. Hare, C.I.E., from the 4th October to the close of the year. Work in the Partition and Land Acquisition Branches (paragraphs 108 to 124), though included in the Land Revenue Administration Report, was in charge of the Hon'ble Mr. C. E. Buckland, C.I.E., from the 1st to the 28th April 1904, and of the Hon'ble Mr. K. G. Gupta from the 29th April 1904 to the close of the year.

Statistics of demands, collections, remissions and balances.

5. * * * * The totals for the Province are compared in the following statement with the corresponding figures for the preceding four years:—

Remissions.

9. The remissions of land revenue granted during the year were Rs. 796 in permanently-settled estates, Rs. 6,428 in temporarily-settled estates and Rs. 1,13,312 in estates held direct by Government, making a total of Rs. 1,20,536 of which Rs. 47,314 represented remissions of grace, Rs. 43,477 remissions of right and Rs. 29,745 nominal remissions, against Rs. 35,567, Rs. 43,214 and Rs. 85,050, respectively, in the preceding year.

Remissions of grace.

10. The remissions of grace were allowed mainly in the estates held direct by Government on account of death, desertion or poverty of raiyats, failure of crops, diluvion and deterioration of soil. They were largest in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Chittagong and Palamau, in which they amounted to Rs. 20,289, Rs. 5,304 and Rs. 8,682, respectively.

Remissions of right.

11. The large remissions granted under this class were Rs. 5,626 in Jalpaiguri, Rs. 5,551 in Faridpur and Rs. 7,346 in Noakhali and were chiefly due to diluvion, the release of lands to private zamindars and the acquisition of lands for public purposes.

Nominal remissions.

12. The nominal remissions were mainly deductions for erroneous assessment of lands, mistakes in accounts and non-settlement of relinquished holdings. The district of Chittagong showed the largest amount, viz. Rs. 7,034. Compared with the figure of the previous year the remissions under this class show a marked falling of.

* * * * * * * *

Forest and miscellaneous revenue.

23. The total receipts of miscellaneous revenue, including receipts from forest lands in Government estates, were Rs. 12,52,196, against Rs. 6,10,865 in the previous year. The increase was mainly due to the recovery of survey and settlement charges. The largest amounts realised under the head "Other receipts" were in the districts of Burdwan and the Sonthal Parganas. In the former nearly the whole amount (Rs. 57,480) represented the charges for repairs to Government embankments (pulbondi) realised from the Burdwan Raj, while in the latter the receipts (Rs. 66,108) were mainly on account of royalties on sabai grass and fees for fuel. A sum of Rs. 20,974 was remitted during the year chiefly in respect of fines under Acts XX of 1848 and VII (B.C.) of 1876. The total outstanding balance amounted to Rs. 46,138 and consisted mostly of fines under Act XX of 1848 and on the survey and settlement charges. The balance is in course of recovery.

Road and Public Works cesses.

26. As a separate report on the Road and Public Works cess operations of the Province is submitted, the results of the working of the Cess Act, IX (B.C.) of 1880, are only briefly noticed here. Both cesses were, as in the preceding years, levied at the maximum rate of one anna in the rupee in the 43 districts in which the Act is in force, including Singhbhum, where the Act extends to parganas Dhalbhum and Porahat only. In the Sonthal Parganas, in which the Act is being gradually introduced, the valuation for the first time of some resettled estates was completed, and given effect to from the beginning of the year 1905-1906. The Act is not in force in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, Angul and Khondmals. The current demand of land revenue in the 43 districts was Rs. 4,01,38,184 and the valuation, or gross rental, amounts to Rs. 18,12,99,084. As compared with the preceding year, the current demand of cesses rose from Rs. 98,41,734 to Rs. 1,00,05,005, showing an increase of Rs. 1,63,271. This result was mainly due to revaluations in various districts, of which Rangpur contributed Rs. 47,403, Noakhali Rs. 39,365, Gaya Rs. 28,842, Rajshahi Rs. 17,267 and Hazaribagh Rs. 16,400. With the increase in the demand there was an increase in collections from Rs 97,68,192 to Rs. 1,00,45,806, the percentage of total collections on the net current demand being 100·4, against 99·2 of the preceding year. The collections were above the prescribed standard of 100 per cent. upon the current demand in 22, and below it in 21 districts. * * * * * *

During the year revaluation proceedings on an extensive scale were in progress in the districts of Burdwan, Birbhum, Bankura, Hooghly, Dinajpur, the regulation portion of Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bogra, Pabna, Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Tippera, Saran, Champaran, Muzaffarpur and Malda, of which the work in the regulation portion of Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bogra, Dacca, Tippera, Saran and Malda has been completed.

Redemption of land revenue.

27. The total number of redemptions of land revenue allowed during the year under the orders of Government increased to 458 from 403 in the previous year. Of these 443 were contributed by the district of the 24-Parganas alone and were apparently due to the wider circulation of the rules regarding redemption. In Chittagong, however, where the number of petty estates unredeemed is 13,544, the proprietors are still reported to be unwilling to redeem.

* * * * * * *

Remittances of land revenue, cesses and rent by means of special money orders.

28. The number of revenue money-orders and the amount of land revenue and cesses remitted thereby increased from 253,849 and Rs. 22,92,810 in the preceding year to 369.870 and Rs. 24,11,712, respectively, in the year under report, which indicates that the system is growing in popularity, especially among the proprietors of petty estates. The increase in the number of orders may also be attributed to the reduction in the money-order fee for sums of Rs. 5 and less, and also to the introduction, during the year, of separate forms of money-order for land revenue and cesses. The average value of each order was Rs. 6-8-4 against Rs. 9-0-6 of the previous year. The remittances exceeded a lakh of rupees in each of the districts of Midnapore, Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Chittagong, Shahabad and Muzaffarpur.

29. Payment of rent by money-order was in force throughout Bengal, except in the districts of Darjeeling, Cuttack, Balasore, Angul, the Sonthal Parganas and the districts of the Chota Nagpur Division. The system continues to expand as tenants become more familiar with its advantages; the reduction in the money-order fee for sums of Rs. 5 and less also contribut-ing to this result. It is not generally regarded with favour by the landlords, because they are deprived of the opportunity of realising interest and levying other demands, while to their collecting staff it causes the loss of the perquisites usually taken when payment is made in person. On the other hand, the tenants whose relations with their landlords are strained or who live at some distance from the cutcherries prefer to remit rent by money-order.

The total number of money-orders in the province increased from 69,660 in 1903-1904 to 70,841 in the year under review. The increase is shared by the Presidency, Dacca, Patna, Bhagalpur and Orissa Divisions. The number of orders refused by landlords fell in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions. In the Bhagalpur Division the percentage of refusal rose in all the districts except Purnea. The rise was slight in Bhagalpur, but marked in Monghyr and Malda. In the latter district it rose from 20·9 to 56·4 owing to non-acceptance by certain zamindars on the ground that the names of the remitters were not registered in their sarishta (office). The system is most successful in the Chittagong district, though the percentage of refusal has slightly increased from 1·3 in the previous year to 2·3. Next comes Jalpaiguri, where out of 1,732 money-orders issued, 125, or 7·2 per cent. were refused. The percentage refused by landlords in Champaran rose from 53 to 73·3, and seems to indicate a decrease in friendly relations between landlords and tenants. There has been little improvement in Puri, where the number increased from 7 covering Rs. 72, to 24 covering Rs. 328. In the Chota Nagpur Division, though the system is not in force, rents remitted by money-order are accepted in Government khas mahals.

Operation of the sale laws.

30. There was a decrease in the number of both defaults and sales as compared with the previous year. Out of 12,654 estates, shares and interests which became liable to sale for the non-payment of Government dues, against 13,764 in 1903-1904, 1,192, or 9·4 per cent. were actually sold, against 1,245, or 9 per cent. in the previous year. The amount realised by sale was Rs. 8,04,077, or 4·9 times the Government revenue, as against 3·8 in the previous year. Out of 173 appeals preferred to Commissioners against sales, 55 were successful and recommendations for the annulment of sales on the ground of hardship were made to Government in 19 cases.

* * * * * * *

33. The chief causes which led to estates in various districts being brought to sale during the year were disputes among co-sharers, wilful defaults, diluvion, difficulty in getting possession when estates had diluviated but subsequently reformed insolvency of proprietors and annulment of encumbrances.

	District.	Percentage of sales on defaults.		District.	Percentage of sales on defaults.
1.	Hazaribagh ...	28·5	15.	Mongbyr ...	11·7
2.	Hooghly ...	27·4	16.	Patna ...	11
3.	Faridpur ...	24·5	17.	Khulna ...	10

13.	Backergunge ...	12 6	27.	Balasore ...	5·5
14.	Bankura ...	12·5	28.	Darbhanga ...	5 2

34. The proportions of sales to defaults in the districts in which sales were most numerous are noted on the margin. The sale law was generally administrated with due leniency and moderation. The rule that the sales of one kist should be held before the next kist day was generally observed.

Working of the Public Demands Recovery Act I (B.C.) of 1895, as amended by Act I (B.C.) of 1897.

35. Appendix IX shows the number of certificate cases instituted, disposed of and pending under the various heads of demands. The total number of certificates filed was 168,345, against 173,193 in the previous year, showing a decrease of 4,848 cases. The decrease appears under the heads "Rent due to Government" and "All other certificates made under section 7 (1)." The decrease under the first head is reported from all Divisions except Patna and Chota Nagpur.

36. The percentage of certificates disposed of to the total number for disposal is 81·6 against 80·5 in the previous year. The highest percentage (91·1) was in the Orissa Division, and the lowest (66 7) in the Chota Nagpur Division. The cases disposed of were in excess of the institutions in all the Divisions except the Presidency and the Chota Nagpur Divisions.

As to the falling off in the disposal of cases in the Presidency Division, the Commissioner writes:—

"Including the number pending at the beginning of the year, the total number of cases for disposal was 17,862, against 15,980 in the preceding year. Out of these 13,474 cases or 75 4 per cent. were disposed of against 83·0 in the previous year. The most unsatisfactory point to be noticed is the large increases of cases pending more than six months for which the 24-Parganas is almost solely responsible. The percentage of disposals in the 24-Parganas was 65·5, against 83·42 in the previous year. The decrease in the percentage of disposals is explained to be due to the fact that a large number of cases (2,157) were instituted during the last quarter of the year. The explanation can be only partially correct. The number pending for more than six months in this district rose from 88 in the preceding year to 1,076.

* * * * * * * *"

37. The subjoined table shows the stages of procedure at which demands were satisfied in the several Divisions:—

Division.	Number of cases in which payments were made on mere issue of notices.	Number of cases in which payments were made on attachment of property.	Number of cases in which recourse to actual sale was necessary.	Number of cases in which warrants were issued and the amounts were paid without imprisonment of defaulters.	Number of Debtors imprisoned.

{1903-1904 ...	48,809	99,403	6,427	2,064	26	43

38. The percentages of cases in which payments were made on the issue of notice and on attachment of property out of the total number of cases disposed of were 26 6 and 58·5 against 28 and 56 9 respectively in the previous year. Postcard notices were issued in some cases in the districts of Noakhali, Cuttack and Puri before the filing of certificates.

39. The working of section 21 of the Public Demands Recovery Act, which permits a judgment-debtor to redeem his property, after sale, by payment of the amount of the certificate with costs and of a penalty equal to one-tenth of the auction-price to the purchaser, has been satisfactory. In various districts auction-purchasers are not unwilling to have their money back with one-tenth of the purchase-money as profit.

* * * * * * * *

40. The working of the Certificate Department, on the whole, was satisfactory, both as regards disposal of cases in excess of institutions and reduction in the proportion of cases remaining at the close of the year. Excluding the district of the 24-Parganas, the cases pending for more than six months would show an appreciable decrease.

* * * * * * * *

Roads and communications.

56. The expenditure on roads and communications in Government estates amounted to Rs. 1,26,912 against a Government grant of Rs. 1,06,085. The expenditure exceeded the grant in all Divisions, except the Presidency and Bhagalpur Divisions.

* * * * * * * * *

Condition of raiyats in Government Estates.

60. The condition of the raiyats in Burdwan was, on the whole, not satisfactory, owing to the damage caused by the excessive flood in July, but the suspension of the realisation of the first two instalments of rent till the harvesting of the winter rice and spring crops afforded sufficient relief. In Birbhum it was better than last year, while in Hooghly it was generally good. In Bankura the tenants were unfortunate, as they suffered from a succession of bad harvests and the damage done to their holdings by the river Darkeswar. The early cessation of rainfall in the latter part of the season somewhat affected the outturn of the winter rice crop in the Sadar khas mahals in Midnapore. The raiyats of the Contai estates in the same district, except the water-logged tracts of the Contai and the Bhagwanpur Circles, had good crops and were generally prosperous. In the tracts referred to there has been a partial failure of crops owing to defective drainage. To remedy this, Government has sanctioned the clearance of silt from 10 khals in the Contai subdivision at a cost of Rs. 9,211, and the drainage of the tract near the Tajpur embankment at a cost of Rs. 11,751. These works are being executed under the supervision of the Public Works Department. The condition of the raiyats in the Tamluk khas mahals was generally good, while that of the Ghatal Government estates was fair. In the latter there was a partial failure of crops and the raiyats suffered from a severe outbreak of malarial fever. In paragraph 61 of last year's report reference was made to an appeal by the Commissioner for the opening of dispensaries in two circles, viz., Bhagwanpur and Birbandar. The residents of the latter circle are willing to contribute Rs. 17-8 per mensem for the purpose and to provide a suitable building for a dispensary. But the residents of the Bhagwanpur Circle decline to make any contribution for the proposed dispensary in that circle, though they agree to provide suitable quarters for it.

61. The material condition of the khas mahal raiyats was generally satisfactory throughout the Presidency Division, but in certain areas crops suffered from untimely rain and inundation of salt water. The khas mahal tenants in the Rajshahi Division were, on the whole, prosperous and escaped epidemic disease and other natural calamities, though the rainfall in the year under report was not altogether favourable. The condition of the tenants in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions was generally good. Though the season was not so favourable in Tippera as in the preceding year, the short outturn of jute was compensated for by high prices, and the prosperity of the tenants does not seem to have been appreciably affected. In Noakhali good harvests were obtained, which, however, led to lower prices. In the Chittagong district the outturn of paddy crops was good though the winter crop suffered to some extent from the unusually high flood in the Cox's Bazar subdivision in August 1904, and a cyclonic gale in the northern part of the district in November 1904. Rabi crops were seriously damaged by the heavy continuous rain in March last. It is stated that the people of the Cox's Bazar have hardly yet regained their former prosperity.

62. In the Patna Division the condition of the tenants was, on the whole, satisfactory. The raiyats of some estates suffered from plague, and some damage was done to the crops by hail and frost. The condition of the khas mahal tenants in Bhagalpur and Purnea was good, while in Monghyr and Malda it was, on the whole, fair. The Ganges flood in August caused great hardship for a time in Monghyr, but prompt measures were taken and there was no loss of life in any Government estate. In the Sonthal Parganas both the bhadoi and winter crops were poor, but activity in the lac trade and the abundant mahua crop gave considerable relief to the raiyats. The condition of the tenants of all the Government estates in the Orissa Division was generally prosperous, though owing to insufficiency of rain in September and October, there was some loss of crops in Puri. The condition of the raiyats in Hazaribagh and Ranchi was generally good and prosperous, while in Palamau there was a marked improvement. It is reported that the Hos of the Kolhan Government Estate in Singhbhum are in a very prosperous condition.

Abandonment of dual control of cadastral survey and record-writing.

67. The system of dual control of cadastral survey and Khanapuri (record-writing), hitherto followed under the rules in Appendix C to the Survey and Settlement Manual, 1900, came under the consideration of the Board. At the early stages of the survey and settlement operations in Bengal, such a system was necessary; now, however, the Settlement Department have been taught to understand correct methods of survey and, for the better and more efficient control of establishments, a change in the existing system has been recommended by the local officers. A conference was accordingly held, since the close of the year, of some experienced officers to consider the matter, and it was decided to recommend that the dual control should be abandoned in the Chota Nagpur and the Eastern Bengal operations with effect from the 1st October 1905, to be replaced by a system in which the entire responsibility for cadastral survey and khanapuri rests with the Settlement Department. In the case of Bihar, however, the old procedure will, it is recommended, continue for the present.

* * * * * * * *

Settlements.

70. In his Settlement Report for the survey year ending the 30th September 1904, the Director of Land Records, Bengal, has given an account of the progress made in the settlement operations under his control. A net increase in the revenue of Rs. 51,479 was obtained.

* * * * * * * *

Settlements under the Bengal Tenancy Act under the supervision of Commissioners of Divisions.

71. An area of 123,900 acres in 276 villages within Government estates, containing more than 20,300 tenants, was under settlement during the year. The total expenditure amounted to Rs. 25,949. The greater portion of the area under settlement lay in Mymensingh, Murshidabad, and Pabna.

Board's Order No. 2977A., dated the 11th April 1904, to Director of Land Records.

72. The Board have issued instructions for the gradual training of the district kanungos in survey and settlement work. It has been decided by Government that the staff of gazetted officers should be increased so that no officers below the rank of Sub-Deputy Collectors be appointed as Survey and Settlement or Assistant Settlement Officers. A scheme for the training of Munsifs in Survey and Settlement work by deputation is also under the consideration of Government.

* * * * * * * *

Chilka lake fisheries.

79. The relative rights of Government and the zamindars in the fisheries of the Chilka Lake in Puri were specially enquired into in the previous year and, after considering the reports of the local officers and a memorial of the Raja of Parikud, the Government, in consultation with the Board, Government order No. 3355, dated 11th August 1904, and No. 3358, dated 13th idem.

decided that they should not interfere with the fisheries in the Chota Chilka, including those comprised in the pargana of Parikud, that the levy of the cess called parikanda and other fees levied on transit or fisheries in the open waters of the Bara Chilka should be declared illegal, and that the fishery in that part of the lake should be declared free to the public.

* * * * * * * *

Irrigation and drainage.

82. These paragraphs do not relate to any of the large irrigation schemes maintained by the Public Works Department.

Burdwan Division: Midnapore.

83 In Midnapore Rs. 5,632 were spent for the improvement of minor drainage channels in the Government estates. The remodelling of the Katigaon and Mirzapore khals and the silt clearance of Panipiya khal, which were carried out by the Public Works Department, have much benefited the raiyats of both the Majnamutha and Jalamutha Estates. For the improvement of the drainage of the Contai subdivision Government sanctioned the clearance of silt of the ten khals falling into the Contai nala at an estimated cost of Rs. 9,211, and the scheme for the improvement of the drainage of the tract near the Tajpur embankment at an estimated cost of Rs. 11,751. These works are under the supervision of the Public Works Department. The scheme for the drainage of the Asgowal circuit is still under consideration.

Presidency Division: 24-Parganas.

85. The important scheme for the drainage of the Magrahat and Koarapukur swamps, for improving the condition of a large tract of country measuring 290 square miles and the navigation channels in the southern portion of the 24-Parganas has been estimated to cost Rs. 17,39,000, exclusive of the capitalised value of the cost of maintenance. Out of this, Government has promised a contribution of Rs. 5,00,000. The balance is to be paid in 30 years by the levy of an additional cess equivalent to four times the road cess.

Presidency Division: Murshidabad.

Work commenced towards the end of the year and made satisfactory progress. In Murshidabad it is proposed to construct two sluices, one at Mongonpara and the other at Loknathpur in the Bagirathi embankment. The project of the Basantpur cut to drain the country to the east of Dewansarai road near Chungta and the excavation of the old drainage channel at Poramari were taken up during the year. In Jessore satisfactory progress was made in the execution of the works for the improvement of the drainage of the town of Magura. Rupees 2,405 have been spent by the District Board in carrying out the scheme. Public subscriptions, under the lead of the Raja of Naldanga, are being raised for the excavation of two khals, one from Benolepur to the Madhumati and the other from Palita to Jodukhali, connecting the latter with the Navaganga river. A project for connecting the Garoi and Kumar near Nakole, estimated to cost about one and-a-half lakhs of rupees, was under consideration during the year. In Khulna a small khal was re-excavated at a cost of Rs. 71. The re-excavation of the Alaipari khal was undertaken by the Public Works Department at an estimated cost of Rs 91,000. A scheme for the drainage of the subdivisional head-quarters of Bagerhat and the surrounding villages under the Sanitary Drainage Act was started during the year.

Presidency Division: Khulna.

86. In Jalpaiguri there were two large schemes, (1) drainage of the Chalan bil, and (2) drainage of Cherial bil, and two irrigation channels, one at Kariabondar in Maynaguri and another at Tapshikhata in Alipur.

Rajshahi Division: Jalpaiguri.

87. A considerable scheme for the irrigation of private lands from the Phalgu river in the Patna district and a second scheme for the irrigation of the Gora Katara Government estate are under consideration.

Patna Division: Patna.

88. The Rajmahal drainage scheme in the Sonthal Parganas, on one side of the railway line between Rajmahal and Tinpahar, is nearly complete.

Bhagalpur Division: Sonthal Parganas.

89. In the Government estates of Puri ordinary irrigation and drainage works were constructed and repaired at a cost of Rs. 1,804 out of the improvement grant. In Angul the survey of three large irrigation projects was undertaken under the supervision of the Public Works Department. In that town a large drainage scheme is now under the consideration of the Municipal Commissioners. Some considerable irrigation and drainage schemes in the district of Balasore are also under contemplation.

Orissa Division: Puri and Balasore.

90. In Palamau certain irrigation works were taken in hand during the year, which will provide large reservoir capacity. In Singhbhum irrigation is effected by bandhs or catchment reservoirs only. During the year ten new bandhs were constructed, the total cost of which was Rs. 1,844.

Chota Nagpur Division: Palamau and Singhbhum.

91. The embankments are reported to have been generally maintained in good condition during the year.

Embankments.

92. The 53 miles of Government embankment on the banks of the Damodar and 22 miles on the right bank of the Adjai in the district of Burdwan were efficiently maintained during the year. There are at present six gaps existing on the base of the retired embankment at Nathu, Mohunpur and Berupara, all of which were protected during the year. The main channel of the Damodar below the Begna breach is very rapidly silting up. The bed of the river being higher than the Begna channel, no water can go down the river below the Begna during the cold and hot seasons. A proposal to improve the main channel and to prevent the river water from flowing off through the Begna breach is under consideration. After the floods of the 18th July 1904 serious erosion started in the bank of the 12th and 13th mile of the Damodar left embankment at Tacona. Owing to the fear of a serious breach in the embankment at this place a retired embankment was completed during the year under report. The effect of the retirement of the embankment on the right bank of the Damodar has, on the whole, proved beneficial. The area damaged by the deposit of sand since the opening of the Bongacha and Lakra breaches in 1890 is now gradually becoming arable by silt deposits, and it is hoped that within the next few years the country on the right side of the river will be raised above the highest flood level.

Burdwan Division: Burdwan, Midnapore and Hooghly.

In Midnapore there are 23 embankments, of which 19 are maintained under the contract system, and four by the apportionment of the actual expenditure incurred by the Public Works Department. Of the 23 embankments, one (the Joki embankment) is in charge of the Executive Engineer of the Balasore Division, and the remaining 22 in charge of the Executive Engineer, Cossye Division. The new contracts with regard to the 19 embankments have been sanctioned for 15 years from April 1904 at an annual jama of Rs. 49,763-3. The contract with regard to the Joki embankment has also been renewed for 15 years from 1901-1902 at an annual jama of Rs. 994. Out of a total demand of Rs. 1,18,201, including the balance of the last year, Rs. 80,050 were realised, including Rs. 6,009 as advance payment. Ten prosecutions against 19 in the previous year were instituted by the Public Works Department under the Embankment Act for the unauthrised construction of bands on lands within the prohibited area: 15 persons were implicated in these cases, and all of them were convicted.

In Hooghly, out of the total amount of Rs. 38,698-1-3 advanced up to the 31st March 1905 for the four projects of (1) Kumral sluice, (2) Madaria khal left embankment, (3) Naya Chak and (4) Rampur west drainage cut, Rs. 28,080-8 was realised up to the end of the year, leaving a balance of Rs. 10,617-9-3. Of this balance, Rs. 10,513-4-6 due from the Burdwan Raj was struck off under the orders of Government. In the Ulubaria subdivision a proposal has been made to take over the embankments, and the matter is under consideration of Government.

93. In the 24-Parganas, there was no alteration in the total length of schedule D embankments which are 210 miles. In these embankments 49 sluices, including one takavi sluice, were maintained at the cost of Government, while 26 takavi sluices were maintained at the cost of the zamindars, besides these, there are three Government sluices maintained by the Calcutta Corporation. These were reported to have been somewhat neglected by the Corporation and are in a bad state of repair. The question of their retransfer to the Public Works Department is under consideration. All the other sluices were reported to be in good condition. A takavi embankment, nearly seven miles long from Kalabari to Srikristopur, was nearly completed during the year, and the expenditure incurred was Rs. 41,258. Three takavi sluices were constructed at Tangraberia, Srikristopur and Dhulkali at a cost of Rs. 22,917. Besides the above the construction of three retired lines of embankment was commenced during the year.

Presidency Division: 24-Parganas, Murshidabad and Khulna.

In Murshidabad most of the zamindari embankments were inspected during the year. Many of these were not in good repair. As regards those for which pulbondi allowance is payable, necessary steps were taken to have the repairs executed by the zamindars In one case the embankment had been breached by the flood, and the zamindars' pulbondi allowance was stopped in consequence. As regards the embankment for which pulbondi allowance is not payable, the Subdivisional Officers were asked to use their influence with the zamindars with a view to induce them to execute necessary repairs as soon as possible. The scheme for the construction of an embankment near Kashipur was taken up, and the Executive Engineer reported that it would protect 3,000 bighas of land, and estimated the cost at Rs. 3,100. The Collector of Khulna reported that the embankments in his district were maintained in fairly good condition. Rupees 2,020 were expended in constructing new embankments in Government estates in the Sadar and Bagerhat subdivisions. The Collector, Mr. Ahmad, has pointed out that the district of Khulna needs not only large embankments to prevent the inflow of salt-water, but also the drainage of excess water from the fields.

94. In Chittagong the annual expenditure for the maintenance of embankments is increasing year by year. The sea having encroached in many places, the maintenance of the western embankment of the Kutubdea island has now become a serious question. In addition to Rs. 600 allotted for ordinary repairs of the embankment which suffered from an abnormally high tide in August last, the Board of Revenue sanctioned a further sum of Rs. 2,000 for protecting the embankment by iron pipe sluices designed to close automatically and keep out tide water. The Khonkhonabad embankment in the Satkania Circle was encroached upon by the sea and a retired line further inland has to be constructed: for this a sum of Rs. 8,758 was sanctioned by the Board of Revenue. A part of the broken embankment having been swept away by the high flood, a sum of Rs. 500 was spent on urgent repair to protect rice-fields from further inundation. The Bonskhali sea-board embankment and Gahirasaronga embankments were maintained in proper repair at a cost of Rs. 3,192. The work of the Gomatah and Pokekhali embankments in the Cox's Bazar has been completed, but still some additional work at a cost of Rs. 2,766-6-6 is necessary in order wholly to protect the land from the ingress of salt water.

Chittagong Division: Noakhali.

95. The Gandak embankment which runs through the four north Gangetic districts of Patna Division is maintained under the contract system. Out of a total demand of Rs. 71,789, a sum of Rs. 49,685 was collected and a sum of Rs. 8,021 adjusted from the previous advance collections. The balance outstanding at the close of the year was Rs. 14,083. The Turki and Doudpur embankments in Muzaffarpur, the Ganges embankment in Darbhanga, and the Sakribandh in Patna and Gaya were maintained under the takavi system, Patna Division.

96. There are four public embankments in Bhagalpur Division, viz. (1) the Monghyr embankment in Begusarai, (2) the Choudan embankment in Banka, (3) the Belwa embankment in Purnea, and (4) the embankment on the right bank of the river Mahananda. The Mahananda embankment protects the district head-quarters of Malda and is maintained entirely by Government. In August last a severe flood from the Ganges submerged a large part of the Begusarai subdivision of Monghyr and damaged the embankment known as the Guptabund near Begusarai. In consequence of the disastrous effects of last year's flood, the Government directed the initiation of proceedings under the Embankment Act for bringing the embankment under its provisions. The Collector has since been taking the necessary steps, at the cost of the zamindars, to repair last year's breaches.

Bhagalpur Division.

97. All the embankments maintained under Act XXXII of 1855 remained under the charge of the Public Works Department. No serious breaches were reported from any district except Balasore, where the Jamoconda embankment was breached in three places by the floods of the Subarnarekha river. In Cuttack a stone-paved weir across a spill channel of the Brahmani river known as the Danardan Ghai was practically completed during the year. The entire cost, estimated at Rs. 12,141, was contributed by the people interested. The Collector, Mr. Fischer, has interested himself in this project, which, it is hoped, may be followed by other similar works to minimise the destructive effects of still channels. In Puri the breach at Adlabad on the left bank of the Bhargovi which had been left open for many years was closed, and a stone-paved weir was also constructed at Achutpur on the left bank of the same river for the discharge of the surplus water.

113. The reports indicate that the new Act has generally worked smoothly. No case of enhancement of rents by landlords immediately after a partition has been brought to light. The Collector of Jessore reports that the provision* in the new Act for the distribution among the tenants of parchas which contain particulars of the holdings and the existing rents serves to check any subsequent attempt on the part of zamindars to enhance the rents.

117. Proceedings for the acquisition on behalf of Government, Municipalities, District Boards, Railways, etc., of land covering an area of 4,913 acres were confirmed by the Board during the year at a total cost of Rs. 22,63,728, as compared with an area of 8,486 acres, costing Rs. 29,73,472, during the preceding year. The abatements of annual revenue allowed on account of the lands acquired for or at the cost of Government amounted to Rs. 321; and a sum of Rs. 22,464 was paid to Government as the capitalised value of the Government revenue amounting to Rs. 1,139 abated on account of lands taken up for local bodies and companies.

Land acquisition.

118. Of the total expenditure incurred, over 7¾ lakhs were on behalf of Municipalities, over 6 lakhs were on behalf of Government and over 5½ lakhs on behalf of Railways. The follwing projects of which the cost exceeded Rs. 1,00,000 may be specially mentioned:—

		Rs.
1.	Widening of the Calcutta Municipal Office Street ...	2,20,395
2.	Public square in the Jorabagan Ward, Calcutta ...	2,13,727
3.	Official residence of the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta	2,01,000
4.	Cuttack-Midnapore-Calcutta extension of the Bengal Nagpur Railway.	1,96,511
5.	Improvement of the Calcutta Port Commissioners' Railway and the work connected therewith at Bagbazar ...	1,66,854
6.	Quarters for the nurses of the Calcutta Medical College and Eden Hospitals, Calcutta.	1,27,753

120. The most important new projects for the acquisition of land for which orders were received during the year were the following:—

(1) Extension of the Bengal Veterinary College at Belgachia, in the 24-Parganas.
(2) Acquisition of No. 10, Hare Street, and No. 1, Council House Street, for the construction of public offices in Calcutta.
(3) New nurses' quarters in connection with the Calcutta Medical College Hospital.
(4) Staff quarters in Calcutta for the Eastern Bengal State Railway.
(5) New Rifle Range at Jaffarpur in the 24-Parganas for the use of troops at Calcutta, Barrackpore, and Dum-Dum.
(6) Circuit-house at Patna for the residence of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal when in Bihar.
(7) Bairagnia-Shikarpur extension of the Tirhut State Railway in Muzaffarpur and Champaran.
(8) Bhagalpur-Kachari extension of the Hajipur-Katihar branch of the Tirhut State Railway in Bhagalpur.
(9) Construction of a railway line from Katihar to Malda in Purnea and Malda.
(10) Police school and quarters for Government officers at Ranchi.

121. Lands for the following and other projects were also under acquisition:—

The Ondal-Sainthia (Chord) Branch of the East Indian Railway in Burdwan and Birbhum; the Kaunia-Bonarpara extension of the Eastern Bengal State Railway in Rangpur; the Gaya-Barakar Railway in Hazaribagh and Manbhum; the Grand Chord line, Bhujudih-Hariharpur section of the Midnapore-Jherria extension of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway in Manbhum; the Bettiah-Bagaha extension of the Tirhut State Railway in Champaran; the Mausi-Baptiahi extension of the Tirhut State Railway in Monghyr and Bhagalpur; the main line and the Jiaganj to Lalgola Ghat extension of the Murshidabad Branch of the Eastern Bengal State Railway in Murshidabad; the improvement of the Port of Chittagong and the sites for public offices and residence of officials in the town of Chittagong.

125. The number of current leases granted under the rules of 1853 in the 24-Parganas and Khulna Sundarbans remained the same as in the previous year, viz., 115. The rent payable on account of these leases rose from Rs. 1,00,055 to Rs. 1,01,346. The maximum revenue which will be eventually realised from these leases according to the term stipulated is Rs. 1,10,607. The area comprised is 380,464 acres. No new cultivation leases were granted during the year to large or to small capitalists. The number of new cultivation leases to large capitalists at the close of the year was 203, against 204 in the preceding year. The area comprised in these leases was 360,982 acres with an eventual maximum revenue of Rs. 2,13,734. The reclamation operations in Fraserganj in the 24-Parganas portion of the Sundarbans began on the 15th November 1904 and are still in progress. The area actually cleared was 2,611·20 acres, or 7,899 bighas. The expenditure incurred up to the close of the year amounted to Rs. 65,174-10-5, against an allotment of Rs. 58,050. The cost of the operations per bigha on the total expenditure is a little over Rs. 8. If, however, the value of the dead stock in hand be excluded, the cost per bigha on the total area cleared is nearly Rs. 6.

* * * * * * *

127. The Backergunge portion of the Sundarbans was transferred during the year from the jurisdiction of the Commissioner in the Sundarbans to that of the District Collector, and under Government orders a system of raiyatwari settlements will in future replace the leases to large and small capitalists. Draft rules are now under the consideration of Government. The survey of chur Mir Mahomed Ali, parts I and II, in the district of Noakhali, was finished in December 1903, but Mr. Sunder's report on the subject was submitted to the local officers in June 1904. A raiyatwari settlement has been proposed for the tract. The proposal is under the consideration of the Board, as also the question of granting a special allotment for the reclamation of waste lands in the district.

129. The levy of illegal cesses in addition to rent prevails more or less throughout the province. Long custom and inability to resist the authority of the landlord prevent the tenants from availing themselves of the protection afforded by the law. Usually the tenants make these excess payments in consideration of a return in the shape of laxity of collections, abstention from enhancements which could be lawfully made and small personal privileges such as those relating to tanks, trees, etc., and also with a view to secure the good-will of the landlord and his servants. There has, however, been a growing tendency on the part of the tenant to resist such demands, and it is hoped that the extension of the survey and record-of-rights may in the future impose a practical check on such exactions. * * * *

130. In Ranchi, disputes between raiyats and landlords regarding rates of rent, predial services, etc., are still as common as ever. Five cases for commutation of services into their money value were instituted during the year against four in the previous year. The Settlement Department has, however, proceeded smoothly on the whole with commutations of predial and other services known as rukumat and begari.

* * * * * * *

Maintenance of Land Records.

180. The subject of the maintenance of Land Records is now dealt with in the Director's Settlement Report for the survey year ending the 30th September. No orders of the Government as to the procedure and agency for the maintenance of the settlement records of North Bihar, Orissa, and Chittagong have yet been received. Meanwhile an experiment is being tried in the Sadar subdivision of the district of Balasore with the object of utilising village agency in the scheme of maintenance of records. The co-operation of the panchayats may, it is believed, result in greater accuracy and economy. The experiment is being conducted by Mr. H. Savage, C.S.I., and the results have not yet been published.

Government order No. 411J., dated 16th January 1905, to Mr. H. Savage.

Weather and crops.

184. The rainfall of the province was above the normal in 30 districts and below it in 16. In the Burdwan Division most of the high lands were brought under cultivation and prospects were very hopeful till the early cessation of the rains in September and October. Floods in the Ghatal and Contai subdivisions in the district of Midnapore caused by the heavy rainfall in July and August injured the crops in the low-lying areas. Compared with the preceding year the rainfall was in excess in all the districts of the Presidency Division, but was not evenly distributed. The outturn was, however, satisfactory on the whole. The abnormal rainfall of June and July prevented the cultivation of winter rice in the greater portion of the low-lying lands in the Barasat and Basirhat subdivisions of the 24-Parganas. The crops in some parts of the Diamond Harbour subdivision also suffered. In Nadia a poor winter rice crop was obtained, but the outturn of the bhadoi rice and jute crop was favourable. The rabi crops fared badly in this district on account of hailstorms, heavy rain and extreme cold in February and March. In Murshidabad a bumper bhadoi crop was expected, but it suffered considerably from the Bhagirathi floods. The winter rice was damaged materially by drought, while the rabi crops had to contend against frost in February and heavy rains in March. In Jessore the outturn of the crops was about the same as in the preceding year. The outturn of the winter and bhadoi crop in Khulna was 98 and 74 per cent. respectively. In the districts of Rajshahi and Pabna, the outturn of both bhadoi and winter rice was better than that of the previous year, but owing to the early subsidence of the flood water the latter crop did not yield more than the normal outturn. The bhadoi crop in the remaining districts of the Rajshahi Division suffered from excessive and untimely rainfall, while deficiency of rain affected the final outturn of the winter crop. Jute was up to the average in Rajshahi. In Dinajpur and Pabna its outturn varied from 65 to 87·5, respectively. Oilseeds and other cereals were below the normal, and vegetables and the tobacco crops were damaged by the frost in February. The outturn of marwa in Darjeeling and that of tea in both the hilly districts was good. The rainfall in the Dacca Division was generally favourable to winter rice. In Dacca the crops were excellent. In Mymensingh boro rice was a normal crop, but the bhadoi rice and jute crops were short. Jute suffered from excessive rain early in the season, and the inadequate rainfall when the plant was maturing. In Faridpur the crop returns were satisfactory except in the the case of the rabi crops which were affected by the cold spell in January. The outturn in Backergunge was below normal except in the case of mustard. Winter rice was again a little below bhadoi rice, and pulses considerably below normal, while jute was only half a normal crop. In Tippera the excessive rainfall was unfavourable to jute, rice and other crops; the rabi crops suffered to a certain extent from excessive cold. In Noakhali heavy rain during the early part of April considerably damaged the rabi crops and endangered the aus crop. Fortunately, however, the rain in May was very favourable to this crop as also to the aman crop. Jute was much below the average, while betel nuts and cocoanuts were average. But for the heavy rainfall in November Chittagong would have enjoyed a bumper harvest. Notwithstanding that the winter rice in the low lands suffered considerably, the average was reached in most parts of the district. Seasonable rainfall in the Chittagong Hill Tracts produced a marked increase in the outturn of plough paddy. There was a slight increase in the outturn of jum paddy and cotton. The heavy downpour in July and August in the Patna Division caused considerable damage to the bhadoi. The paddy was injured by drought in September, and was only just saved from almost total failure in large areas by the storm of October 17th and 18th. Rain, hail and frost in February and March combined to reduce the outturn of the rabi crop which fell below the normal. A great deficiency in the rainfall in September caused much anxiety for the crops in the Bhagalpur Division, but fortunately good rain fell just before it was too late except in the greater part of the Sonthal Parganas. In Monghyr excessive rain in July and August damaged the bhadoi, while deficiency of rain in the next two months caused great loss of aghani rice and affected the outturn of the rabi. The outturn in Bhagalpur was, on the whole, satisfactory. The rabi crops of Malda suffered from excessive cold and frost. The unequal and untimely distribution of the rainfall in the Sonthal Parganas did not benefit any crop. The heavy downpour in June and July injured the bhadoi harvest. In the Rajmahal subdivision the loss was greater owing to floods. The extremely scanty rainfall in September and October reduced the outturn of aghani rice, while want of rain at sowing time, followed by excessive rain and cold in spring, affected the returns of the rabi crop. In Monghyr the outturn of opium (poppy) is estimated at 70 in the former against 97 in the preceding year, and in Bhagalpur at 100 in both years. The outturn of tobacco was poorer in every district than in the last year, as the crop suffered much from frost. It is stated that the cultivation of jute is extending with great rapidity in Purnea, the outturn being 81 against 75 in 1903-1904. The indigo outturn was poor except in Malda. The mango and mulberry crop in this district are stated to be of considerable importance, but no reliable statistics are as yet available regarding them. In Orissa the rainfall was not favourable to the bhadoi and the winter rice crops. The rainfall in the Chota Nagpur Division exceeded the normal, but the distribution was faulty. There was a heavy decrease in the outturn of the rabi crops in all the districts in the Chota Nagpur Division which was due to the want of seasonable rains and also to the frost and heavy rains in the cold weather.

Prices of food and labour.

185. Compared with the previous year the price of common rice was higher in 16, lower in 26, and stationary in 4 districts, viz., Darjeeling, Rangpur, Champaran and Singhbhum. In Calcutta the price of wheat was considerably lower, while in Murshidabad and Dacca and in three districts of the Rajshahi Division the price was higher than in the year 1903-1904. A similar rise occurred in Saran, Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, Singhbhum and Hooghly. The price of barley was higher in Faridpur, Burdwan, Murshidabad, Saran, Hooghly and the Sonthal Parganas. The price of this food-grain was specially low in Dacca. There was a fall in the price of gram in 18 districts and a rise in 24 others, chief of the latter being Midnapore, Faridpur, Calcutta, Jessore, Khulna, Champaran and the Sonthal Parganas. The price of maize increased in all the districts of the Chota Nagpur Division and declined in six districts of the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions. Owing to the reduction in the duty on salt, its price was lower in all the districts of the province with the exception of Burdwan, Midnapore, Bhagalpur, Sonthal Parganas, Pabna, Puri, Angul and Manbhum. The rise in most of these districts was, however, not appreciable.

186. As in the previous year, wages remained stationary except in a few localities They rose in Birbhum and Bankura owing to the opening of the railway line, and in Hooghly they showed a tendency to rise in consequence of the demand for labour in mills and factories. The Tibet mission caused an increase in wages in Darjeeling. In Dinajpur skilled labour and ordinary coolies received higher wages than in 1903-1904, while the rate for the former was somewhat higher also in Deoghur in the Sonthal Parganas. There was a slight increase in the wages of labourers in the Giridih subdivision and an upward tendency throughout the districts of Hazaribagh and Ranchi. In Nadia, however, the daily wages of unskilled labourers fell from 5 annas to 4 annas. The Collector explains that the high wages in 1903-1904 were probably due to the great demands for labour on the Ranaghat-Murshidabad Railway. In the year under review a steadier influx of labourers was obtained from other districts, and the work on the railway line is now nearing completion

Material condition of the people (including inter-district immigration and emigration).

187. In Burdwan, the material condition of the people was not prosperous during the year, in consequence of the partial failure of staple crops. In Birbhum, the condition was satisfactory, as there was a greater demand for labour and there was a good harvest of paddy straw, even where the paddy itself failed. Railway work provided for hundreds of labourers. In Bankura, the people are poor, and the agricultural population is heavily involved in debt. In Midnapore, the people were much better off, owing to the good outturn of winter rice. In the central part of the district the opening of the large railway workshop at Kharagpore caused a great demand for labour of all kinds. In Hooghly, the condition of the lower classes in the towns continued satisfactory, and they found plenty of work in the mills and other industries on good wages. The people in the mufassal, too, are many of them well-to-do traders, and the chikan needlework provides lucrative employment to a large number of Musalmans, and a considerable number of persons are also employed in the manufacture of cotton and tassar cloth and in brick and tile making. A great many are employed as clerks in Calcutta. There was considerable failure of the rice crop in unirrigable areas.

188. In the 24-Parganas, the condition of the people in the manufacturing centres was prosperous The Collector notices a general tendency towards decline in the prosperity of the people of rural tracts near the manufacturing centres. He remarked that there is great difficulty in cultivating the high lands surrounding the villages owing to the dearth of labour, and the result is the growth of dense jungles around village sites which seriously detract from the healthiness of the villages In Nadia, winter crops were poor, but the yield of the bhadôi rice was satisfactory. The construction of the Ranaghat-Murshidabad Railway provided work for the labouring classes. In Murshidabad, the bhadoi crops were damaged by excessive rain, while the aman suffered from floods as well as from want of seasonable rain. Measures were taken to relieve distress by advances under the Agriculturists' Loans Act and by a grant from Babu Ram Lal Mukerjee's fund. In Jessore, the condition of the people was not satisfactory, though harvests were fairly good, there being an epidemic of cholera and malaria of a severe type. The new industry of curing tobacco started in the previous year was in a satisfactory condition. In Khulna, the condition of the agricultural classes was better than in the previous year. The rice crop was good and the yield of betel and cocoanut was also satisfactory.

189. In the Rajshahi Division, the condition of the labouring classes was good, and, in Darjeeling, high wages were enjoyed by the coolies and dandiwallas owing to the demand for labour caused by the Tibet operations.

190. In the Dacca Division, there was no perceptible material change in the condition of the people, and the year was, on the whole, one of normal prosperity.

191. The development of industries in the district of Tippera demanded skilled labour, such as blacksmith, goldsmith and carpenters. In Noakhali, the people are, as a rule, well off, and no pressure of population was felt in any part of the district, though diluvion of the chur lands leads almost every year to temporary distress in individual cases. The Victoria Memorial Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition brought to light certain industries, such as manufacture of cloths, cutlery and wood work in Ramganj and mats in Feni The opening of the railway has given a marked impetus to the cultivation of jute, the exportation of which is steadily increasing. The steamer service to Kutubdia and Cox's Bazar has established the position of both these places as sea-side health resorts. A heavy storm on the 23rd November 1904 caused a number of wrecks among the fishing fleet at Sonadia. On the 18th of March a tornado passed over Moheskhal, causing some damage to property and loss of lives.

192. In the Patna Division, the prevalence of plague entailed much suffering among all classes in the districts of Patna, Gaya, Shahabad and Saran, and to a lesser degree in Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga. Champaran, however, was practically free from plague and from fever and cholera.

193. In the Bhagalpur Division, in consequence of a very severe flood from the Ganges in August, there was great loss of bhadoi crops in Begusarai, but some compensation was found in the deposit of silt which was of great benefit to the rabi crop. The help which was given from Ram Lall Mukerjee's fund and by loans from Government enabled the people to tide over the calamity. In the Sonthal Parganas, the year was, on the whole, a hard one for the agriculturists. The activity in the lac trade brought much money into the district. The health of the Division was not good. Plague re-appeared in Monghyr and Bhagalpur. Malarial fever raged throughout Purnea at the end of the rains and beginning of the cold weather.

194. The condition of the people in the Orissa Division was generally satisfactory. Although the outturn of the staple food-crop of the Division was below the normal, the loss was more than compensated by the surplus of food-stocks of the previous years and prices ruled easier than the year before which itself saw lower prices than any year since 1898-99. The railway with a gradually developing system of feeder roads is coming steadily into greater favour as a means of transport, and produce of the country is finding its way into large markets more quickly.

195. The people of the Chota Nagpur Division were, during the year under report, fairly prosperous. In Hazaribagh, there was no material change in the condition of the people, but the poorer classes who live chiefly on marua, makai and other bhadoi crops suffered to a certain extent from the bad outturn of those crops. Sufficient employment is, however, available at the coal and mica mines and on the Gaya-Katras Railway line which is still under construction. In Ranchi and Manbhum, the condition of the people was generally good. In Manbhum, the Railway construction works and lac industry gave employment to the labouring classes; the coal mines afforded work to 29,423 labourers. At Lesliganj, in Palamau, the yield of the crops was 62 per cent., though there was short rains. That so much was secured is due entirely to the repair and extension of irrigation works.

196. The passing of the Chota Nagpur Tenancy Amendment Act by prohibiting sales of agricultural holdings had a considerable effect in reducing the raiyats' borrowing power. This is especially noticeable in Dhalbhum, where the professional money-lender is chiefly found.

197. During the year under report, the immigration of Santhals and other aboriginse into Hooghly and Burdwan for cultivation, for work on the brick-fields and for coal mines continued. Nearly half the artisans in the jute mills belong to the districts of Bihar and the eastern part of the United Provinces and Orissa. No labourers of the district of Birbhum left the district or worked elsewhere. There was no immigration into Bankura. The number of registered emigrants with dependants who went from Bankura to the Assam tea-gardens was 223, against 216 in the previous year. In Midnapore, the recruitment of coolies to Assam altogether disappeared. Coolies are now engaged to immigrate entirely by free recruiters working under section 92 of Act VI of 1901. In the Sundarbans tracts, labourers from Orissa, Midnapore, Chota Nagpur and Santhal Parganas immigrated largely; some of them came with the object of settling permanently, others merely for temporary work during the harvest season. With the increase of new mills in the Barrackpore subdivision, the population of immigrants from Bihar and United Provinces increased rapidly. There was no emigration in the Rajshahi Division. The immigration of coolies from Chota Nagpur, Santhal Parganas and Nepal to work on tea-gardens in the Duars and Darjeeling took place as usual. The Tibet Mission led to the importation of a number of foreigners for employment on transport and road work. Permanent immigration of Santhals and Bunas into Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri and Rajshahi took place to some extent when these immigrants settled down and became regular cultivators. In the Dacca Division, there was the usual influx of up-country labourers to work at the jute presses during the rains and for earthwork during the cold weather. There was also the annual influx of labourers from the neighbouring districts into Backergunge during the aman harvesting season. Labourers came to Tippera from Chittagong and Noakhali and also from Bihar districts. Jute firms at Chandpur furnished employment to many labourers from Bihar and the United Provinces. Large number of labourert from Noakhali emigrated temporarily to Backergunge, Burma and Calcutta to harvest crops, to work in steamers or for purposes of trade. A large number of labourers went to Akyab and Rangoon to work in paddy-fields during the cold season. From the Cox's Bazar 25 families emigrated to Arracan, 203 families were recorded as having immigrated into the Chittagong Hill Tracts and 246 families as having emigrated to other districts, In Monghyr, 98 coolies were recruited for the tea districts, against 286 of the previous year. The decrease was attributed to the outbreak of plague at the recruiting season. In the Santhal Parganas, there was an increase in immigration at the end of the year. In the Orissa Division, the inter-district flow of labourers in search of employment also continued as before. Puri was as usual visited by streams of pilgrims, especially on the occasion of the Dole and Ruth Jatra festivals. In the Chota Nagpur Division, there was no immigration, save of those who came to work in the mines or on the railways. In regard to emigration, very large numbers of men migrated temporarily in the cold weather after the rice had been harvested eastwards, returning in the hot weather. During the year under report 4,270 persons, including dependants, were induced to emigrate to Assam to labour on the tea-gardens there.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

Extract (paragraphs 1 and 2) from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Home Department (Public), under date Calcutta, the 8th December 1899.

RESOLUTION.

The Secretary of State for India has brought to the notice of the Government of India that it not infrequently happens that natives of India, students or others, who have proceeded to England, desire to obtain passports to enable them to travel to foreign countries in which the possession of a passport is necessary or desirable, and that difficulty often arises from want of evidence to show that the applicant is a British subject, and therefore entitled to a passport. Appeals for assistance are also frequently addressed to His Lordship by destitute Indians who desire to return to their country and by students who, owing to embarrassed circumstances, are unable to complete their course of education.

2. In order to enable the Secretary of State to deal with such cases satisfactorily, the Governor-General in Council has decided that it is necessary to press upon Indian students and others visiting England the desirability of providing themselves, before their departure from India, with an authoritative certificate of identity, in the form appended to this Resolution, signed by the head of the district (in a Presidency Town, the Commissioner of Police), in the case of residents of British India and by the Political Officer in that of residents of Native States. For a student the certificate should be signed by the head of his last school or college and countersigned by the District Officer (in a Presidency Town, the Commissioner of Police) or Political Officer, as the case may be.

RULES FOR GRANTS-IN-AID TO COLLEGES IN BENGAL SANCTIONED IN BENGAL GOVERNMENT ORDER No. 2838T.—G., DATED THE 24TH OCTOBER / 7TH NOVEMBER 1905.

(1) Government from time to time sanctions grants-in-aid to colleges not under Government management, which work according to the Transfer Rules of the Department and which fulfil the conditions prescribed in the following rules.

(2) Annual grants are given in aid of ordinary recurring expenditure. Special grants are given in aid of non-recurring expenditure of a special character. Temporary grants are also given in aid of boarding establishments, in accordance with the principle laid down by the Government of India that boarding-houses and hostels should be made self-supporting, so far as recurring expenditure is concerned.

(3) Grants-in-aid are given on the principle of strict religious neutrality, and no preference will be shown to any college on the ground that any particular religious principles are or are not taught therein.

(4) Applications for grants-in-aid are made direct to the Director of Public Instruction in the case of first grade colleges and through the Divisional Inspector of Schools in the case of second grade colleges.

(5) Grants-in-aid will be given only to such colleges as require the payment of fees from their students. The fee-rates shall be fixed in consultation with the Director of Public Instruction at the time when the application for a grant is being made or renewed.

(6) Free-studentships shall not ordinarily exceed 5 per cent. of the total number of pupils on the rolls. The governing body of colleges are at liberty to admit, in addition to the 5 per cent. allowable, Muhammadans as free students up to the limit of 8 per cent. of the total number of students on the rolls, but not exceeding 12 in all. Colleges requiring special arrangements for free students must obtain the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction.

(7) The governing body of any college by whom application for a grant is made must appoint a Secretary from among themselves, or some responsible member of the staff, to conduct their correspondence with the Department. Every change of Secretary must be notified to the Director of Public Instruction under the signatures of the new Secretary and the Chairman of the governing body.

(8) Before a grant-in-aid is given or renewed, full information must be supplied on the following points, on which the amount of the grant, if given, will depend:—

(a) The constitution of the governing body, and the names of its members, together with their professions.

(b) The suitability of the buildings, their site and surroundings, accommodation for students, furniture, attached library and laboratory, lighting and ventilation of the rooms, drainage of the surrounding premises, and the efficiency of the sanitary arrangements for the students and staff.

(c) The pecuniary resources, permanent and temporary, on which the college will depend for support.

(d) The names, qualifications and salaries of the teaching staff, and the conditions governing their tenure of office.

(e) The average monthly receipts from fees, Government grants and other sources, and the average total monthly expenditure of the college in detail for each of the preceding three years.

(f) The average number of students in each class for each of the preceding three years.

(g) The rate of fees charged in each class.

(h) The results of public examinations during each of the preceding three years.

(i) The provision made for physical exercise.

(j) The extent of hostel accommodation.

(k) The amount of aid sought.

(l) The treasury at which the grant, if sanctioned, is to be payable.

(m) The name and the class of the college or colleges within ten miles of the Institution.

(9) Every new election to the governing body must be notified to the Director of Public Instruction under the signature of the Secretary and the member or members elected, in the case of first grade colleges, and, through the Divisional Inspector of Schools, in the case of second grade colleges. If the governing body is not considered to be sufficiently representative, the Director may suggest any necessary alterations.

(10) No grant shall be given, or, if given, it shall be withdrawn, unless the particulars given in connection with Rule 8 (b) are satisfactory.

(11) No new building shall be constructed for the college until the plan and estimates have been approved by the Director of Public Instruction.

(12) The appointment and dismissal of every Principal, Professor or Lecturer shall be notified to the Department. The Department shall have power to enquire into any case of removal of a member of the teaching staff.

(13) No grants shall be given, unless the conditions of residence of students are satisfactory, and unless due attention is paid to this point by the authorities of the college.

(14) Any college to which aid is given, together with all its account books and other records, shall at all times be open to inspection by the Director of Public Instruction, or a senior officer of the Department who may be deputed by Government for the purpose. In the case of second grade colleges, all account books and other records shall at all times be open to the inspection of the Divisional Inspector of Schools.

(15) All receipts from whatever sources or for whatever purposes collected must be entered in the account books of the college.

(16) Any balance at the credit of the college must be employed for college purposes only, and no portion of it shall be spent for any other purpose without the previous sanction of the Director of Public Instruction.

(17) The surplus funds of the college must be placed to the credit of the college in some Bank at the end of each quarter, and the account should be made out in the joint names of the Secretary and one of the members of the governing body who will be selected for the purpose by that body.

(18) The following books shall also be kept :—

(j) A stock book of scientific apparatus, chemicals, etc.
(k) A fee and fine collection book.
(l) A subscription book.
(m) An acquittance roll.
(n) A cash book.

(19) At visits of inspection, the inspecting officer shall enquire into the information supplied in accordance with the provisions of Rule 8, and also into—

(a) the efficiency of the teaching ;
(b) the state of discipline ;
(c) the adequacy of the professorial staff, college library, teaching appliances and equipment of laboratories ;
(d) the courses of study, subjects taught, routine of work and arrangements for exercises and tutorial assistance ;
(e) the strictness with which the college registers are kept and the transfer rules observed ;
(f) the degree of efficiency attained in the supervision of the hostels and messes attached to the college.

(20) Grant-in-aid colleges shall as a rule follow the rules in Government colleges in the matter of holidays. Exceptions may be made under special circumstances and with the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction.

(21) Government may claim a fair share of any balance at the credit of a grant-in-aid college at the time of its abolition, as well as of the sale proceeds of any college building or furniture towards the erection or purchase of which a grant may have been made by Government.

Annual Grants.

(22) Annual grants-in-aid shall not exceed in amount the sums to be expended from private sources (after excluding the fees of scholars), except in special cases, under special orders of Government.

(23) Grants will be sanctioned ordinarily for a period of three years ; but the Director of Public Instruction may, at any time during its currency, recommend the revision of any grant for reasons to be stated, and to which the college authorities shall have an opportunity of replying.

(24) The grant is payable every month or every quarter at the option of the Department.

(25) The monthly or quarterly bill in the accompanying form must be sent in duplicate to the Director of Public Instruction for countersignature, and must be accompanied by a certificate that all salaries due for, and up to, the previous month have been paid in full.

(26) The monthly bill and the certificate must be signed by the Secretary of the governing body or the Principal of the college.

(27) Salaries for service in any month become due on the first day of the following month:—

SPECIAL GRANTS.

(28) Grants may be given to the governing body of colleges in aid—

(a) of erecting, enlarging or furnishing college buildings;

(b) of executing extensive repairs; and

(c) in special cases, of paying off debts incurred in erecting or enlarging college buildings.

NOTE 1.—Expenditure in the purchase of buildings may be treated as expenditure in the erection of buildings.

NOTE 2.—The sum to be allotted annually for building grants to colleges will be fixed provisionally for a term of years. It will not, in ordinary circumstances, be reduced, though it may be increased for any year during that term.

NOTE 3.—Every application for a grant must be submitted to the Department not later than the 31st December, if the grant is to be admissible for sanction during the following financial year. If found to be in accordance with the rules, and in other respects deserving of support, it will be included in the list of 'approved applications.' If not so included the reasons shall be notified to the governing body.

NOTE 4.—In case of an application for a repair grant under this rule (b), the governing body will be required to show that the necessity for such a grant has not arisen from the neglect of current repairs in previous years.

(29) Except in the case of the foregoing rule, no grant shall be made in consideration of former expenditure in college buildings.

(30) In general the proportion of the Government contribution made under Rule 28 shall not exceed one-half of the amount guaranteed from private sources.

(31) Before a building grant is sanctioned, the site, plans, estimates, specifications, title and draft-trust deeds must be approved by the Director of Public Instruction. If the college receives no monthly grant, the governing body must also satisfy the Department that it is likely to be maintained in efficiency and that it will be open to inspection.

(32) The trust-deed must declare the building to be granted in trust for college purposes only. It must also provide for the legal ownership of the premises, for the proper maintenance of the building and for the inspection and management of the college.

NOTE (1)—This rule does not preclude the governing body from using the building for other purposes, subject, if necessary, to the sanction of the Department, when not required for the purposes of the college.

NOTE (2)—When the grant does not exceed Rs. 1,000, the governing body may execute a deed of acceptance in place of a trust-deed—vide Government order No. 584, dated the 13th November 1890.

(33) No grant is finally sanctioned until a certificate is received from the governing body setting forth that the funds in their hands will, when added to the grant, be sufficient to meet all claims and to close the account.

(34) Advances may be made from time to time out of the sanctioned grant on receipt of a report from the Public Works Department that the work is proceeding satisfactorily.

(35) The grant is not paid in full until:—

(1) a report is received from the Public Works Department or other sufficient authority that the building is satisfactorily completed;

(2) the trust-deed is duly registered and lodged with the Department.

NOTE.—"Title-deeds of property mortgaged to Government on account of building grants may, as hitherto, remain with the mortgagor,"—vide Government order No. 447T.—G., dated the 16th June 1890.

CHINA SEA—Palawan island, east and south-east coast.

Palawan island—Shoals.

No. 10 (first publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 1282 of 1905) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals off the east and south-east coasts of Palawan island:—

East coast—

1. A shoal of large extent, with a depth of less than 3 fathoms over it, the southern end of which is situated in approximately lat. 10° 46′ 30″ N., long. 119° 41′ 0″ E.
2. A shoal, with a depth of about one fathom over it, its northern end being situated in approximately lat. 10° 45′ 0″ N., long. 119° 46′ 30″ E. About 1½ miles to the eastward of this shoal there is another of small extent with a depth of less than one fathom over it.

South coast—

3. The shoal, with a depth of 6 fathoms over it, in approximately lat. 8° 42′ 30″ N., long. 118° 10′ 15″ E., is apparently correctly placed, but it is a dangerous reef with less water over it than shown on the Chart.
   There is another reef of similar character situated about 1½ miles S. 67° W. from this reef.
4. There are other shoals, with depths over them of 5 fathoms, white sand and coral, in approximately lat. 8° 39′ 0″ N., long. 118° 5′ 45″ E., but between this position and Palawan island the ground appeared foul and dangerous.

JAPAN—Nipon island, east coast.

Katsuura wan—Rock reported in approach.

No. 11 (first publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 1284 of 1905) that the Master of the British S.S. Stanley Dollar, drawing 23 feet, reports having struck on a rock on which a depth of 4 fathoms was obtained in the approach to Katsuura wan, situated in a position from which Hachiman zaki bore N. 68° W., distant 2½ miles.

Approximate position, lat. 35° 7′ N., long. 140° 21⅔′ E.

This danger has, therefore, been placed on the Charts as a rock with 3½ fathoms over it in the above position.

Caution.—As several British ships have struck in the vicinity of the salient points of the coast near Katsuura wan, Mariners are cautioned to give the shore hereabouts a berth of at least 3 miles; for the soundings in the neighbourhood are very uneven, and the bottom is rocky.

RESOLUTION REVIEWING THE REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO EXAMINE THE WORKING OF THE SEPTIC TANK INSTALLATIONS IN BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Calcutta, the 6th January 1906.

RESOLUTION—No. 418.

IN the Resolution of the Government of Bengal in the Municipal Department No. 236T.—M., dated Darjeeling, the 20th April 1904, the Lieutenant-Governor had under consideration the working of the septic tanks erected on the banks of the Hooghly These had rapidly increased in number, and, in view of complaints regarding their working and of the opinions expressed by expert authorities in England, it had become necessary to decide whether, and if so on what conditions, the discharge of the effluent into the river Hooghly might be permitted. His Honour accordingly appointed a Committee to report on the working of the septic-tank system in Bengal, and to advise on the various questions which had arisen. Their attention was specially directed to a letter of the Committee of the Jute Mills Association, asking for a determination of the points above and below Pulta and Serampore between which the discharge of the filtrates from the installations would not be permitted without further treatment, whether sand filtration would be accepted as efficacious, and what standard of purity would be insisted on. They were instructed also to examine the different methods by which the effluent could be disposed of, and generally to advise what changes required to be made in the exis ing installations and in their methods of working, so that the best results might be obtained.

2. The Committee submitted a report on the 29th December 1904. They were unable to submit a final opinion on the question whether the effluent might be so purified, both chemically and bacteriologically, that its discharge into the river Hooghly at any point might be safely permitted; but they arrived at some important conclusions, and recommended that further observations and experiments should be made before a final decision was arrived at. These have been satisfactorily carried out, and the Lieutenant-Governor is now in a position to review the whole question.

3. In paragraph 10 of the Report it is pointed out that the degree to which the effluents pollute the Hooghly depends not only upon their chemical and bacteriological characters, but upon the rapidity with which further purification takes place in the river, and upon the volume of water which passes down the Hooghly at any given time. As regards the last point the opinion is expressed in paragraph 14 that the action of Government must be determined not by the minimum but by the maximum pollution during the year; in other words by the pollution during the months of February and March. To ascertain the volume of water during those months a careful enquiry was made by the Superintending Engineer of the South-Western Circle, but it had not been completed when the Report was submitted. It shows that during the season referred to the minimum discharge, instead of falling as low as 2,000 cubit feet a second as the Committee had reason to suppose, is rarely below 3,000, and is usually above 3,500 cubic feet. The maximum amount of pollution is therefore very much less than was indicated by the evidence referred to in paragraph 12 of the Report.

4. The Committee were satisfied that the chemical characters of the effluent either were or might be made free from objection; but in view of their own enquiries, and of the investigations of Professor Clowes and Dr. Houston, they felt that they had no option but to acquiesce in the decision that effluents which are not subjected to bacteriological purification are potentially dangerous, if discharged into a river whose water is used for drinking purposes. They however instituted experiments for the purpose of ascertaining whether further bacteriological purification was practicable, and they at the same time expressed a strong opinion that if such purification could be effected this method of disposing of the effluent might be adopted without appreciable danger to the community. The standard of purity suggested by them was that of the river Hooghly itself at the point at which the discharge into it takes place.

5. The experiments referred to in the preceding paragraph have now been brought to a successful conclusion. They have been more prolonged than was anticipated because sand filtration and the application of sulphate of copper, which were first tried, proved to be too expensive if employed on such a scale as to give satisfactory results; and mixture with chlorinated lime, the method finally adopted, had to be tested on a practical scale as well as in the laboratory before it could be finally approved. Filtration through sand was found to give satisfactory results when the layer of sand was 3 feet thi ck, and when the rate of filtration was reduced to half gallon a square foot. This would, however, necessitate a very large filtration area, which could be constructed and maintained only at great expense. Sulphate of copper was tried both alone and in addition to filtration. The net result of the experiments was to show that the copper sulphate and sand filtration methods, either separately or in combination, were capable of purifying septic tank effluents, but that in practice they were likely to prove difficult and expensive in proportion to the amount of impurity in the material to be treated; and it was doubtful whether they would be practicable in the case of effluents of a high degree of impurity except as adjuncts to other methods of treatment. Sterilization of the septic tank effluent was then attempted by means of chlorinated lime. The experiments were first carried out at the Titaghur Mill, but were repeated at Kanchrapara because it was thought that the use of boiler waste water at the Titaghur installation might possibly have affected the result. The experiment proved equally successful in both cases. It was found that an addition of chlorinated lime equivalent to five grains for each gallon of effluent rendered the fluid virtually sterile and hence much purer than Hooghly water itself. It is in fact reported that when thus treated the fluid contained less living organisms than the Calcutta drinking water. The cost of the process is also exceedingly low, being not more than Rs. 10—15 a month for an installation for 2,000 persons. Detailed instructions for carrying out this process will be issued to those interested by the Sanitary Commissioner.

6. It appears therefore that if the installations are constructed and worked in accordance with the recommendations of the Committee, and if the effluent is further suitably treated with chlorinated lime in the manner proposed by the Sanitary Commissioner, the resulting discharge will be free from objection both from a chemical and from a bacteriological point of view. The Lieutenant-Governor accepts the conclusion that if these conditions are complied with there will no longer exist any sanitary ground for opposing the construction of new installations, or the continuance of those which are already built on suitable lines.

7. At present if an installation proves a nuisance owing to defects of construction or of working, action may be taken under rule 10 of the rules under the Indian Factories Act, 1891, published under Notification No. 1315, dated 30th April 1892, or under the nuisance sections of the Indian Penal Code. Power to take action when there is no likelihood of nuisance would require special legislation; and in view of the evidence now before him the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that no case for special legislation has been made out. There is however obviously a danger that temporary pollution might occur owing to the arrangements for working getting out of order; and the Sanitary Commissioner will therefore be asked to report to Government any proposal to erect an installation nearer to the Calcutta and Howrah water-supply intakes than the installations which at present exist. No such proposal would be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor without consulting his professional advisers, and obtaining the opinion of the Health Officer of the Corporation; and His Honour would be prepared to have recourse to legislation to enforce this position.

8. It is not to be expected that the last word as to the structure and working of the septic tanks has been said by the Committee; and the Lieutenant-Governor has moved the Government of India to obtain the services of the most highly qualified Sanitary Engineer available, and to arrange for his deputation to this Province for a period of not less than six months. It is hoped that his advice may lead to further improvements being made. In the meantime, however, the Lieutenant-Governor has been unable to delay longer the issue of orders on the report of the Committee, because it is necessary that the existing installations should be improved and properly worked, and that the construction of new installations should be permitted. The Sanitary Commissioner will, however, be directed to give the Managers of the Mills every assistance in his power to enable them to conform to the suggestions of the Committee and to purify the effluent with chlorinated lime.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to offer his thanks to the Members of the Committee, and to Captain Clemesha, I.M.S., Officiating Sanitary Commissioner, who brought the experiments for purifying the effluent to a successful conclusion. His Honour also desires to record his obligation to Lieutenant-Colonel Leslie, Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India, for the assistance he has given in connection with this inquiry.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of this Resolution, together with the reports on the experiments referred to in it, be forwarded to the Sanitary Board, the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, the Sanitary Commissioner, the Sanitary Engineer, the Calcutta Corporation, the Members of the Committee and Commissioners of Divisions, and that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

L. P. SHIRRES,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Note on some Experiments for sterilizing Septic Tank Effluent.

THE experiments with sulphate of copper and sand filtration have been reported on separately. The present note deals only with the treatment of the effluent by chlorine, which is the most active disinfectant known.

2. The substance actually employed was chlorinated lime. This is the cheapest form in which chlorine can be obtained in this country; and the quantity required for an installation for 2,000 people, if used in the proportion of five grains to the gallon of effluent, would cost only from Rs. 10 to Rs. 14 a month.

3. In the first experiment a small quantity of a good effluent was poured into each of six vessels, and chlorinated lime was mixed with it in a proportion varying from 5 to 30 grains to the gallon. After 24 hours one cubic centimetre of the contents of each jar was mixed with agar-agar and "plated" out in the usual way. The experiment was then repeated with a different effluent. The results showed that an almost sterile effluent was obtained when the quantity of chlorinated lime used amounted to between 15 and 20 grains to the gallon.

4. In the next experiment large quantities of the effluent were dealt with, as would be done in actual practice, over 3,000 gallons altogether being treated. A large masonry tank was half filled with effluent, and chlorinated lime was added in the proportion of 30 grains to the gallon. After 24 hours six plates were set. The results were:—

1st plate.	2nd plate.	3rd plate.	4th plate.	5th plate.	6th plate,
3 colonies.	3 colonies.	0 colony.	1 colony.	14 colonies (comprised in one group of moulds).	2 colonies.

The experiment was repeated at another latrine where 2,000 gallons of a very inferior effluent were treated. Thirty grains to the gallon were added, and after six hours plates were set. The following were the results:—

1st plate.	2nd plate.	3rd plate.	4th plate.
17 colonies, mostly moulds.	3 colonies.	14 colonies a group of moulds.	12 colonies.

In both these cases the untreated effluent gave millions of colonies per cubic centimetre.

5. As 30 grains per gallon had given such satisfactory results, the tank was emptied, cleaned out and refilled with effluent; this time 20 grains per gallon were added, and plates were plated out every hour in order to see if it was necessary to give a rest for the chlorine to act. The results are below:—

	1st plate.	2nd plate.	3rd plate.	4th plate.
After 1 hour	9	26	22	30	Average 22
„ 2 hours	12	17	13	20	„ 15
„ 3 „	30	14	35	10	„ 24
„ 4 „	10	12	11	Spoilt	„ 11
„ 5 „	24	Others spoilt in transit.

From these figures it is apparent that the action is complete in the first hour, there being little or no improvement afterwards. Also that 20 grains per gallon give a very high degree of purification.

6. This experiment was repeated with 10 grains of fresh chlorinated lime per gallon of the effluent; the results were only very slightly inferior to those above quoted, when 20 grains per gallon was the strength allowed.

7. In view of the very promising results obtained up to this point, the Lieutenant-Governor directed that the effect of chlorinated lime should next be tried for a period of one month on a regular septic tank installation.

8. In order to carry out these instructions an installation at Tittagurh was chosen as being easy of access from Calcutta. The latrine, though of fair design, had been systematically overworked, and the effluent was cloudy though not offensive. In order to improve matters and to make the test more satisfactory, a tally clerk was put on to count in 2,000 users a day only, and a little extra flushing water was used. A week or ten days of this treatment produced a very decided improvement in the effluent.

9. The chemical analysis of the effluent after this improvement is given below:—

Chlorine ...	...	3·4 pt. per 100,000
Free ammonia ...	...	6·8 „ 100,000
Albuminoid ammonia ...	...	4·2 „ 100,000
Nitrogen as nitrates ...	...	0·1 „ 100,000
Oxygen absorbed in 10 minutes	...	2·06
Oxygen absorbed in 4 hours	...	3·17

It will be observed that the effluent was still bad; the free ammonia was very high, and, although the oxygen absorption was not great, the effluent was putrescible.

10. As it was necessary to work under practical conditions, large quantities of effluent were taken for experimental purposes. One set of readings was taken on quantities of 400 gallons in one tank, and another on quantities of about 2,500: no small quantities were ever used in these experiments, so that the chance of error is very small. From the commencement also great care was taken that the observations should be carried out under exactly the same conditions in every respect as would be the case in actual practice. Thus the chlorinated lime was taken out of the lead-lined box and put into a good iron vessel with a metal lid. This lime receptacle was kept, where it naturally would be kept under ordinary circumstances, in the latrine itself. One hundredweight only was opened at a time; and the time of opening was recorded in order to ascertain whether any deterioration in quality occurred which might render the bacteriological action less active.

11. In the process of the experiment each tank was filled up with effluent every morning, the amount was calculated in gallons, and the requisite quantity of lime was carefully weighed out. The lime was then put into a bucket and mixed with water (or effluent) into a thin paste, the lumps were crushed, more water was added till the bucket was three parts full, and the whole was put into the tank and well stirred for half-a-minute. Samples of the effluent for bacteriological examination were taken usually about 15 minutes after the addition of the lime. The usual methods were then followed, viz., one cubic centimetre of the treated effluent was mixed with a tube of melted agar at a temperature of 40° C. in the usual way and poured into dishes, and the colonies were counted in from 48 to 60 hours afterwards.

12. In the experiment above described, chlorinated lime in amounts of 15 grains, 10 grains, 7½ grains, and 5 grains per gallon was added to the large volumes of effluent. The results are tabulated below:—

§ These plates are unsatisfactory: the high number is due to imperfectly sterilised plates, and not to deficiency of lime.

These plates were sterilized by myself at home.

13. In these results it will be seen that many plates are marked as contaminated. I should explain that the apparatus used, though adequate, was by no means perfect: the principal fault was that I only had some four dozen dishes at my disposal. Early in November it was noticed that certain sporulating bacilli were unusually frequent, and what was most suspicious, that they only occurred at the edge of the dish. This suggested imperfect washing and failure in sterilization. On 3rd November two dishes were taken at random and into each the contents of two sterile agar tubes were poured with the greatest possible caution (no effluent or anything else was added) and in 24 hours there was a very luxuriant growth of sporulating bacilli. This proves that my dishes were not clean. After this special precautions were taken and the period in the autoclave was increased. The results were that the number of colonies came down considerably and contaminated dishes were very much less frequently seen. However, the fact that occasionally a dish was contaminated and showed some 300—400 colonies when others of the same batch showed 40 is of no very great importance, for in spite of these accidents the average number of colonies in all the cases never reached 100 per cubic centimetre.

14. Another point is brought out by the figures, viz., that there is no great difference in the results when a larger quantity of chlorinated lime per gallon is used. Thus, 30 grains per gallon give no better results than 5 grains. At first sight this is rather odd, but a little thought will explain this. Free chlorine is the active agent; it is a very rapid and powerful bactericide—probably the most active known. It is also a gaseous element. Hence it would appear that as long as there was an appreciable quantity of chlorine present, the process was rapid and complete. If no chlorine was present or was present in inert combination with other substances, no action would take place. From the above experiments it is clear that 5 grains of chlorinated lime yield sufficient free chlorine to complete the sterilizing action. The case of lime had been open 20 days when the last mixture was made. It was not thought necessary to go below 5 grains per gallon. The research work to find the ultimate limit would be difficult to carry out with the arrangements at my disposal, and the chances of error would be much increased, especially with such an unstable compound as chlorinated lime. Moreover 5 grains per gallon mean at the outside Rs. 14 per mensem for a latrine for 2,000 people and about Rs. 10 per mensem if a 3-gallon flush is used; and as the process is so cheap, it is undesirable to imperil the efficacy of the method to save so small amount of cash.

15. In paragraph 5 above it was stated that experiments were tried with a mixture of 20 grains per gallon, to see if a long period of rest was necessary before the bactericidal action was complete. In order to verify that the conclusion arrived at applied to the weaker mixture, a large volume of effluent was taken, chlorinated lime in the proportion of 5 grains to the gallon was added, and every half hour four dishes were plated out from samples taken. The results were:—

	Number of colonies.
½ hour	10	5	12	800 odd contaminated.
1 „	20	5	12	10
1½ hours	5	10	21	...
2 „	3	10	14	...

Hence it will be seen that the action was complete within half an hour. This is important as it shows that it will not be necessary to provide a sterilizing tank to the installation. The lime may be mixed with the effluent and the mixture allowed to run away after a very short period of rest.

16. No exhaustive examination to determine the kind of bacilli that survived the chlorinating process was made, because it would have involved much more time than I could devote to the matter, and also because it was unnecessary. It is certain that only sporulating bacilli would be likely to survive the action of chlorine; and as very few of the dangerous pathogenic bacilli that would be looked for in septic tank effluent belong to this class, it is highly improbable that any such would survive. In order to verify this, however, a set of cultures was made in a specially prepared medium to see if any coli communis bacilli could be found amongst the few colonies that developed in mixtures of 5 grains per gallon and 10 grains per gallon.

The number of colonies that grew in this medium is given below :—

	Number of colonies.
Ordinary effluent ...	Thousands	Thousands	Thousands	Thousands.
Ditto with 5 grains per gallon chlorinated lime added	4	15	4	3
Ditto with 10 grains added	17	2	0	24

On further microscopic examination of the suspicious colonies none were found to be coli communis. From a rough examination of the cultures that grew after the addition of chlorinated lime it appeared that Staphylococcus Pyogenes Aureus, Bacillus Prodigiosus and several harmless sporulating bacilli commonly met with in water and moulds were occasionally present.

17. At the Tittagurh Mill, where the above experiments were carried out, boiler waste water is used in the installation, so that the temperature of the effluent is as high as 39°C. As the satisfactory outcome of the experiments might have been in some way due to this fact the experiments were repeated at Kanchrapara. Equally good results were obtained, the colonies in four plates numbering only 6, 12, 4 and 13 respectively. The effluent, as will be seen from the appended chemical analysis, was a very good one :—

Kanchrapara effluent.

Chlorine	2·41
Free ammonia	1·275
Albuminoid ammonia	·19
Nitrates	·07
Oxygen absorption after 10 minutes	·6
Oxygen absorption after 4 hours	1·06

18. An apparatus invented by Mr. Tice for adding the lime gradually as the effluent ran down a trough was also tested. The object is to obviate the necessity for a large tank which would otherwise be required to collect the effluent till the lime can be added, and also to do away with the mixing process described above, as this would probably be objected to or neglected by the sweeper. The apparatus has been tested and has given good results as far as sterilizing the effluent is concerned, as is shown by the figures quoted below. On the 14th November the apparatus was tried but it was not properly adjusted and the colonies were found to be innumerable. On the five following days the results were—

	Colonies.
13th November ...	16	30	12	8
14th „ ...	40	53	39	95
15th „ ...	13	60	120	...
19th „ ...	6	6	8	...
18th „ ..	3	12	10	...

Further experiments are still going on with the apparatus in order to see that it works as economically as the mixing method, and also to see what is the best shape to use and how often it is necessary to charge the box. All these details will be ready in a short time. I consider that this simple method of adding the chlorinating material will render the sterilization of effluent very easy and certain and quite within the comprehension of a sweeper. A further report will be submitted on the working of this apparatus, if desired.

19. It may be noted that lime continued to give good results after having been opened twenty days, and as already pointed out it was stored in precisely the sort of place that it would be kept in under ordinary working conditions. Further, lime that had been opened some four calendar months previously still gave a satisfactory degree of sterilization when mixed with effluent in quantities of 10 grains per gallon.

20. In the early part of this report it is stated that, when small quantities of effluent, and small quantities of chlorinated lime are dealt with, it is necessary to add not less than about 15-20 grains of chlorinated lime per gallon, if a high degree of sterilization is to be obtained. On the other hand, when large quantities of the effluent were treated 5 grains per gallon sufficed. The explanation of the apparent discrepancy suggested by me was that when minute quantities of chlorinated lime were used, a large proportion of the chlorine disappeared. At this stage I was asked to verify this explanation by repeating the experiment in a modified form, and also to have the work tested by an independent observer.

21. In this further series of experiments the principle adopted was not to add a minute quantity of chlorinated lime, but to mix a large quantity of this disinfectant with a large quantity of water, and to add as much of this mixture as should contain the desired amount of chlorinated lime.

22. In accordance with this method, five ounces of fresh chlorinated lime were mixed with 437½ ounces of water. Each ounce of this mixture ought therefore to have contained five grains of chlorinated lime. Four vessels were then taken and half a gallon of effluent was placed in each. A small quantity of the mixture of chlorinated lime and water was then poured into each vessel. The amount of chlorinated lime thus added was in the proportion, in the case of two vessels, of five grains to the gallon of effluent ; in the third vessel the proportion was 7½ grains; and in the fourth vessel it was 10 grains.

The results are given below :—

	Number of Colonies.
5 grain mixture, 1st vessel	10	14	19	14
Ditto 2nd vessel	9	12	4	7
7½ grain mixture	5	12	6	9
10 grain mixture	6	14	3	9

23. For purposes of comparison the equivalent of 5 grains per gallon was also added to Calcutta drinking water, and samples were taken of the water before and after treatment. Calcutta drinking water untreated gave 53, 59, 70 colonies, while after it had been mixed with 5 grains of chlorinated lime to the gallon, the colonies numbered only 1, 10 and 2 respectively in the three samples taken.

24. Next effluent in bulk was twice treated with 5 grains per gallon with the same sample of lime at the latrine in the way described in paragraph 11. About 900 gallons of effluent were used in each case. One of these mixtures gave 13, 42, 53, 20 colonies. The plates of the second mixture were handed over to Dr Cook who kindly consented to check my results. A copy of his opinion is appended to this note.

25. From these experiments it is obvious that in weighing out small quantities of a compound like chlorinated lime in a hot climate, the possibility of error on account of the unstable nature of the substance is very great. This is the probable explanation of the early results. Hence, in carrying out experiments with chlorinated lime, two points should always be observed—first, that no quantities less than 3 ounces should be used; and second, that good chlorinated lime should be used. Only that which is guaranteed to give 33 per cent of available chlorine can be regarded as satisfactory.

26. It is necessary to discuss some possible objections to this method :—

(1) It may be said that all chemical purification of sewage has been given up in favour of biological methods, and that the adoption of the proposed method would be a retrograde step. It is to be remembered, however, that the old chemical processes, now mostly disused, never aimed at killing the bacilli. Their chief object was to render the sewage odourless and to precipitate some of the organic matter. At the time when these methods were in use, the bacteriological aspect of sewage effluent had not come into prominence at all. It may be admitted that it would be very much more satisfactory if a contact bed or a filter could be designed that would both chemically purify the effluent and also at the same time destroy the thousands of bacilli that it contains. But at present no method has yet been discovered by which this can be effected; it may come in time, though personally I rather doubt it. Although an effluent that has been rendered chemically satisfactory by beds or filters contains many less pathogenic organisms than crude sewage, still even the best effluent contains millions of organisms per cubic centimetre and thousands that may fairly be called pathogenic. Further, the practicability of the method of admixture of a chemical to sewage depends very largely on the quantity of sewage to be treated. Thus nobody would recommend the method in a place like Manchester, where 27,000,000 gallons have to be dealt with daily. But in the case of the mill installations in India it is different. We have usually under 10,000 gallons per day of very concentrated sewage that is also purely human excrement, and therefore may contain cholera, typhoid and other pathogenic bacilli. Obviously if this dangerous effluent can be sterilized for Rs. 15 a month by chemical means the process is too useful to be thrown over, simply because we should like a more perfect system that may eventually be discovered.

(2) That chlorinated lime is a very unstable compound and rapidly deteriorates in a hot country, if exposed to the atmosphere. This is a real objection, but it can be met with a little arrangement. It has been stated that the lime used in these experiments did not deteriorate to any extent in three weeks, and by a few simple regulations as to storing the material this objection can be overcome.

(3) That chlorinated lime is a difficult substance to mix with water and requires more care than an ordinary mehter will probably take. This is simply a matter for supervision. A sweeper was taught to do the mixing properly in the installation at Tittagurh. Further, I think it most probable that Mr. Tice's apparatus will remove this objection, as it is one that can be worked by a sweeper.

(4) It may be argued that the septic tank effluent being put into the Hooghly has raised a considerable amount of feeling amongst the native population, and this is not likely to be allayed by the addition of chlorinated lime to the effluent. Although it is impossible to say what line native opinion will take, there can be no real cause for complaint, because the chlorine of the chlorinated lime is dissipated in the air, after having done its sterilizing work, and by allowing a short period of settling a large proportion of the lime settles at the bottom and never need go into the river at all. The treated effluent is a clear opalescent fluid possessing a slightly chlorinous odour. It is virtually sterile, and hence much purer than Hooghly water itself, and contains less living organisms than the Calcutta drinking water.

27. The advantages of the above method of treating effluent are that it is efficient, easy to carry out, and cheap. In bringing the above results to the notice of Government, it is not claimed that there is anything new about the methods or that the whole subject has been exhaustively worked out. But I feel sure that it is a practicable method and one that will remove all danger of polluting rivers to such an extent as to cause sickness and epidemics of disease.

I am prepared to submit a set of rules for the working of septic tank latrines, if Government think they are required.

28. Since this report was written, a valuable paper has just reached India in which chlorine is reported to have been used in large quantities to render septic tank effluent sterile in order to prevent the danger of infecting oysters, shell-fish and water-cress with pathogenic organisms. The method used is not that of chlorinated lime, but is the same in principle. A solution rich in oxychlorites and the hypochlorites is manufactured on the spot by treating sea water or prepared brine with a strong electric current. This method could be employed in this country, if ever very large quantities of effluent had to be dealt with, but it would not pay to put in the necessary installation for small quantities. Further, as no sea water is available brine would have to be manufactured; and salt is more expensive than chlorinated lime in this country. On the other hand chlorinated lime is easily obtainable, cheap, and thoroughly efficient; and for small quantities of effluent its use is practicable.

29. In conclusion, I have to point out that these experiments were made by the courtesy of Messrs. Bird and Company on some of their installations. The latrine at Kanchrapara is a great success and is working admirably. To them my best thanks are due for their kindness and the assistance they have given me.

W. W. CLEMESHA,

Offg. Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal.

CALCUTTA,
The 27th December 1905.

Note on the proposal to sterilise septic tank effluents with chlorinated lime.

THE septic tank inquiry in relation to the Hooghly river appears to have reached a stage at which two points must definitely be decided:—

(a) Is sterilisation necessary before discharging the effluents into a river from which the drinking-water of Calcutta and other Municipalities is taken to obviate any possible risk of water-borne disease?

(b) If this is conceded, how may such sterilisation best be accomplished?

The first of these questions has given rise to a good deal of controversy amongst English sanitarians, but the consensus of opinion is that the removal of bacillus coli and bacillus enteritidis depends on the efficiency of bacterial filtration: the greater the aëration and nitrification of an effluent the less is the possibility of the survival of the above-mentioned or of more specifically pathogenic organisms. The evidence given before the Septic Tank Committee shows that the filtration processes now in use at the various mills on the river do not remove coli and sporogenes from the effluents, and cannot be relied on for the destruction or interception of pathogenic organisms generally. So I am forced to the conclusion that under present conditions sterilisation of the effluents is necessary. If, however, the filtration processes are brought up to the high standard described by Dr. Rideal at Caterham, where the filters removed 98·5 per cent. of the coli organisms and all or nearly all of the enteritidis, it may be possible at some future time to dispense with this additional safeguard.

2. I have read Captain Clemesha's note describing his experiments and proposing to treat the septic tank effluents with 5 grains of chlorinated lime to the gallon. When I visited the Titaghur Mill with him he treated the unfiltered effluent, which is a very impure one, in the manner described in his note. After half an hour he plated the treated effluent in agar, using 1c.c. for each plate which is a liberal allowance which would only be admissible in the case of a fluid containing a comparatively small number of bacteria. I took the plates to the Municipal laboratory. They showed but few colonies which I subjected to special tests, as a result of which I am able to state positively that no bacillus coli or enteritidis survived the treatment. I found no streptococci but only two sporing bacilli, one of which I identified with a bacillus not unfrequently found in the bacterial examinations of the Calcutta drinking water. I was unable to identify the other, but I can go so far as to say that it bears no resemblance to any known pathogenic bacillus and is presumably harmless. In plates made by Captain Clemesha on other occasions, I recognised coloured colonies of some harmless water bacteria which are found in the river water. In none of the plates could I find any organism which is associated with the intestinal bacterial flora

3. I have already stated that no bacillus coli communis or sporogenes enteritidis was found in the treated effluent. But the bacillus typhosus is almost identical with the bacillus coli in its structure and susceptibility to the action of chemical disinfectants, and the same may be said of the bacillus sporogenes enteritidis and the bacillus sporogenes of Gaertner which is associated with epidemic diarrhœa, and has been found by me in polluted water in Calcutta. Moreover from my general knowledge of its character, confirmed by some laboratory experiments, I am convinced that the bacillus choleræ asiaticæ would be destroyed by the chlorine treatment. So, as I have found no known intestinal micro-organism in any of the plates made from the treated effluent and have good grounds for believing that none of the well-known bacteria associated with water-borne disease could survive the treatment, I can confidently recommend the chlorinated lime process as an efficient safeguard, so far as the septic tank effluents are concerned, though I am none the less of opinion that the filtration processes should be brought to the highest possible degree of efficacy.

Conclusions.

Sterilisation of the effluents is necessary as they are teeming with intestinal bacteria and cannot safely be discharged into a river from which drinking water supplies are drawn.

2. Chlorinated lime destroys all but a few sporing bacteria of no pathogenic significance and may be regarded as a safe and efficient steriliser.

3. It may be possible at some future time to dispense with chemical treatment of the effluents if the biological processes are brought up to the highest European standards of efficiency.

2. The receipts during the year including interest received on Reserve Fund investments amounted to Rs. 1,90,977, against Rs. 1,81,155 of the previous year, showing an increase of Rs. 9,822. The expenditure of the year was Rs. 2,25,413, being greater than that of the previous year by Rs. 31,806. On the year's working there was of a loss Rs. 34,436, which was met by an appropriation from the Reserve Fund. The apparent decrease in the outlay under item "Ferry Steamers" is due to the fact that in the year under review the steamers constructed by the Port Commissioners for the Ferry Service were employed instead of hiring steamers as formerly. The charges for working are distributed over other heads of expenditure. The total cost of establishment, stores and repairs is stated to have been Rs. 39,448. The increased cost of repairs is due mainly to extensive renewals of the roadways, and of repairs to the pontoons and partly to payment of Rs. 12,117 for battens supplied in the previous year.

3. The Bridge was opened for the passage of vessels on 158 occasions, of which 105 were on the ordinary fixed days of the week (Tuesdays and Fridays) and 53 were on Sundays, Wednesdays and Thursdays on special application. The numbers of vessels of various classes which passed through the Bridge were the highest on record. The following statement gives a comparison with the numbers that passed for each of the previous ten years:—

RESOLUTION ON THE FOREST ADMINISTRATION REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1904-1905.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—FORESTS.

Calcutta, the 8th January 1906.

RESOLUTION—No. 98.

THE Bengal Forest Administration Report for 1904-05, which has been drawn up by Mr. A. L. McIntire who held charge of the Forest Circle throughout the year, is full and interesting. The protection and preservation of forests, changes in forest areas, working plans, the development of communications and the revenue derived therefrom are some of the most important subjects dealt with.

2. Protection of forests.—The protection of forests against the various injuries that threaten their destruction is the primary object of the Forest Department, and the Lieutenant Governor has read with special interest the measures taken for their preservation. The difficulties that Forest Officers have to contend against arise both from deliberate and intentional injuries and from natural causes The chief intentional injuries are offences against forest law such as wilful injury by fire, unauthorised felling or appropriation of wood and minor forest produce and grazing without permision or in tracts in which grazing is prohibited. The total number of breaches of the law, while slightly higher than in the previous year, fell just below the average of the three previous years. Out of the 3,104 cases reported, only 335 cases were taken into Court; no less than 2,723 being compounded, while 46 were undetected. The main increase is in the number of compounded cases which is confined to the Darjeeling and Tista Divisions. Offences of a trivial nature are unavoidable in these Divisions, where there is a large labouring population living so near to the forest boundaries that the temptation to pilfer petty quantities of wood and fodder is very great. The most serious case under trial during the year referred to is the illicit cutting of a large number of sundri logs in the Sunderbans. A conviction was obtained. twenty men being sentenced to three months' rigorous imprisonment each, while boats and timber to the value of Rs. 5,000 were confiscated. Almost all the undetected cases were cases of fire, the most difficult form of all breaches of the forest law to bring home to the offender. Special attention has been paid to this question of forest protection from fire, and the Leiutenant-Governor is glad to observe that considerable progress has been made in coming to agreements on this important matter with Native States bordering on British territory, where some of the worst fires in recent years have occurred. The good results noticeable during the year are doubtless due in great measure to a favourable fire season, for in all Divisions April and the first half of May were damper than usual. and, though the lateness of the monsoon caused some anxiety in the latter half of May and June, fires which break out during that period are easier to extinguish than fires such as usually occur in April and the first half of May. Credit, however, must be given to the Department for the measures taken, but for which there would in all probability not have been so considerable a reduction in the number of fires as the figures show. In specially protected areas there were only 48 outbreaks of fire affecting 10¼ square miles against 68 outbreaks affecting 109 square miles in the previous year. It is hoped that with increased efforts on the part of the Forest Department this injury to forests by fire may be greatly diminished.

3. Considerable damage is done annually by the straying of cattle within forest areas, and it is not quite clear why the number of cattle impounded has decreased so considerably in recent areas. Every effort must be made to prohibit illicit grazing, especially in hill forests where grazing is almost always prejudicial since it prevents the reproduction of valuable species, and such grazing fees as can be recovered are in most places insufficint even to pay for the damage done by the cattle to the forest paths.

4. Injuries from natural causes.—Injuries from natural causes, though obviously less under the control of the Forest Department, may yet be to a great extent minimised or forestalled. Considerable progress has been made with creeper cutting, the beneficial results of which can hardly be exaggerated. The rapid growth of creepers in damp climates, such as the Terai and Duars, is one of the chief injuries from natural causes that threatens destruction, not only to full grown trees, but to seedlings and coppice shoots which are unable to force their way up through the dense masses of creepers that surround them unless adequate measures are taken. Creeper cutting was undertaken during the year over an area of 59,327 acres at an average cost of only 1·6 annas per acre, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that every effort will continue to be made in this direction. Storms and frosts did considerable damage. The frosts were unusually severe in the Hill Divisions, the coupes under regeneration in the Darjeeling Forests being the chief sufferers. Some damage was also caused by frosts in the Duars and parts of Chota Nagpur, and by the spring gales in the Sundarbans. The great storm in the previous year which caused so much damage in the Mura-Ghât Forest and in parts of Buxa was unfortunately followed by unusually severe attacks by borers which have killed numbers of standing sâl trees besides damaging the timber of many wind-fallen trees before barking could take place. Wild animals are also responsible for a considerable amount of damage within forest limits. Wild elephants have been particularly destructive in the Mâl Forest in the Tista Division, while barking deer gave so much trouble in coupes under regeneration in the Darjeeling Division that measures had to be taken for their destruction.

5. Changes in forest areas.—There was only one real addition to the forest area in the Province during the year. This took place in the Reserved Forests in the Buxa Division where some eleven and-a-half thousand acres known as the Sachaphu Forests were added. The adoption of forest survey figures for the Darjeeling and Tista Divisions, and the supply of revised figures by the Superintendent of Provincial Surveys for the Puri Division, led to an increase of 11,064 acres, an increase however more apparent than real. But these additions were more than counterbalanced by the exclusion of three large areas from the Protected and Unclassed Forests. In the Puri and Sundarbans Protected Forests, some seven thousand five hundred acres were excluded having been leased out for cultivation. In Chittagong, 281 square miles of forest are now excluded for the first time, although transferred to Assam as long ago as 1898. But it is in the Singhbhum Division that the largest apparent exclusion of the year has taken place, no less than 84,537 acres being excluded owing to the adoption of Forest Survey figures in place of former estimates. It is interesting to note that the total area of Reserved and Protected Forests now represents 8·75 per cent. of the area of the whole Province.

6. Working plans.—The preparation of working plans is one of the most important branches of Forest Administration, and it is satisfactory to note that considerable progress has been made in this direction during the year under review. The working plans for the Singhbhum and Kurseong Reserved Forests which concern the large areas of 725 and 107 square miles, respectively, have been approved. They prescribe selection fellings for the greater portion of these areas. Some progress was also made with the preparation of a working plan for the Reserved Forests of the Angul Division and proposals to work the best parts of them under selection fellings of which the yield will be estimated after counting sâl trees throughout the area and to make improvement fellings in the remaining parts have been approved. The Inspector-General of Forests has decided that the Palamau Reserve and the "Old Reserve," a Protected Forest in the Sonthal Parganas, are not at present in a condition to require regular working plans.

7. The improvement of communications.—Much has been done during the past year to improve communications in the various forests, chiefly in the Singhbhum Division. Here 26 miles of cart road were constructed at an average cost of Rs. 916 per mile. In judging the cost of construction, the hilly character of the country, the frequent necessity of bridges, and the quality of the work must be taken into consideration. Moreover it is satisfactory to note that, as a general rule, these forest roads more than repay the cost of their construction during the first year of use, and sufficient stress cannot be laid upon the necessity of developing the means of communication in every possible way. The important work of providing adequate quarters for subordinates is also receiving close attention and expenditure under this head has increased by over 70 per cent. during the year under review.

8. Reproduction.—Reproduction is a subject of scarcely less interest to the Forest Department than protection. In many of the forests natural reproduction takes place on so extensive a scale that only measures for the protection of the new growth are required. In the dry sâl forests of Chota Nagpur and Orissa reproduction continues to be most satisfactory. In Singhbhum, there is a promising growth of young sâl trees covering hundreds of square miles on the slopes of the hills which formerly contained nothing but stunted and unsound sâl trees of great age. If the danger from forest fires can be avoided, these forests should eventually yield enormous quantities of timber. In the damp forests of the Buxa, Jalpaiguri and Kurseong Divisions, however, unassisted reproduction does not take place under such favourable conditions. Here the young sâl finds competitors in comparatively worthless jungle trees which formerly were to a great extent kept down by fires, but which now under a more vigilant system of fire protection tend to oust the sâl by hindering its reproduction. It is doubtful whether unassisted reproduction is now sufficient to lead to extensions of the sâl or even to maintain the existing distribution of the species, and the discovery of effective means to help the sâl reproduction is at present occupying the attention of the Forest Department.

9. Financial results.—The Lieutenant-Governor notes with satisfaction that every Division, except Angul, was worked at a profit. In Angul also, which has always hitherto been worked at a loss, there would have been no deficit, but for an extraordinary expenditure of Rs. 13,781 incurred on surveys. With the completion of its working plan and of the most necessary roads, it shows every prospect of becoming a very paying charge in the near future. The revenue from the Palamau reserves for the first time exceeded the direct and indirect charges for their management. The Sunderbans revenue showed only a moderate recovery, but the increase in other Divisions was considerable, raising the total forest net revenue from Rs. 3,58,086 in 1903-04 to Rs. 5,22,743 during the year under review. The increase of revenue was due to greater success in disposing of produce, especially of sâl timber, while every effort was made to develop sales of minor produce. The fact that expenditure was Rs. 23,777 greater than in the previous year and no less than Rs. 1,22,243 greater than the average for the five years ending with 1902-03, and allowing for the fact that exceptional charges during the year were much below the average, shows that there was no relaxation on the part of the Department in its efforts to develop and improve the forests under its charge.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with pleasure the Conservator's appreciation of the good work done by officers of the Imperial Forest Service and by the Provincial Forest Staff. His Honour thanks Mr. McIntire for his capable and energetic administration of the Department and for the successful management of the circle from a financial point of view.

REPORT ON THE COTTON CROP OF BENGAL, DECEMBER, 1905.

THE following note is published for general information.

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 8th January 1906.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

REPORT ON THE COTTON CROP OF BENGAL, DECEMBER, 1905.

[On an average of the five years ending 1903-1904 the area under cotton crops in the territory to which this forecast relates has represented some 1·08 per cent. of the total area under cotton crops in British India.]

Explanatory.—Four forecasts of cotton are to be issued by this Department at equal intervals of two months, viz., before the 15th of August, October, December and February, the first two dealing with estimates of area sown and the general condition of the crop, while the other two will deal with revised estimates of the area sown together with an estimate of the probable outturn.

Since the issue of the October forecast the important cotton district of the Chittagong Hill Tracts has been transferred to the New Province of Eastern Bengal and Assam, and Sambalpur has been added to this Province.

Character of the season.—Early cotton is grown in the Sonthal Parganas, Sambalpur, Manbhum, Singhbhum and Angul. Weather conditions were generally favourable in the early part of the season, but there was some damage in the Sonthal Parganas and Manbhum by excessive rain in September.

In respect of late cotton the most important districts are Saran, Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga. Excessive rain and floods caused damage to the crop at the time of sowing.

Area sown.—The area sown with early cotton this year is 36,504 acres and that with late cotton 33,895 acres up to date. In some of the Orissa districts sowing is still going on.

Outturn.—According to the district returns, the outturn of early cotton is estimated at 5,804 bales of 400 lbs. each. The outturn of late cotton has been returned as 12,226 bales (400 lbs.). Adding 5 per cent. to the above figures for cotton grown in the Native States, for which statistics are not available, the total estimates for early and late cotton come, respectively, to 6,094 and 12,837 bales.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE WINTER RICE CROP OF BENGAL, 1905.

THE following note is published for general information.

R. W. CARLYLE,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 9th January 1906.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE WINTER RICE CROP OF BENGAL, 1905.

On an average of five years ending 1903-04, the area under winter rice in the territory to which this forecast relates has represented some 28·0 per cent. of the total area under winter rice in British India.

Explanatory.—The present forecast relates to 33 districts, including Sambalpur and excluding the 14 districts recently transferred to the new Province of Eastern Bengal and Assam.

Character of the season.—It was mentioned in the Preliminary Forecast of the Winter Rice Crop published in October that there was good rain all over the Province in April and May, while June was a very dry month. Over Bengal Proper the monsoon set in early in July, but was delayed in Bihar till about the middle of that month. During the latter half of July and all through August till the end of September rain was continuous and heavy in Bihar. In the Northern districts of the Patna Division and in Monghyr considerable damage was done to the crop by excessive rainfall and consequent floods. In many places the newly transplanted seedlings were washed away and the fields had to be replanted. Some damage from floods was also reported from Howrah and the 24-Parganas. In Orissa and in parts of Chota Nagpur and the adjoining districts of the Burdwan Division, on the other hand, the crop is reported to have suffered from want of sufficient rain. The rainfall in October was generally light all over the Province and there was practically none in November. On the whole the rainfall was not favourably distributed.

2. Area cultivated.—The area reported as actually sown in the Province as now constituted was 20,822,000 acres against 21,097,500 acres of last year and a normal area of 21,443,600 acres. The estimate of normal area is based upon ascertained data in only twenty one districts, which have been wholly or partially surveyed. The normal area under winter rice in these districts is 13,281,700 acres, and the actual area under the crop this year is estimated at 13,069,700 acres.

3. Outturn.—Out of the 33 districts in the Province only Gaya, Darjeeling and Singhbhum return a normal crop or over. Fifteen districts show an outturn of between 90 and 99 per cent.; five between 80 and 89. Eight districts, e.g., Cuttack (71 per cent.), Puri (73 per cent.), Angul (74 per cent.), Champaran (75 per cent.), Ranchi (75 per cent.), Balasore (76 per cent.), Murshidabad (79 per cent.), and Darbhanga (79 per cent.) show from 70 to 79 per cent. while Nadia 69 per cent.) and Monghyr (62 per cent.) show under 70 per cent. Since the submission of the Preliminary Forecast the prospects of the crop have improved in 11 districts and deteriorated in 16 districts.

According to the figures reported by District Officers the outturn of the crop for the Province as a whole works out to 88 per cent. of the normal, or the same figure as shown in the Preliminary Forecast. Accepting these figures, the estimated outturn would be 201,930,900 cwts. of cleaned rice against 199,952,600 cwts. obtained last year. With the limited agency at our disposal in this Province, it is difficult to obtain reliable estimates of outturn, and there is still a tendency perhaps to underestimate the outturn, or rather to over estimate the "normal" outturn.

C. E. A. W. OLDHAM,

On special duty in connection with the Agricultural Department, Bengal.

CALCUTTA;

FINAL FORECAST OF THE BHADOI CROPS OF BENGAL, 1905.

THE following note is published for general information.

R. W. CARLYLE,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 9th January 1906.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE Bhadoi CROPS OF BENGAL, 1905.

(On an average of the five years ending 1903-04 the area under Bhadoi paddy in the territory to which this forecast relates has represented some 6·0 per cent. of the total area under Bhadoi paddy in British India.

Explanatory.—The present forecast relates to the Province as now constituted, i.e., including Sambalpur and excluding the fourteen districts transferred to the newly-formed Province of Eastern Bengal and Assam.

2. Character of the season.—As reported in the Preliminary Forecast, the rainfall was heavy and general in March and April. In May, too, the rainfall was general all over the Province and equal to the normal for the month. June was abnormally dry. The monsoon was delayed in Behar till about the middle of July, but the fall was then very heavy and continued till the end of September. In Chota Nagpur, Orissa and the adjoining districts of the Burdwan Division, on the other hand, the rainfall was from light to moderate. On the whole the season was very unfavourable to the bhadoi crops.

3. Area sown.—The total area sown with different bhadoi crops in the Province as now constituted came to 9,099,800 acres, against 9,270,300 acres of last year and a normal area of 9,848,600 acres. Of the bhadoi food-crops, by far the most important is bhadoi paddy In Bihar and Chota Nagpur a good deal of maize, jowar and marua is also grown Of the bhadoi non-food crops the most important used to be jute, but with the transfer of many northern and eastern districts from the Province, it has ceased to hold the same position. A separate forecast is devoted to this crop.

Outturn.—The heavy rain and floods from July to September in Bihar seriously damaged the bhadoi crops, especially maize. Only two districts, e.g., Darjeeling and Birbhum, return a bumper and normal crop. Two more show between 90 and 99 per cent; nine between 80 and 89; twelve between 70 and 79; Gaya and Shahabad return only 59 per cent., while Saran, Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, Patna, Monghyr and Howrah return under 50 per cent.

Since the publication of the Preliminary Forecast, prospects improved in twelve districts and deteriorated in thirteen. According to the estimate of the district officers, the average outturn of the different bhadoi crops is 72 per cent. of the normal.

Accepting 84 per cent. as the estimated outturn of bhadoi paddy, the outturn of cleaned rice may be estimated at 26,816,700 cwts., against 26,192,700 cwts. of last year.

C. E. A. W. OLDHAM,

On special duty in connection with the Agriculture Department.

CALCUTTA,

The 6th December 1905.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt: and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Calcutta, or

The Canal Revenue Reports for the triennial period ending 31st March 1905.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Canal Revenue Reports for the triennial period ending 31st March 1905, and the Chief Engineer's Note on the same.

The Major Irrigation Works are divided into two classes—

I.—Productive Works.

II.—Protective Works.

The Productive Works comprise the Orissa, the Midnapore, the Hijili Tidal, and the Sone Canals. These works are all in operation. The Protective works, now in process of construction, are the Tribeni Canal and the Dhaka Canal. The Minor works for Navigation are the Calcutta and Eastern Canals, the Orissa Coast Canal, the Nadia Rivers, and the Gaighata and Baxi Khal, while the works of this class for irrigation are the Saran Canals, the Eden Canal and the Madhuban Canal.

2. The Capital outlay on the Major works in operation has been Rs. 6,44,13,714 to the end of March 1905. The works now held by Government as a return for this outlay comprise in addition to the weirs across the rivers and other head works, 784¼ miles of main and branch canals, of which 495¼ miles provide for both Irrigation and Navigation, 260 miles provide for Irrigation only, and 29 miles provide only for Navigation. There are in addition 2,651½ miles of distributaries During the period under review 36¼ miles of branch canals of irrigation were opened and there is a net increase of 17½ miles in the length of distributaries. The gross area scheduled as irrigable is 1,379,035 acres.

The outlay on the Capital account of the Protective works now under construction has been Rs. 16,07.263 to the 31st March 1905, of which Rs. 11,58,439 were spent in the period under review. The designed length of the main canals is 79⅓ miles and 282 miles of distributaries have been provided for in the estimates. The area irrigable will be roughly 127,500 acres. The Dhaka canal a small work deriving its supply from the Lal Bakeya river in the Champaran district, is nearly complete and will shortly come into operation. The Tribeni canal, a more important project, taking off from the Gandak river just where it leaves the hills, is more backward, but it is hoped that the head sluice may be complete and the first 20 miles of the canal may be well advanced in the present working season. This canal crosses many streams issuing from the lower hills involving large syphons and acqueducts. The labour supply is difficult to procure and still more difficult to retain owing to the remoteness and unhealthiness of the locality.

3. The average annual receipts from the Major works from all sources during the three years were Rs. 20,56,545 and the average annual working expenses were Rs. 11,02,292, giving an average annual net revenue of Rs. 9,54,253. This is better than the average annual net revenue for the triennia ending March 1902 and 1899 by Rs. 4,56,539 and Rs. 3,93,428 respectively. The increase is due to larger returns from Irrigation, as there has been a material decrease in the receipts from Navigation.

4. The Capital outlay to the end of the year 1904-1905 on each of the canal systems and the financial results during the period under review are shown in the following statement:—

Names of Canals.	Capital expenditure (direct and indirect) to end of 1904-1905	Average annual receipts during the triennial period ending March 1905 (less refunds).	Average annual expenditure during the triennial period ending March 1905 including in direct charges	Average annual net income of the triennial period ending March 1905. In the table below the average financial results of the canals during the period under review are compared with those of the five previous periods:—

Particulars.	Average of the triennial periods ending
	March 1905.	March 1902.	March 1899.	March 1896.	March 1893.	March 1890.

Though the Bengal Canals are far from yielding a direct profit, the above table is so far satisfactory that it shows rising receipts and falling expenses.

5. The following statement shows the areas irrigated by the Orissa, Midnapore and Sone canals during the period under review and the two previous periods:—

Years.	Orissa Canals. All crops.	Midnapore Canal. All crops.	Sone Canals.			All Canals.	Rainfall.

Triennial average ...	219,076	88,908	392,993	100,885	493,878	801,862	52·12

There is very little rabi irrigation from the Orissa and Midnapore Canals. The areas irrigated during the last triennium show an increase on each system over the two previous periods, which is satisfactory.

6. The results obtained in the collection of water-rates during the period under review and the two previous triennia are exhibited in the following table:—

Year.	Balance at the beginning of the year.	Total demand of the year.	Cash realizations of the year.	Remissions.	Irrecoverable items.	Balance at the end of the year.	Certificates issued during the year.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1902-1903	6,988	18,21,008	18,14,189	3,113	156	3,550	865
1903-1904	3,550	17,39,740	17,28,705	6,802	185	4,050	931
1904-1905	4,050	17,44,566	17,34,630	6,763	39	3,128	643
Triennial average	4,863	17,68,438	17,59,177	5,559	126	3,576	813
Triennial average for the period ending March 1902.	2,348	14,21,268	14,14,914	3,244	354	2,751	554
Triennial average for the period ending March 1899.	32,860	14,24,471	13,96,985	1,108	12,281	14,027	2,50

These figures indicate a high standard of work. The reduction in the number of the certificates and the very small amounts it has been necessary to write off as irrecoverable are particularly deserving of notice On the Sone Canals the table in the Chief Engineer's note shows that throughout the triennium the collections have been cent per cent. Nothing has been, written off as irrecoverable and on the average only 99 certificates per year were issued, while the average annual sum collected was Rs. 13,15,837. This is excellent work and the Lieutenant-Governor endorses the remarks to this effect made by the Chief Engineer.

7. The Navigation receipts during the period under review and the two previous periods are shown below :—

While it is not to be expected that the navigation tolls will ever rise to the figures at which they stood before the commencement of the direct competition of the East Coast line of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway and of the Moghulserai-Gaya Branch of the East Indian Railway, it may still be hoped that the returns were at their worst in 1903-1904, and that the small recovery which has commenced will continue. On the Orissa Canals and on the Orissa Coast Canal a reduction in the rates of toll has had a good effect on the volume of traffic and it may probably be found expedient to make some reduction on the Midnapore Canal. On the Sone Canals the rates of toll have always been low and we cannot hope for any material increase in the traffic.

8. The average annual receipts classed as miscellaneous revenue for the period under review were Rs. 1,12,841 against an annual average of Rs. 94,959 during the previous period.

9. In the following paragraphs a brief review is made of the chief points of interest on each system.

10. On the Orissa Canals the Capital outlay (direct charges) incurred during the period under review amounted to Rs. 1,04,823. This sum was expended mainly on the construction of the Dudhai Branch Canal and partly over permanent outlets and minor distributaries.

The average annual receipts were Rs. 4,06,319 or Rs. 7,325 more than the annual average of the previous period. The increase was mainly in the water-rates and amounted to Rs. 38,748 This increase was, however, not by a decrease from Navigation due to the competition is the Bengal-Nagpur Railway.

The average area irrigated was 2,19.076 acres or 17,121 acres more than the average of the previous period Compared with the average of the period ending March 1899, the area irrigated during the period under review showed an advance of 27,244 acres. The increase took place mainly under kharif (rice) The rabi irrigation from the Orissa Canals is very small.

The average annual working expenses during the last three years were Rs. 3,70,685 against Rs. 4,51,297 and Rs. 5,10,292, the averages for the two previous periods. There has therefore been a substantial reduction in the cost of maintaining the canals which indicates careful administration.

The net result was an average annual revenue of Rs. 35,634 in excess of working expenses against an annual deficit of Rs. 52,3(3 in the previous period. The result may be considered as highly satisfactory.

11. On the Midnapore Canal the capital account was added to by a sum of Rs. 7,288 (direct charges) spent on the construction of permanent outlets.

The revenue receipts for the period under review were less than during the two previous periods. This was due to the competition of the Bengal-Nagpore Railway, which has tapped the canal traffic. The reduction in receipts has been met by a large reduction in the working expenses, and the average annual net revenue was Rs. 70,092 which is better than in the two previous periods by Rs. 41,322 and Rs. 58,787, respectively.

The area irrigated, which was almost entirely under rice, increased from an average of 71,322 acres in the three years ending March 1899 to an average of 88,908 acres in the period under review. The rabi irrigation is nominal. Owing to the uncertain supply of water in the Cossye river there is no room for any further expansion of irrigation. The rate charged has recently been increased from Re. 1-8 to Rs. 2 per acre, It is however still low and after some years it can be increased again.

12. The Hijili Tidal Canal continues to feel the competition of the Bengal Nagpur Railway. There has been a slight improvement in the volume of traffic since 1902-1903 which is probably due in part to the reduced rates of toll now charged in the Orissa Coast Canal with which it connects. The average annual navigation receipts decreased from Rs. 47,725 during the trienninal period ending March 1902 to Rs. 41,478 during the period under review. Working expenses remained at about the same figure as before and there is a reduction in the average annual net revenue from Rs. 13,773 to Rs. 5,877.

13. On the Sone Canals Rs. 14,053 were spent on works chargeable to the Capital account, but owing to the sale or transfer to other works of surplus plant, the net result of the three years was a credit to the Capital account of Rs. 17,250.

The annual receipts from all sources averaged Rs. 13,90,831 against Rs. 11,12,278 in the previous period. The water rates show a decided improvement during the period under review the annual average having been Rs. 13,18,458 against Rs. 10,26,459 for the triennium ending March 1902. The navigation receipts which are of little importance have decreased owing, as previously reported, to the competition of the Mogulsarai-Gaya Railway. The miscellaneous revenue, however, has also improved, being Rs. 54,633 a year as an average for the period ending March 1905 against Rs. 41,444 for the period ending March 1902.

The average area irrigated during the triennium was 493,878 acres against 481,338 acres in the previous period. The increase took place mainly under kharif as there was a decrease under rabi and only a slight increase under hot weather. While there is a constant demand for water for kharif (rice) the demand for the cold weather crops fluctuates greatly. In the past three years the rainfall was favourable for starting the rabi cultivation and when this is the case there is never much demand for canal irrigation in Bihar.

The annual working expenses averaged Rs. 5,48,181 or Rs. 56,623 less compared with the average of the previous period. The net result of the working of the period under review was an average annual surplus of receipts over working expenses of Rs. 8,42,650, which is equivalent to a percentage of 3·15 on the Capital outlay. It seems probable that a return of 3½ per cent. on the capital invested in these canals may be obtained in a few years more.

14. The capital outlay (direct and indirect charges) on canals classed as Minor Works and Navigation was Rs. 11,99,869* during the period under review and Rs. 1,39,48,272* up to the end of this period. The average annual receipts and working expenses amounted to Rs. 5,88,556 and Rs. 5,06,733, respectively, the annual net revenue being Rs. 81,823 against Rs. 1,05,995 for the period ending March 1902.

* Inclusive of the outlay incurred on the Tirhut and Damodar projects.

The financial results of each of the canals and the capital expenditure to date are exhibited in the following table :—

15. The Calcutta and Eastern Canals are a series of navigable channels, mostly natural and partly artificial, connecting Calcutta with the Eastern districts of Bengal and with Assam. The average annual receipts and working expenses amounted to Rs. 4,33,720 and Rs. 2,76,376, respectively, the result being a net return of Rs. 1,57,344 against Rs. 1,56,697 in the previous triennial period. The annual average number of boats using the canals during the period under review was 122,471 against 125,008 in the preceding period; but in 1904-1905 the number rose to 152,579 which is well above the average.

The outlay charged to the Capital account of this system was mainly expended in forming and improving a channel across the Madaripur Bhil. The bhil is one of the numerous depressions which exist in the delta near the junction of the Ganges and Brahmaputra and which fill up with water in the flood season. A channel, about 22 miles in length, has been formed and deepened across this depression, which shortens greatly the journies for boats going to or from Assam or Dacca. This channel is now in use in the flood season for inland steamers and flats, and it is hoped before long to make it available throughout the year. A large suction dredger has been ordered through the India Office, which is necessary before anything further can be done.

16. The Orissa Coast Canal is a continuation of the Hijili Tidal Canal and is of use for navigation only. The average annual receipts for the period under review amounted to Rs. 33,761 against Rs. 48,896 in the triennium ending March 1902 and Rs. 81,562 in that ending March 1899. The falling-off is, as has been previously stated, due to the greater facilities for the carriage of goods and passengers afforded by the Bengal Nagpur Railway. The working expenses, however, have been reduced during the period under review, being Rs 54,566 on an average against Rs. 67,365 in the previous period. The financial results are far from satisfactory, the result being an annual deficit of Rs. 20,805 against a deficit of Rs. 18,469 in the preceding period. It is not probable that this canal will ever pay its expenses, but it is of service to the country through which it passes and its indirect value appears to be sufficient to warrant the net charge to Provincial revenues. The rates of toll have been reduced on this canal from January 1904, with apparently a good effect on the volume of traffic; the table in the Chief Engineer's note shows that in the year 1904-1905 the number of boats had gone up to 17,944 against 12,692 in 1902-1903 and as compared with 18,461 which was the average for the triennium ending March 1899.

17. The Saran Canals practically remained closed during the past three years. They were opened for a short time only during the kharif and rabi seasons of the years 1902-1903 and 1904-1905 to meet temporary demands for water caused by scanty rainfall. Water was given free of charge. Surveys were made during the period in connection with schemes suggested for improving the efficiency of the canals, but the situation is a very difficult one. In the absence of a weir across the Gandak river, the cost of which would be prohibitive, it appears impossible to give any steady supply of water.

18. The work in the Nadia Rivers consists in the training of the low water channels with the object of giving a greater depth over the shoals. This object is only attained to a small degree. Still the work done is of use and it guards against the danger of these off-shoots of the Ganges which, after their junction form the Hooghly, closing up altogether in the dry season. These rivers have lost to some extent their importance as trade routes through the development of railways. There is, however, still a considerable volume of traffic over them during the rains when there is plenty of water.

The annual receipts averaged Rs. 89,270 during the period under review against Rs. 99,263 in the preceding period. The annual average working expenses for the two periods were Rs. 1,17,978 and Rs. 1,17,346 respectively, and the net result was an annual deficit of Rs. 28,708 for the period ending March 1905, compared with a deficit of Rs. 18,082 in the preceding period. There are many objections to the levy of tolls on these rivers and this Government has in view the desirability of gradually with drawing the tolls. As a commencement the rates of tolls charged in the flood season will be reduced, as at that time we do little to assist the traffic.

19. The Gaighata and Buxi Khal which is a short channel connecting the rivers Damodar and Rupnarain was maintained at an average annual cost of Rs. 3,165. The right of collecting tolls on the khal has been leased on an annual rental of Rs. 4,500.

20. The Eden Canal was constructed originally as a sanitary measure, but is now used to some extent for irrigation also. The average annual receipts were Rs. 26 ,594 against Rs. 27,653, in the preceding triennium. The annual working expenses amounted to Rs. 39,359 against Rs. 38,256 in the previous period, the net result being an annual deficit of Rs. 12,765 compared with a deficit of Rs. 10,603 for the period ending March 1902.

The area irrigated during the triennium averaged 27,537 acres against 27,494 acres, the average of the preceding period. The area under irrigation cannot be increased unless a weir is constructed across the Damodar river; a scheme for doing this is under consideration. The results of experiments on the yield of crops indicate that the water is of considerable value owing partly to the high price which straw fetches in this district. There is therefore some ground for hope that the project for a weir may be found to be practicable from the financial aspect.

21. The average area irrigated from the Madhuban Canal was 2,399 acres against 3,128 acres in the previous period. The average annual outlay incurred for maintaining the canal, including charges for establishment and for works of improvement was Rs. 11,674 against Rs. 5,805 in the previous period. The increased outlay was due to the construction of the Lukhowara Distributary which was completed during the period. Water from this canal has hitherto been given free of charge, but water-rate rules have recently been passed, and water supplied in future will be charged for.

22. An abstract of the results of the experiments made on "average" rice crops in the irrigated and unirrigated lands and the value of the outturn per acre during the triennial period under review is given below:—

The Chief Engineer in his note has drawn attention to the apparent falling-off in the yield of irrigated lands in the Sone Canals. While it appears probable that the real value of the crops is greater than has been shown, the question is of great importance; and the Agricultural Department will be asked to investigate it in concert with the Canal staff.

23. The results of the work of the three years are on the whole good. There has been an increase in the net revenue. The works have been efficiently and economically maintained. The areas under irrigation have increased, and such falling-off as there has been in the navigation is in no way due to faulty administration of the canals. Water-rates have been collected in full with very little occasion to resort to coercive measures.

The thanks of Government are due to the officers and staff of the department generally; and the Lieutenant-Governor concurs in the Chief Engineer's cordial appreciation of Mr. Toogood's long and valuable service.

Order.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that a copy thereof and of the Chief Engineer's note be submitted to the Government of India in the Public Works Department, and circulated to other Governments and to all Departments and officers of this Government as usual.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

W. A. INGLIS,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN EASTERN BENGAL AND ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER, 1905.

DECEMBER 1905 was again a perfectly typical cold-weather month, deviating from the average type only in the same respect and to a less extent than did the previous month. It was characterised by a complete absence of rain until the two last days of the month. This dryness was maintained by a fairly strong north-east monsoon which also helped to keep the air temperature below normal during the greater part of the month.

The steep pressure gradient and strong north-east monsoon of the end of November was fully maintained over the Province and Bay of Bengal without interruption during rather more than the first half of December, accompanied by a mean temperature only a trifle less than normal. The chief local factor contributing to this result was descensional air movement over Central India which showed a fluctuating persistance right up to the 18th. On the 19th the influence (in the form of rising temperature) of a cold-weather depression from Persia was already felt in Bengal. Though this depression advanced rapidly in an east south-easterly direction until its fairly well defined centre was a little north-east of Calcutta on the morning of the 22nd, and though it raised the mean temperature of that and the preceding day some 6° above normal, yet it gave no rain whatever in the Plains and only very light showers in the Darjeeling Hills, and only a little heavier in Upper Assam. This disturbed weather and rain continued among the Himalayas up to the end of the month, while a restoration of the high pressure area over the Central Provinces temporarily reduced the temperature in the Plains to normal again from the 24th to the 26th. On the latter date the barometer began to fall again over the northern land area, so that the pressure gradient was reduced far below its normal steepness, and out of this large area of uniform pressure over and around the Bay a shallow depression formed in Orissa on the 29th and 30th, which was enough to give practically universal light rain to the Province on the 30th and 31st- the temperature being simultaneously a little above normal

Summary of Pressure.—The barometer began the month $\frac{1}{10}$th of an inch above normal, but fell steadily until it reached normal on the 5th, continued falling until it was $\frac{1}{10}$th below normal on the 8th, rose again to normal on the 11th where it remained until the 16th and only rose a little above on the 17th and 18th after which it fell rapidly with the advent of the depression from the north-west and was $\frac{1}{10}$th below normal on the 22nd. Thence it quickly recovered and was just above normal on the 24th, but fell again to nearly $\frac{1}{10}$th of an inch in defect on the 26th and 27th, recovered temporarily on the 28th, and down again to $\frac{1}{4}$th below on the 30th and finished $\frac{1}{10}$th below normal practically over the whole Province. It will have been noticed that the greater part of this gentle atmospheric see-saw occurred about a pressure below the normal value so that the grand total shows a defect varying from nearly $\frac{3}{10}$th along the Himalayas to nothing in the south of the Province, while the pressure across the Bay was, on the other hand, about $\frac{1}{12}$th of an inch too high.

Summary of Temperature.—The slightly abnormal coldness of the first 19 days of the month was so nicely compensated for by the excessive warmth of the last 10 days that the average for the whole month shows a defect of little more than a degree in Bihar, Chota Nagpur and Orissa, and an excess of less than a degree in Bengal. The highest maximum, viz., 87°·4, was recorded at Balasore; and the lowest minimum in the Plains—42°·2 at Motihari.

Summary of Rainfall.—The average total rainfall for the month was nearly double as much as usual in South-West Bengal, only one quarter as much in Bihar, and less than one hundredth of its ordinary amount in Chota Nagpur and Orissa.

The following table gives the average rainfall for each Division, month by month throughout the year, expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for each month :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

☁, dew.

FORESTS.

Calcutta, the 21st December 1905.

Regulations for the appointment of Probationers to the Indian Forest Service, 1906.

1. Appointments.—The Secretary of State for India in Council will, in the summer of 1906, make not less than ten appointments of Probationers for the Indian Forest Service, provided that so many candidates are in all respects qualified under the conditions hereinafter set forth, upon the results of a competitive examination to be held in London on the 28th August 1906, by the Civil Service Commissioners.

2. Admission to Examination.—Applications for admission to the examination must be made on a printed form to be obtained from the Secretary, Judicial and Public Department, India Office, Whitehall, London, S. W., and to be returned to him not later than Saturday, 30th June 1906. No applications received after that date will be considered.

3. Age Limits.—Candidates must have attained the age of 18, and not attained the age of 21, years on the 1st January 1906.

4. Nationality, etc.—Every candidate must be a natural-born British subject. He must be unmarried, and if he marries before reaching India, he will forfeit his appointment.

5. Qualifying Examinations.—A candidate must have passed, or must undertake to pass, before October 1906 (failing which his selection would be cancelled), the examination of the University of Oxford known as Responsions or the Previous Examination of the University of Cambridge, or some one of the other examinations held (1) by these Universities or (2) by the Universities of London or Dublin or (3) by the Joint Board of Examiners for the Scottish Universities or the Scotch Education Department or (4) by the College Entrance Examination Board of the United States of America, and recognised by the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge as equivalent to the Examination in Responsions or to the Previous Examination, or must have passed an examination at some Foreign University which, in the opinion of the Secretary of State in Council, is at least equivalent to any one of the examinations above mentioned.

6. Subjects of Examination.—The subjects of the competitive examination mentioned in paragraph 1 are as follows :—

(1) Mechanics and Physics | (2) Chemistry. | (3) Botany.

Equal weight will be attached to each of these subjects, and candidates must qualify in each.

Candidates must also pass a qualifying examination in German, to be conducted by the Civil Service Commissioners simultaneously with the competitive examination.

The Syllabus of the Competitive Examination and of the Examination in German forms Appendix I.

7. Fee, etc.—A fee of 2*l.* is required from every candidate, and instructions as to the manner of payment of this fee, the time and place of the examination, and any other necessary information, will be sent to candidates, on application, by the Civil Service Commissioners.

8. Medical Examination.—Those candidates who are provisionally successful in the competitive examination will be required, shortly after the result of the examination is declared, to undergo a strict examination by a Medical Board at the India Office, at which particular stress will be laid on good vision and hearing.

On passing this medical examination candidates will be deemed to be Probationers for the Indian Forest Service.

9. Period of Probation.—The period of probation will extend over about three years. For the first two years the Probationers will be required to undergo a special course of study at Oxford and to become members of the University if not so already. During the third year of their probation they will receive practical instructions, visiting under suitable supervision such Continental forests as may be selected for the purpose. Excursions may also b made for purposes of study during the first two years, both in term-time and in the vacations.

10. Charges.—The Probationers will be required to defray all expenses for lodging, board, tuition, and excursions which they may incur during the period of their probation at Oxford. During the third year of practical instruction on the Continent, which will consist of three terms, each Probationer will be required to pay in advance a charge of 60*l.* a term for which the Secretary of State for India will provide (1) board, lodging, and washing; (2) travelling expenses; and (3) fees to local forest officers, etc.

11. Course of Study.—The prescribed course of study for the Probationers comprises the following subjects:—

I.—Subjects auxiliary to Forestry.

(1) Elementary Organic Chemistry and the Chemistry of Soils.
(2) Geology.
(3) Elements of Zoology and Forest Entomology.
(4) Forest Botany.
(5) Geometrical Drawing, Mathematics up to and including Plane Trigonometry and Surveying.
(6) German.
(7) Engineering (Elementary).
(8) Book-keeping, in reference to Indian Forest Accounts.

II.—Forestry, Theoretical and Practical, in all its Branches.

12. Conduct and Medical Requirements.—Every Probationer will be required to conduct himself during the period of probation in a manner satisfactory to the Secretary of State, and to give evidence of satisfactory progress in his studies in such manner as may be required, failing which, or in the event of serious misconduct, he will be liable to have his name removed from the list of the Probationers.

A Probationer may also, at the discretion of the Secretary of State, be required from time to time to appear before the Medical Board, and, should the result be unsatisfactory, he will be liable to have his name removed from the list of Probationers

13. Diploma of Forestry, etc.—During the period of probation, the proficiency of the Probationers will be tested by periodical examinations.

The Probationers who satisfy the Examiners in all these examinations, and complete satisfactorily the practical course in Forestry on the Continent, will receive the Diploma of Forestry of the University of Oxford. It is desirable that they should, if possible, also obtain a degree in the Honour School of Natural Science at the University.

14. Appointment and Seniority.—Probationers who obtain the Diploma of Forestry, and are of sound constitution and free from physical defects which would render them unsuitable for employment in the Indian Forest Service, will be appointed Assistant Conservators in the Indian Forest Department. Their seniority will be determined by the results of the examinations held during their two years' residence as Probationers at Oxford and the manner in which they have completed the practical course on the Continent.

They will be allowed at the end of the period of probation to state their preference in respect to the Provinces to which they desire to be allotted; but the distribution will be made to the several Provinces according to the needs of the public service, at the discretion of the Secretary of State for India. Officers are, however, at all times liable to be transferred from one Province to another at the pleasure of the Government of India.

15. Riding.—Every Probationer, before proceeding to India, will be required to satisfy the Secretary of State, in such manner as may be determined, of his ability to ride. It is desirable that this evidence should be forthcoming before the Probationer proceeds to the Continent for his final period of study.

16. Articles of Agreement, etc.—Within a month of his nomination as Assistant Conservator, each nominee must sign articles of agreement describing the terms and conditions of his appointment; he must embark for India when required to do so by the Secretary of State, and must engage his own passage Failure to embark at the stated time will, in the absence of satisfactory explanation, lead to forfeiture of appointment.

17. Allowance.—An allowance will be granted to each Probationer on signature of his agreement, varying from 50*l.* to 100*l.*, according to the degree of proficiency and diligence shown by him during his practical course upon the Continent.

18. Salary.—An Assistant Conservator of Forests will draw pay at the rate of Rs. 350 a month from the date of his reporting his arrival in India.

19. Promotion, Leave, Pension and Provident Fund.—Promotion, leave and pension will be governed by the Regulations laid down by the Government of India, and made applicable to Forest Officers, such Regulations being subject to any modifications or alterations which may be made in them from time to time by the Government of India, and their interpretation in case of any doubt arising being left to that Government. A copy of the existing regulations can be seen on application at the India Office.

Certain information regarding appointments in the upper controlling staff of the Indian Forest Service will be found in Appendix II; a summary of information regarding leave is contained in Appendix III, regarding Pensions and Provident Fund in Appendix IV.

APPENDIX III.

LEAVE.

1. The following is a summary of the principal regulations relating to the leave admissible to officers appointed to the Indian Forest Service by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom.

Long leave.

2. Furlough is admissible to an aggregate amount of six years during the service. The amount "earned" is one-fourth of an officer's active service, and the amount "due" is that amount less any enjoyed.

3. Furlough without medical certificate can, if due, be generally taken after eight years' active service, and again after three years' continuous service. It is limited to two years at a time.

4. Furlough with medical certificate is limited to one year if an officer has not served three years continuously; otherwise he may have leave up to two years, and it may be extended to a third year.

5. The allowances admissible during furlough are :—

(1) During the first two years of furlough without medical certificate and during so much of furlough with medical certificate as may be "due,"—half average salary, subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

(2) After the expiration of the period for which the foregoing allowances are admissible,—one quarter of average salary, subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

Short Leave.

6. Privilege leave is a holiday which may be granted to the extent of one-eleventh part of the time that an officer has been on duty without interruption ; and it may be accumulated up to three months, earned by 33 months' service. During privilege leave, the officer retains a lien on his appointment, and receives the salary which he would have received if on duty. An interval of not less than six months must elapse between two periods of absence on privilege leave.

Privilege leave may be prefixed to furlough, special leave, or extraordinary leave without allowances. The whole period of leave thus taken in combination is known as combined leave. Combined leave (except when consisting of privilege leave and extraordinary leave without allowances) may not be of less duration than six months, nor, except on medical certificate, may it be extended beyond two years.

7. Special leave may be granted at any time for not more than six months, with intervals of six years' service; allowances, calculated as during furlough, are given during the first six months only, whether taken in one or more instalments. This leave is included in the aggregate of six years' furlough admissible.

8. Extraordinary leave without allowances may be granted in case of necessity, and, except in certain specified cases, only when no other kind of leave is by rule admissible. It may be granted in continuation of other leave.

9. Subsidiary leave in India for a minimum of ten days, usually with half average salary, is granted to an officer proceeding on or returning from leave out of India, or on retirement, to enable him to reach the port of embarkation or to rejoin his appointment. It is admissible only at the end and not at the beginning of combined leave.

(4) To Article No. 53 the following note shall be added, namely :—

"See also POLICY OF INSURANCE [No. 47-B (2)]."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been represented to the Government of India by the Chambers of Commerce of Bengal, Madras, Bombay, Karachi and Rangoon and by various Fire Insurance Associations that the rates of duty on fire insurance policies prescribed by Article No. 47 (B) of Schedule I to the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 (II of 1899), are unequal and in certain cases unduly high, and it was suggested by these bodies that the rates should be reduced to a uniform all-round rate of one anna per policy issued or re-issued. The Government of India have considered this proposal in consultation with Local Governments and Administrations, and although they are not prepared to grant the large reduction asked for, they are of opinion that the present rates of duty on fire insurance policies are unnecessarily high. It is accordingly proposed in the Bill to substitute for the present rates, which vary according to the amount and period of the policy, a uniform duty of four annas in respect of every original fire insurance policy when the sum insured is less than Rs. 5,000, and of eight annas in other cases, and the same duties on every premium payment, in addition to the usual stamp-duty of one anna on receipts. The Government of India are of opinion that under the arrangement proposed it is desirable to impose the liability to stamp the policies and receipts upon the companies which issue them. This condition has not been objected to by the various Fire Insurance Associations who have been consulted by the Local Governments.

2. Secondly, the Bill provides for the legalisation of an existing but at present unauthorised practice of dividing the stamp-duty payable on marine insurance policies between copies drawn in duplicate.

3. The Bill also contains certain other minor amendments of the Stamp Act, 1899. These amendments (to which effect has already been given by means of executive orders) relate (a) to the admission of private banking firms to the benefit allowed by section 51 of the Act in regard to the refund of the value of unused stamped papers, (b) to a general exemption from duty of copies of, or extracts from, certificates relating to births, baptisms, marriages and deaths, and (c) to the reduction of the duty on mortgages of crops when the loan is repayable in more than twelve but not more than eighteen months.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th January, 1906 :—

NO. 2 OF 1906.

A Bill further to amend the law relating to merchant seamen.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the law relating to merchant seamen; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called the Indian Merchant Shipping (Amendment) Act, 1906.

Short title.

2. To section 23 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1859, the following shall be added, namely :—

1 of 1859.

Amendment of section 23, Act I, 1859.

"Notwithstanding anything in this section, in the case of any such foreign-going ship as aforesaid, being a ship—

(a) registered in British India under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, or 57 & 58 Vict., c. 60.

(b) registered in the United Kingdom under the said Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, but not employed in trading with any port in the United Kingdom, a running agreement with the crew may be made to extend over two or more voyages so that it shall terminate either within six months from the date on which it was executed or on the first arrival of the ship at her final port of destination in British India after the expiration of that period, or on the discharge of cargo consequent upon such arrival, whichever of these dates shall be the latest :

"Provided that no such agreement shall continue in force, if, after the expiration of such period of six months as aforesaid, the ship proceeds on a voyage from a port out of British India to any other such port which is not on the direct road or a customary route to her port of destination in British India."

3. In section 24A of the said Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1859, as amended by section 2 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Law Amendment Act, 1891, after the word "December" the words "or, as the case may be, after the expiration of a period of six months from the date on which it was executed," shall be inserted.

1 of 1859.

Amendment of section 24A, Act I, 1859.

VI of 1891.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been represented to the Government of India that considerable practical inconvenience is felt by the requirements of section 23 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1859 (I of 1859), and that a much more suitable provision on the subject of running agreements in the case of foreign-going ships making short voyages is that which clause 54 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Bill (as amended by the Select Committee when that measure was last before the Legislative Council of the Governor General in 1896) proposed to substitute for the existing enactment. The Bill just referred to has not been proceeded with owing to the disabilities imposed on the Legislature in India by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict., c. 60), and it is impossible to predicate when consideration of it will be resumed. In the meantime it is proposed to enact the particular provision in question; but, by reason of the disabilities already alluded to, it has been found necessary to limit its operation to foreign-going British ships which have been registered in British India in accordance with the provisions of the Statute of 1894, or which have been so registered in the United Kingdom but are not employed in trading with ports in the United Kingdom.

AFRICA, EAST COAST—PORT OF BARTHOLOMEU DIAS.

General Instructions.

No. 29 (first publication).—The following Notice to Mariners (No. 2 of 1906), issued by the Bombay Government, is republished for general information :—

The following information, dated September 1905, has been received from the Port Officer, Beira, through the Consul General for Portugal in British India :

The port is marked by beacons on land. These are six in number giving three courses by means of which the bar may be crossed and the harbour entered with absolute safety.

Bearings of the Beacons.

The bearing of the first pair of beacons Nos. 1 and 2, when in line, is S. 83° W., that of the second pair Nos. 3 and 4, S. 18° W, and of the third pair Nos. 5 and 6, is S. 10° 15′ E.

Situation, form and colour of the beacons.

Beacons Nos. 1 and 2 are on firm land covered by low mangroves, where the East margin of the bay and the port of Bartholomeu Dias properly speaking begins.

The bearing of these beacons is tangent to the southern border of a dense and tall grove of pines (movinjes) which rises on the S.-E. extremity of the Movin-jes or Maconde island.

The grove is conspicuous to any one entering the port, since it rises from the sea, as a green clump of verdure, and is seen standing out alone before sighting the margin of the bay. It is a splendid landmark.

Beacon No. 1 is a quadrilateral tower surmounted by a triangular appendix, jutting out slightly over the sides of the tower. It is 20 metres high and 2 metres broad. The tower on the seaward side is painted in three vertical stripes, the one in the centre being black and those on the sides white. The triangular appendix is white with a black circle in the centre.

Beacon No. 2 is a triangular tower also ending in a triangular appendix, it is 25 metres high and 3·50 metres broad, and is alternately opened and closed in horizontal bands of 3 metres. The part which is covered is painted black so that the impression is produced of black bands alternating with others of light blue or gray.

The triangle is painted black with a white circle in the centre.

Beacon Nos. 3 and 4 are situated within the port, on the W. shore, on an unmistakable site locally called 'Chamadouro da Pedra.' On the border of this low and slightly undulating land, which is in general of a dark green tone, owing to the mangroves that cover it, there suddenly rises, forming a point, a yellowish white patch which looks like a big rock cut vertically with the shore. In the whole port of Bartholomeu Dias this feature is unique and may be seen over the sands forming 'Macovane Point' soon after entering the first part of the channel: as marked by beacons Nos. 1 and 2.

Beacon No. 3 is in the shape of a column surmounted by a square, of which two opposite angles are fixed vertically on the prolongation of the axis of the column. It is black having in the centre another white square.

Beacon No. 4 is a tower exactly like beacon No. 2, but of smaller dimensions 18·50 mr. high and 2 mr. wide.

Beacons Nos. 5 and 6 are situated near 'Govuro Point' which is covered by a clump of tall pines, and here the commandant's house or residence stands. The house is not seen as it is surrounded by trees, but the point is clearly distinguished a little before leaving the second part of the channel, not only by the special form of the trees but also by the wooden jetty and by the flagstaff rising a few metres from it.

Beacon No. 5 is in the shape of a column, painted in three vertical bands, the centre one being black and the others white. It ends in a triangular appendix, painted white with a black circle in the centre. It is 11·75 mr. high and 0m. 80 mr. wide.

Beacon No. 6 is also a column, surmounted by a square, having arcs painted black in the angles, and two concentric circles in the centre of the figure; the outer being black and the inner one white.

The column is painted in black and white horizontal bands. It is 16 mr. high and 1 wide. The beacon is seen between two dense mangrove clumps, the one on the west growing up to the water's edge.

Currents.

The wide bay which precedes and serves as a sort of vestibule to the Port of Bhartholomeu Dias between Macovan Point on the S. and Mafomene on the N. has both at flood and ebb tide a complex system of currents which must be taken into account when entering and leaving the port.

This is due to the fact that many rivers and rivulets besides the Govuro flow into the outer basin and the influence of the mouth of the Save is strongly felt. Thus the tide has to flow simultaneously on the S. after passing the N.-W. point of the peninsula, to enter the port and to the W. and N. to enter the canals and rivers near the north and centre of the basin. As the volume of water is greater in those two directions owing to the area to be covered being larger, the current at flood tide during the passage of the part of the channel marked by the beacons 1 and 2 is felt running N.-W. At ebb tide it is the contrary, the current running towards S.-E. and being stronger than during flood tide.

In the second part of the channel (marked by the beacons 3 and 4) the chief influence owing to its proximity, is that of the mouth of the Govuro, the flood tide runs W.-S.-W. deflecting to the S. inside the port. The ebb tide runs E.-N.-E. and is stronger than the flood tide.

In the third part of the channel (marked by beacons 5 and 6) the direction and strength of the tide is the same as in the preceding part, until the N.-W. point of the peninsula is reached; from that point the ebb and flow currents run parallel to the shore.

Instructions on entering and leaving the port.

From the above notes on the currents the following simple directions are deduced:—

In the first part of the channel.

With flood tide keep the beacons well in line.

With ebb tide let beacon No. 2 open out on the N. of beacon No. 1 until the S. side of the former is tangent to the N. face of the latter. Thus is corrected any setting of the vessel to the S. which helped by the strong current at ebb tide, might have thrown it on the bank which borders the land from Macovane Point to the extreme W. of the Govuro peninsula. The highest point of this bank is naturally marked by the line determined by the 'Chamadouro da Pedra' and by a group of three big trees which rise behind it, and are easily distinguished in the low green mangrove.

The direction of this line is S. 27° W. and after passing the point the beacons may follow even with strong ebbs, until the vessel enters the second part of the channel.

In the second part of the channel.

With flood tide keep beacons 3 and 4 well in line. With ebb tide let No. 4 open a little on the W. of No. 3, to avoid the current carrying the ship toward the point of the tongue of sand which projects N.-N.-W. of the peninsula, which may generally be distinguished by the lighter colour of the water.

In the third part of the channel.

With flood tide keep beacons 5 and 6 in line.

With ebb tide let the beacon 6 open slightly to the W. of No. 5 until the point of the peninsula is passed, then follow the land and seek anchorage freely.

Floating mark.

To the W. of the third part of channel and very near it E. and W. of the small bend which forms the N.-W. corner of the right margin of the bay, there is a barrel painted red.

It marks a patch which is covered by 11½ feet of water at low water spring tides. From this mark inwards parallel to the land the port has a depth of 6 fathoms to close to the shore, the bottom being sand and mud.

This mark is also of great service when leaving the third part of the channel and entering the port.

Anchorge.

It may be said in general that ships may safely anchor in two long lines of more than a mile in extent parallel to the shore, starting in the N.-W. corner and ending in the small bay on the S. point of which beacon No. 6 is placed.

At present, the usual anchorage is near the jetty referred to, on either side of it, and here the depth is 7 to 8 fathoms, with a bottom of mud or sand.

The port is protected from all winds, though those blowing over low lands, when very strong, cause a rough sea, but as there is no space for waves to form, on the E. owing to lying so close to the shore, and on the S.-W. owing to the succession of banks which guard the port in that direction, and as it is splendid holding ground, ships run no risk of dragging their anchors or wearing their moorings.

Bearings.

The following are the bearings to enter the first channel when going into the port :—

Inhamabue Point (situated S.-E. and immediately following Macovane Point)	...	...	...	...	S. 25° W.
Macovane Point	...	...	...	...	S. 39° 30′ W.

Point E. of the Mueve island (situated E. of the high land of "Machanga" at the entrance of the "Save") N. 14 E.

The point determined by these bearings is in the extension of the line passing through beacons Nos. 1 and 2 and is almost on the E. edge of the bank at the entrance. The depth is 6 fathoms.

Lowest soundings in the channel.

The lowest soundings are to the E. of the outer bank, which runs uninterruptedly from Inhamabue Point to 1¼ miles beyond Mafomone Point. Three small patches were found at low water spring tides of 13½ feet.

In the rest of the channel the depth varies from 18 to 35 feet at low water.

Establishment of the port.

2. The channel at Bankote has shifted a little to the East of that marked by the present buoys, but as there will always be at least 7′ 3″ of water on the buoyed channel, it is proposed not to shift the buoys for the present so as to mark the proper channel.

The General Administration Report of the Presidency Division for the years 1900-1901 to 1904-1905.

General condition of the people.

1. THE quinquennial Report for the Administration of the Presidency Division for the years 1900-1901 to 1904-1905 is one of steady progress, and on the whole of very general prosperity. During certain seasons, climatic conditions were unfavourable in various parts of the Division; but with the exception of the floods, due to the excessive rainfall in 1900-1901, the people suffered no serious injury from natural causes. The Division is fortunate in that only under very exceptional circumstances is a total failure of the crops occasioned. Though the amon rice crop fell considerably below the average of the preceding quinquennium, the bhadoi or aus crop, which is the most important harvest in Nadia, yielded an average outturn for the Division of 84 per cent. against 74 of the preceding quinquennium, and jute was 86 per cent. against 79 7, while the rabi crops yielded an average

Weather and crops.

ourturn of 94 per cent. during the five years under review. The wages of skilled labour throughout the quinquennium were high, and the demand for unskilled labour principally in the mill industries of the district of the 24-Parganas and on the newly-constructed Ranaghat-Murshidabad line in Nadia and Murshidabad continued attracting temporary labour from other districts as in previous years. During the harvesting season, large numbers of labourers from Nadia, Jessore, Khulna, and Faridpur were attracted to the Sundarbans by the high wages offered, returning to their homes when the work of harvesting was done. During the last three years of the quinquennium there was a decided fall in the prices of the necessaries of life, but the price of rice as compared with the previous quinquennium has risen in every district, except in Khulna where it has remained stationary. The price of salt, however, fell in every district of the Division, owing to the reduction of the duty, being cheapest in Nadia where the price was 13 seers 9 chitaks to the rupee. The general health of the Division was not satisfactory, the year 1902 being particularly unfavourable. The number of deaths recorded in that year was no less than 295,961, or 39·2 per mille, while in one district, Nadia, it reached 50·64 per mille and in Jessore 42·66 per mille. Fever was responsible for the largest number of deaths, while cholera was prevalent in one part or another of the Division in every year of the quinquennium. In Nadia, Murshidabad and Jessore the rates of birth per thousand of population decreased, while those of deaths increased with the net result that in Nadia and Jessore the number of reported deaths exceeded that of births. This occurred in Jessore in every year of the quinquennium, and exhibits a lamentable record of the vital energies of a people sapped by fever and of the general unhealthiness of the district. It is to be hoped that in future years, with the wider adoption of sanitary measures and a more extended system of drainage, this unsatisfactory condition may be very largely mitigated.

Prices of food and labour.

Health of the Division.

2. The manufactures of the Division are many and various. Cotton, twist and yarn, gunny bags and cloth, sugar and molasses, paper, silk, shellac and lac-dye, tobacco, soap, saltpetre, indigo, brass pots and bell-metal ware are only some of the more important. There were eighty factories actually at work at the close of the quinquennium, all except one being in the 24-Parganas. The average daily number of operatives in the factories, including men, women and children, was 123,882 as compared with 79,243 in the last year of the last quinquennium. The increase has been steady and continued, and forms one of the most satisfactory features of the report under review. Jute mills are reported to have proved fairly remunerative: two paper mills, both in the 24-Parganas, and one oil mill, within the Berhampore Municipality, were worked at a profit, while the silk industry carried on chiefly in the district of Murshidabad is flourishing and the demand slowly rising. The manufacture of sugar, however, in spite of the countervailing duties, is gradually declining, owing to competition with imported sugar. The indigo industry also, once the most important in the districts of Nadia, Murshidabad and Jessore, where it has been established for the last century, has been almost extinguished by the rise in the cost of labour and by competition with the cheaper synthetic indigo made in Germany. Brass and bell-metal utensils are manufactured in Nadia and Murshidabad, and locks and keys of good quality at Natagore, Kadihati and Gopalpur, in the district of the 24-Parganas. The manufacture of cotton towels, bed-sheets, wrappers and materials for coats, shirts and chapkans is an important industry in the Kushtea subdivision. There are steel trunk manufactories at Jiaganj, in the Lalbagh subdivision, which turn out a good number of trunks and boxes, rolled steel being obtained from Calcutta. All the work in these factories is done by native artisans under native supervision. Iron chests are also made by the blacksmiths of Jangipur, and the manufacture of blankets is carried on to a considerable extent in some villages of the Saddar and Jangipur subdivisions. On the other hand the Santipur muslin industry continues to decline, the weavers being unable to compete with the cheaply priced substitutes now flooding the market. The ivory carving industry in Murshidabad is also reported to be gradually declining.

Industries and Manufactures.

Trade and Commerce.

3. The traffic in this Division is carried on by rail, river and canal. In the last year of the quinquennium there was on the whole an increase in both imports and exports over the previous year. It is unsatisfactory to note from the report that in Nadia almost every article which may be considered as a necessary of life is brought from outside the district. Even rice, the staple food of the people, has to be imported in large quantities from North Bengal, Burdwan, the Sunderbans and Barisal, the quantity produced in the district itself not being sufficient for local requirements. It is also reported that trade in country cloth has rapidly declined, as the people prefer imported Manchester cloth on account of its superior gloss and fineness. It is to be hoped that the recent movement in favour of local industries will prevent the further decline of an industry which has hitherto given profitable employment to such large numbers of people.

Crime.

4. It is satisfactory to observe that the number of dacoity cases in the district of the 24-Parganas, which had gained an undesirable notoriety in this respect, fell from 16 in 1903 to 8 in 1904. This good result is attributed to the successful prosecution of a number of gang cases and the capture of several gangs. In the extreme east of the Khulna district considerable lawlessness with regard to land continues. On the whole, however, there is no general tendency to crime on the part of the people, and the criminal classes which are to be found in every country are here adequately held in check.

Public Works and Improvements—Railways.

5. It is satisfactory to note that progress was made with public works and improvements generally. One of the most important works of the quinquennium was the construction of the Ranaghat-Murshidabad branch of the Eastern Bengal State Railway. Branching off from the main line at Ranaghat it runs northward through the district of Nadia to Lalgolaghat on the Ganges in the extreme north of the district of Murshidabad. In the 24-Parganas also 26 miles of the Barasat-Basirhat Light Railway have been opened for traffic. In the same district, 9 irrigation and drainage sluices were constructed at a cost of Rs. 65,303. In Jessore, the excavation of a khal at Tona connecting the river Madhumati with the Navagunga was carried out at a cost of Rs. 17,727. Opened in 1901-02, it ranks as the most important khal in the district, and has greatly improved the means of communication by affording facilities to merchants and traders to the profit of the District Board at whose cost it was constructed. A sum of Rs. 20,000 was also expended on water-supply, and a scheme for the extension of the Laldighi at Jessore and the supply of filtered water to the town was partially carried out by the Jessore Municipality.

Irrigation and Drainage.

Communications.

6. The Lieutenant Governor observes with pleasure that much attention was paid to the improvement of the means of communication in the various districts. New roads were constructed and considerable sums expended on maintaining existing ones in an efficient state, while many of the khals that intersect the eastern portion of the Division were bridged, giving direct land communication with large tracts hitherto inaccessible, save by boat. In the 24-Parganas proposals for the improvement of the water communication between Calcutta and Eastern Bengal are still under consideration. It is proposed to improve Tolly's Nala and to open a steamer route direct from Armenian Ghât in Calcutta to Eastern Bengal viâ Budge-Budge. Such an improvement, though estimated to cost one crore of rupees, promises in the increased facilities offered to the trade of Calcutta to more than compensate the great expenditure involved.

Education.

7. The number of high schools and pupils attending them continues to show a marked increase, while Middle English schools and pupils remain almost stationary. Middle vernacular schools on the other hand show a decided decrease, there being only 155 schools against 209 and 8,880 pupils against 11,954 in 1900. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that considerable advance has been made during the quinquennium in the number and popularity of Primary schools and Girls' schools, the latter having increased by no less than 269 since 1900 while the number of pupils has increased from 13,945 to 20,488. The number of Muhammadan pupils also shows some advance on the previous quinquennium, though the percentage of Muhammadan pupils to the total number of pupils is still only 29·0. The small percentage of ministerial appointments held by Muhammadas in the Division is attributed to their general backwardness and to the absence of qualified candidates amongst them—a very regretable state of affairs. A striking increase in the number of aboriginal pupils in the various schools is recorded, the figures being given as 17,720 against only 271 in 1899-1901. The former figures however appear to include the lower classes of Hindus, Muhammadans and Native Christians, but the result is satisfactory as showing the progress of education among the most backward section of the community.

Hospitals and Dispensaries.

8. There has been an increase of five dispensaries during the quinquennium, four of which are in the 24 Parganas. It is satisfactory to note that greater use has been made of the dispensaries by both in-patients and out patients in all the districts, showing that the public is beginning to appreciate to a greater extent than before the benefits they offer. Their increased popularity at the same time speaks well for the efficient management of the dispensaries and the care bestowed upon the patients. Many structural improvements were carried out in existing dispensaries, while Medical centres were opened in the Jessore district to treat cases of malarial fever at times when it was particularly prevalent. The district is an exceedingly unhealthy one, and the floating dispensary, equipped by the District Board of Khulna to give immediate help in cases of epidemic diseases in the distant interior of the river district, where other means of communication scarcely exist, is reported to have worked satisfactorily and is particularly to be commended.

Relations between Landlords and Tenants.

9. The relations between landlords and tenants during the quinquennium were on the whole fairly satisfactory. In some of the Sundarban tracts, however, it is reported that petty landholders are in the habit of inducing tenants to take up land for reclamation on easy terms under invalid documents. Subsequently when the lands are brought well under cultivation they have endeavoured to oust these tenants, in order to secure higher rents for the lands. In Nadia, the practical abandonment of indigo cultivation and the transfer of old established concerns to land syndicates gave rise to many disputes in the northern part of the district. The demand of produce rent for other than indigo lands and of enhanced rents as compensation for abandoning the claim to grow indigo was strenously opposed by the tenants. In Jessore, it appears that the majority of the big zamindars are absentees, with the result that their naibs, usually ill-paid, uneducated, and unscrupulous men, greatly oppress the tenants in a number of small ways. It is to be much regretted that, with a few notable exceptions, the landlords in the district take but small interest in the welfare of their tenants and spend little on local work of public utility and philapthropy.

General remarks.

10. The panchayati system, which is now being gradually introduced, promises considerable improvement in the efficiency of the rural Police, the most respectable men in each union being appointed Presidents of panchayats and vested with various powers under the Criminal Procedure Code. The new system is still in its infancy, and District Officers should carefully watch its development, in order to bring it to the highest possible pitch of efficiency and prevent, as far as possible, the mistakes and misunderstanding which are inevitable at the outset of such an undertaking. When in full working order, the new system, it is hoped, will prove a great benefit to the people themselves and an immense help to local officers in the maintenance of order and the development of local institutions.

The public in the Division has already much appreciated the reduction of the salt duty and the raising of the minimum limit of assessment under the Income-tax Act from Rs. 500 to Rs. 1,000.

His Honour thanks Mr. Collin for his efficient administration of the Division, and Mr. Duke for his report.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

R. W. CARLYLE,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 510J.G., dated Calcutta, the 1st July 1905.

From—The Hon'ble Mr. F. W. Duke, c.s., Offg. Commr. of the Presidency Divn.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

III.—WEATHER AND CROP.

5. The average rainfall in the Division was greater than in the preceding year, being 57·97 inches against 55·06 inches in 1903-04, but less than in the first three years of the quinquennium as also than the previous average. The heaviest average rainfall in the Division during the quinquennium was 73·15 in 1900-1901 and the lowest was 55·06 in 1903-1904. The average of the last two years was less than the previous Divisional average by 4·19 and 1·28 inches, respectively, but that in the first three years exceeded the previous average by 13·90, ·58, and 4·09 inches, respectively. Considered by districts, the average rainfall for the year was greater than that of the preceding year in all the districts except Jessore (where it was less by only 04 inches), the heaviest (60·10) being in Khulna, and the smallest (53·61) in Murshidabad. 24-Parganas and Nadia received more rainfall than the previous average in all the years, but Murshidabad, Jessore, and Khulna were not so fortunate. In Murshidabad the district average exceeded the previous average only in 1902-1903, and nearly equalled it in 1904-1905, but in 1900-1901, 1901-1902, and 1903-1904 it was less than the average by 1·79, 2·13, and 4·14 inches, respectively. Jessore and Khulna received more than the average in 1900-1901 and 1902-1903, but in 1901-1902, 1903-1904, and 1904-1905 they fell short of it by 2·21 and 5·10, 4·51, and 17·27, and 4·55 and 11·97 inches, respectively. The heavy rainfall of the year 1900, especially the torrential rains of September 1900, caused floods all over the 24-Parganas district and damaged nearly the whole of the standing crops, and even seriously affected the outturn of 1901, as in the Diamond Harbour subdivision the accumulated rain water did not subside for months owing to defective drainage. The same downpour also damaged the crops in the other districts to a greater or less extent.

6. In 1901 the rainfall in the 24-Parganas, Nadia, and Jessore was seasonable and well distributed and thus favourable to the staple food-crops. The rainfall in Murshidabad was below the normal and the outturn of bhadoi and winter rice was poor. The rainfall was, however, favourable to the rabi crops, which were exceptionally good during the year. The deficiency of rainfall in the beginning of the year greatly affected the outturn of aus crop in Khulna.

7. In 1902 the distribution of rainfall was generally favourable to the crops in all the districts except Jessore, where the outturn was consequently below the average. In that year the other districts had generally good crops.

8. In 1903 the rainfall in the 24-Parganas was scanty during some months of the year, but the outturn of the winter rice and jute was just above the average. The uneven distribution of rainfall in Nadia during the year affected the outturn of bhadoi and jute crops. In consequence of deficient rainfall in Murshidabad, rice was below the average, but the rabi harvest was generally good. The rainfall was below the average in Jessore and Khulna; but being seasonable in Jessore gave a better outturn than in the preceding year, while it affected the outturn in Khulna to some extent.

9. In 1904 the total rainfall was greater than in the preceding year in all the districts. The rainfall, generally speaking, was not evenly distributed. The result was that the crops suffered to a certain extent. The outturn was, however, satisfactory on the whole. In some parts of the 24-Parganas the low-lying lands were flooded in consequence of abnormal rainfall of June and July 1904, and winter rice could not be grown on them. In Nadia and Murshidabad, the rabi harvest suffered badly owing to hailstorms, heavy rains, and extreme cold in February and March. In Jessore and Khulna the outturn was, on the whole, satisfactory.

10. Taking the Division as a whole, the result of the unequal distribution of rainfall was that the outturn of the crops did not come up to the normal. The average outturn of aman rice, which is the principal crop in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Jessore, and Khulna, works out to 79 per cent. against 93 per cent. of the preceding quinquennium. The bhadoi or aus crop, which is the most important harvest in Nadia and which is also very important in the 24-Parganas and Khulna, yielded an average outturn for the Division of 84 per cent. against 74 of the preceding quinquennium, and jute was 86 per cent. against 79·7. The rabi crops which are very important in some of the districts of the Division, yielded an average outturn of 94 per cent. during the period under review. Upon the whole it takes very exceptional circumstances to occasion anything like a failure of crops in this Division, and during the quinquennium it was only the great flood of 1900 which on a large scale, and the heavy rain of June and July 1904, which in a limited area of the 24-Parganas produced an absolute failure. Everywhere else at least moderate crops were always secured. There is nothing else of importance to remark about the crops except that jute is extensively and increasingly grown by the cultivators in Khulna.

IV.—PUBLIC HEALTH.

13. The general health of the Division in the year 1902 was much worse than in any other year of the quinquennium, the number of deaths recorded in that year being 295,961, or 39·2 per mille, while in Nadia it reached 50·64 per mille, and in Jessore 42·66 per mille. In these two districts deaths returned as from fever were 41·53 and 36 14 respectively. The mortality of the year exceeded that of 1899, when 286,407 deaths were recorded, and was the highest of the two quinquennial periods. The annual average number of deaths from all causes in the Division for the last quinquennium was 268,871, or 35·8 per mille of population, against 234,534, or 32·30 per mille of the previous quinquennial period. The increase was due to the increased number of deaths in all the districts of the Division in each of the years of the period under report except in 1901, which was distinctly healthier than any other year, fever contributing most to the number of deaths. Cholera raged with violence in 1900 in all the districts and in 1904 in all the districts except the 24-Parganas, but the district of Jessore was more than any other subject to this scourge, there being 7,711 deaths, or 4·3 per mille of population. In the years 1902 and 1903 the district of the 24-Parganas suffered most from cholera, there being 8,738 and 11,041 deaths respectively there in those years, or 5·2 and 6·57 per mille of population.

V.—MATERIAL CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE.

16. The outturn of crops in the last three or four years of the quinquennium was better in some districts than in the first year or two, but there was no material change in the condition of the agricultural population, who form the bulk of the people of this Division. The wages of skilled labour were everywhere good and the demand for unskilled labour also was very great in the mill industries of the district of the 24-Parganas and on the newly-constructed Ranaghat-Murshidabad line in Nadia and Murshidabad. Complaints, however, were heard about the decline in the condition of the landless middle classes who find the cost of living continually increasing without any corresponding expansion of their resources.

17. In the 24-Parganas, excepting in the year 1900-1901, when the floods caused by the excessive rainfall of September 1900 caused wholesale destruction of crops over a large area of the district, the outturn of crops was generally good and the cultivating classes were comparatively well off. In the last year of the quinquennium, however, plague broke out in a number of places in the Barrackpore subdivision of the district, which interfered a good deal with the comfort and material well-being of the people.

18. In Nadia the period was one of average prosperity, not marked by extremes of scarcity or abundance. While the disappearance of the indigo manufacture and the shrinkage of the rivers have tended to deprive some people of their means of support and to denude some towns of a large part of their population, the newly-constructed railway line is expected to benefit the district to a certain extent. The district was practically free from plague.

19. In Murshidabad there was no material change in the production of rops or in the condition of the people, except that in the last year of the uinquennium, the crops were damaged by heavy rainfall and want of seasonble rainfall. The silk industry supplies labour to some of the people and he lac industry is also prospering.

20. In Jessore, the outturn of crops was fairly good throughout the istrict except in the Jhenida subdivision where it was not even 75 per cent. of he average during the five years. The material well-being of the people, owever, was far from satisfactory owing to the unhealthiness of the district, nd the prevalence of malaria and cholera. It is reported that healthy people re rare in the district, and lands remain uncultivated for want of labourers. The death-rate also is high. There is at any rate no doubt that ill-health has apped the vitality of the people and markedly reduced their energy even in he pursuit of gain.

21. In Khulna, the outturn of crops was much better in the last three years han in the first two, but no variations were noticeable in the prices of foodgrains and the wages and earnings of the people. Skilled labour is very rare n the district; and to remove this want, a technical school with carpentry and oat-building classes has been recently opened. Attempts are also being made o establish agricultural banks in as many villages as possible, to enable the ultivators to borrow money, when required, at reasonable rates.

VII.—PRICES OF FOOD AND LABOUR.

24. During 1904-1905 the price of common rice, which forms the staple food of the bulk of the people in this Division, varied from 12 seers 11 chittaks in the rupee in the 24-Parganas to 15 seers in Khulna. There has been a general tendency to a fall in the price in the last three years of the quinquennium as compared with the preceding two years. In the 24-Parganas the rate in the last three years was over 12 seers per rupee, while it was under 11 seers in 1900-1901 and 1901-1902. The increase in the price during the last-named periods was due to the abnormal rainfall of 1900-1901 by which the winter rice crops in the greater part of the district were destroyed. There was no great fluctuation in the price during the five years in Nadia. The prices ranged between 12½ and 13 seers, except in the year 1901-1902, when it rose to 11 seers 3 chittaks in the rupee. In Murshidabad the price of common rice was higher in 1900-1901 and 1901-1902 than in the last three years of the period under report, it being due partly to short and badly-distributed rainfall and partly to exportation to scarcity-stricken districts. The price fell in 1902-1903 and remained almost uniform during the next two years. There has been a gradual increase in the price of rice in Jessore in the first three years of the quinquennium. The price fell in 1903-1904, but it again rose in 1904-1905. In Khulna the price of rice fell from 11 seers in 1900-1901 to 15 seers in the last year of the quinquennial period under review. Comparing the prices of the period under report with those of the preceding quinquennium by districts, it is observed that the price of common rice has risen in the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Murshidabad, and Jessore, while it has remained stationary in Khulna.

25. The price of salt fell during the quinquennium, owing to the reduction of the duty on it, in all the districts of this Division. The price was cheapest in Nadia in 1904-1905, being 13 seers 9 chittaks in the rupee, as compared with 12 seers 12 chittaks in Jessore and Khulna, 12 seers 13 chittaks in Murshidabad, and 13 seers 3 chittaks in the 24-Parganas.

27. It will be seen that in Nadia and Murshidabad there has been little or no change in the wages of labour during the quinquennial period under report, though there were temporary variations in 1903-1904 owing to the construction of the Ranaghat-Murshidabad Railway line. In the 24-Parganas the wages of superior masons and carpenters have risen from 10 annas and 11½ annas in 1899-1900 to annas 12 per diem in 1904-1905. Wages remained practically stationary in Khulna. In Jessore the rates are not uniform throughout the district. There has been a decline in the number of skilled labourers owing to the insanitary condition of the district.

VIII.—MANUFACTURES AND MINES.

28. The chief articles of manufacture in this Division are cotton twist and yarn, gunny bags and cloth, sugar and molasses, paper, silk, ice, shellac and lacdye, tobacco, soap, saltpetre, indigo, brass-pots, and bell-metal ware. The other minor articles which are manufactured are steel trunks and boxes, locks, mats, palm leaf braids, coarse cotton fabrics, muslin, blankets, nut-crackers, shell bracelets, ærated waters, ivory carvings, clay images, ploughs and cutlery.

29. The total number of factories actually at work at the close of the year 1903 was 76, viz., 75 in the 24-Parganas and one in Nadia, excluding the Tarpur Sugar Factory in Jessore which remained closed throughout the year. Five factories in the 24-Parganas were brought under the operation of the Factories Act and one factory in the same district was removed from the list during the course of the year 1904. Thus of 82 factories, 80 were actually at work at the close of the year against 65 in 1899, while another worked for part of the year only. The increase is due to the expansion of trade. In 46 factories work was carried on by shifts and sets, in 31 with midday stoppages and in 4 by shifts and midday stoppages. The number of factories exempted from the rule requiring a Sunday or weekly holiday was 21, while Sundays were observed as close holidays in 60 factories. The average daily number of operatives in the factories, including men, women, and children, was 1,23,882 as compared with 79,243 in 1899, the last year of the last quinquennium. The increase was gradual and steady. There was no noticeable change in the rates of wages during the quinquennial period under review. They are, however, much higher than those obtained by the people of the same classes who follow other pursuits.

32. The cotton and spinning trade was not profitable during the quinquennium. At the commencement of the year 1900, there was a very short supply of raw cotton owing to the partial failure of the crop, and prices ruled very high in consequence. Several mills were forced to close business. Prospects were very discouraging, and the Indian and China markets could not take off even the reduced amount of the mills' productions, and the mills continued to lose heavily. This gloomy state of affairs persisted long, and it was only after passing through several years' fluctuations, all more or less unfavourable, that prospects improved to some extent at the close of the quinquennial period under review.

33. The period under review was fairly remunerative to jute mills. Demand for raw jute was extensive and the prices ruled high ranging from Rs. 3-12 per maund for the lowest quality at the highest point up to Rs. 7 per maund for the best quality. Hessians and sacking cloth are the two most important products of the jute mills, and are exported to all parts of the world in the form of bags and cloth. There was a good demand for jute-manufactured articles and the jute mills were fully employed. Labour had been in good supply until the month of March every year, when there was a large exodus of emigrant labourers to their native villages up-country, as food supplies remained comparatively cheap and they had money to spare. There is constant grumbling from the great textile industries about the unsettled character of the labour force and the difficulty of getting workers to make a permanent domicile in this part of the country, but considering that there has been an increase of over 50 per cent. in 5 years, it is not wonderful that the demand exceeds the supply.

34. As reported in the last quinquennial report, there are only two paper mills in this division, both in the 24-Parganas—one at Titaghur and the other at Kankinara. The former is now known as the Titaghur Paper Mill No. I, and the latter having passed into the hands of the Titaghur Paper Mills Company, Limited, as the Titaghur Paper Mill No. II. The papers manufactured in these mills are white printing, badami, coloured printing, cartridge, blotting, brown, super-calendered writings and printings, and C. S. and T. S. writings. Rags, grass, straw, jute, old gunnies, hemp, baggings, and ropes and waste paper are the raw materials used for the purpose.

36. An oil mill was at work at Doyanagar within the Berhampore Municipality in the district of Murshidabad during the quinquennial period under review. The produce of the mill is shown below for the five years as compared with the year 1899 :—

Year.	Outturn of oil in maunds.	Value Rs.	Outturn of oilcake in maunds.	Value Rs.
1899	8,681	1,12,522	17,569	23,347
1900	7,000	98,000	14,000	21,000
1901	6,497	1,07,665	12,840	22,470
1902	8,991	1,17,117	16,454	17,299
1903	6,924	95,201	12,652	17,841
1904	9,939	1,03,523	17,650	22,482

37. The indigo industry, once the most important in the districts of Nadia, Murshidabad, and Jessore, where it had been established for the last century, has almost been extinguished by the rise in the cost of labour and the competition since the introduction of the cheaper synthetic indigo made in Germany. The former proprietors of large concerns have in most cases sold or are selling their lands to syndicates and private owners, who have become mere receivers of rent.

38. The silk industry is carried on to some extent in the 24-Parganas, but more extensively in the district of Murshidabad, especially in thanas Hariharpara and Doulatabazar of the Sadar subdivision and thana Mirzapur of the Jangipur subdivision. There are European firms in Murshidabad from whom statistics are not available. The following table shows the outturn of silk cloth produced by the native weavers of Mirzapur, where the best stuff is manufactured, during the last five years:—

Year.	Quantity. Yds.	Value. Rs.	Year.	Quantity. Yds.	Value. Rs.
1900 ...	13,535	14,016	1903 ...	46,087	41,964
1901 ...	35,820	51,502	1904 ...	63,347	76,796
1902 ...	43,654	51,016

39. It will be seen from the above table that the trade is flourishing and the demand is rising gradually.

40. The manufacture of sugar by the country method is gradually declining, owing to competition with imported sugar, in spite of the countervailing duties.

41. Brass and bell-metal utensils are manufactured in Nadia and Murshidabad. Those of a superior quality are manufactured in considerable quantities in Khagra, Berhampore, Kandi, Baranagore, and Jangipur in the district of Murshidabad. Locks and keys of good quality are manufactured at Natagore, Kadihati, and Gopalpur, in the district of the 24-Parganas. Mats and palm-leaf braids were the principal manufactures in thanas Diamond Harbour and Fulta. They are sent to the Calcutta markets for sale, palm-leaf braids being used for manufacture of straw hats. The latter occupation is not very remunerative. It is generally carried on by females and children and males during leisure hours. The Collector of Nadia reports that the Santipur muslin industry continues to dwindle, as the weavers cannot sell their wares at the cheap prices at which imported articles are offered. The number of weavers at Santipur is disproportionately large as compared with the demand for fine cloth, and the industry is not expected to revive as long as the cost of manufacture in the old hand looms remains stationary. An attempt was made to introduce the use of the fly-shuttle, and in 1901 two weavers were sent to Serampore to learn the use of the fly-shuttle. But the experiment has not proved a success, as the fly-shuttle looms are said to be unsuited for the fine borders for which the Santipur cloths are famous. The manufacture of cotton towels, bedsheets, wrappers and materials for coats, shirts and chapkans is an important industry in the Kushtea subdivision. There are steel trunk manufactories at Jiaganj, in the Lalbagh subdivision, which turn out a good number of trunks and boxes, rolled steel being obtained from Calcutta. The work is done by native artisans under native supervision. The blacksmiths of Jangipur also manufacture iron chests. A blacksmith at Dhuliyan, in the Jangipur subdivision, makes betelnut cutters which are in considerable demand. The ivory carving industry in Murshidabad is gradually declining. The manufacture of blankets is carried on to a considerable extent in some villages of the Sadar and Jangipur subdivisions. Those manufactured at Aurangabad, in the Jangipur subdivision, are of a superior quality, each piece being worth Rs. 7 to Rs. 8. In the districts of Jessore and Khulna, there is no such industry worth mentioning.

42. There are no mines in this Division.

XXI.—INCOME-TAX.

124. The following table shows the demand, collection and balance of income-tax in the several districts of this Division, including Calcutta, during the year 1904-05 :—

District.	Gross demand.	Remission.	Net demand.	Collection.	Balance.	Collection in the year 1900-01.	Difference between columns 5 and 7.
							Increase.	Decrease.	Percentage of increase.	Percentage of decrease.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
24-Parganas	79,413	3,799	76,614	71,411	4,603	76,426		5,015	..	6·6
Calcutta	25,80,309	59,918	25,20,391	24,30,449	89 942	22,35,105	1,95,344	..	8·7	..
Nadia	46,734	2,433	44,301	44,196	105	61,042		16,846	...	27·6
Murshidabad	18,668	3,224	60,444	60,340	104	71,516	...	11,178	.	15 6
Jessore	32,218	943	31,276	30,849	427	46,836	...	15,987	...	34·1
Khulna	29,431	580	28,551	28,644	207	41,836		13,193	...	31·5
Total ...	28,36,773	75,496	27,61,377	26,65,889	95,388	25,32,760	1,95,344	62,215	7·7	2 5

The gross demand for the Division amounted to Rs. 28,36,773 as compared with Rs. 27,63,452 in 1900-01 the first year of the quinquennium under report, and Rs. 27,23,437 in 1899-1900 the last year of the preceding quinquennium, showing an increase of Rs. 73,321 or 2·7 per cent. over the figures for 1900-01 and an increase of Rs. 1,13,336, or 4·2 per cent. over those for 1899-1900. The increase is the net result of the increase in the demand in Calcutta and the decrease in the other districts of the Division.

The decrease in the mufassal districts was due to the raising of the assessable limit in 1903-04 from Rs. 500 to Rs. 1,000 by the recent amendment of the Act. In Calcutta, though over a lakh and a quarter of revenue was lost in 1903-04 for the same reason still in comparison with the figures for 1900-01 and 1899-1900, there was an increase in the demand due to commercial prosperity.

XXIII.—RAILWAYS AND OTHER PUBLIC WORKS.

Railways and Tramways.

132. The chief event of the period under this head was the construction of the Ranaghat-Murshidabad Branch of the Eastern Bengal State Railway. It is now almost complete and has been already opened for goods traffic. It branches off from the main line at Ranaghat and runs northward through the district of Nadia to Lalgolaghat on the Ganges in the extreme north of the district of Murshidabad.

133. In the district of the 24-Parganas, 26 miles of the Barasat-Basirhat Light Railway were opened for traffic by Messrs. Martin & Co. The following extensions of lines in and around Calcutta have been found necessary and are now being constructed :—

I.—Cossipore Chitpur Terminal Improvements, 13·27 miles including sidings.—These are expected to be opened to traffic (goods) by the end of June 1905.

II.—Duplicating the line from Canal junction to Kankurgachi, 3·12 miles.—It will probably be opened by the end of June 1905.

III.—Kankurgachi chord, 4·54 miles.—It will probably be completed in June 1906.

IV.—Duplicating the line from canal junction to Dum-Dum junction, 1·45 miles.—It is expected to be opened to goods traffic by the end of July 1905.

To develop mill traffic, sidings partially at the cost of the mill-owners and partially at the cost of the Railway, have been or are being undertaken at various stations (Kankinara, Tittagarh, Agarpara, &c.)

Besides the above the following improvements were carried out in connection with the several lines of Railway:—

I.—Construction of an overbridge over the Brace Bridge Hall sidings completed in 1903.

II.—Widening the overbridges at Belgachia Road and Barrackpore Road in connection with the Cossipore-Chitpur Terminal Improvements.

III.—Construction of the junction with the Bengal-Nagpur Railway at Shalimar (Garden Reach) for interchange of rolling-stock, effected in August 1904. The following general improvements require mentioning.

The replacement of 75 lb. rails by 85 lb. rails is being carried out gradually between Naihati and Calcutta. The girders of weak bridges have been renewed or strengthened as found necessary. Brick ballast has been replaced by stone between Naihati and Calcutta. Wooden fencing posts have been replaced by iron ones. Interlocking cabins, modern block instruments and improved methods of signalling trains have been introduced at all the important stations. The Baliaghata goodsyard has been widened.

134. The Ranaghat-Krishnagar Light Railway, which proved too great a burden to the finances of the District Board of Nadia, was transferred to the Eastern Bengal State Railway authorities from 1st July 1904.

The District Board of Nadia contemplate a scheme for the construction of a steam tramway from Krishnagar to Jellinghee viâ Meherpur, and a survey is now being made through the agency of the Eastern Bengal State Railway authorities. A survey is also being made by the same authorities for a line from Kalna to Ranaghat viâ Santipur. Also a project for a light railway from Kotechandpur in the district of Jessore to Shibnibash station on the Eastern Bengal State Railway is being considered by the District Board of Jessore.

135. The East Indian Railway Company have also put in proposals for a new line along the western bank of the Bhagirathi from Barharwa to Cutwa for which the preliminary survey has already been finished.

Other public works.

136. In the district of the 24-Parganas, nine irrigation and drainage sluices were constructed at a cost of Rs. 65,303. A sum of Rs. 9,212 was spent for improving the Khurda khal and providing wing walls and breast walls on the up-stream side of the sluice of that khal. Also 14 retired lines of embankment, including the one 14 miles and 2,864 feet in length on the left bank of the Peali River, were constructed at a cost of Rs. 1,47,232. A sum of Rs. 12,037 was spent in the construction of the Local Board's office building at Basirhat in making certain additions to and alterations in the District Board's office building at Alipur, and in constructing and in making certain additions to and alterations in certain dispensary buildings. Also eight tanks were excavated at a cost of Rs. 9,652 and a masonry well at Habra thana was constructed at a cost of Rs. 598.

137. In the district of Murshidabad, the Bhagwangola retired line of embankment from Jeaganj to Bhagwangola was constructed at a cost of Rs. 1,35,692.

138. In Jessore, the excavation of a khal at Tona called the Hallifax Canal after Mr. Hallifax, the late Collector of the district, and connecting the River Madhumati with the Navagunga was effected at a cost of Rs. 17,227. It is the most important khal in the district; it was opened for traffic in 1901-02 and has improved the communication of the district by affording facilities to merchants and traders to the profit of the District Board at whose cost it was constructed. Over Rs. 20,000 were spent on water-suplpy and a scheme for the extension of the Laldighi at Jessore, and supply of filtered-water to the residents of the town was partially carried out by the Jessore Municipality. Also a sum of about Rs. 6,000 was spent in making certain miscellaneons and sanitary improvements in the Government estates in the district. Certain additions to, and alterations in, the subdivisional office buildings at Jhenida and Narail were effected out of the Public Works funds, and detailed enquiries were completed for the improvements of the Bhairab valley.

139. In Khulna, more than Rs. 1,000 were spent in improving the drainage of the six unions. A dâk bungalow, a carpenters shed for a technical school, a veterinary hospital building, a quarter for the Veterinary Assistant and a Coronation Hall were built, besides two dispensary buildings with Doctor's quarters at Nawapara and Dumuria. A large Civil Court building, quarters for the two Munsifs, a dead-house and quarters for the Treasuary guards were constructed by the Public Works Department at the head quarters of Satkhira-subdivision. Also Court buildings for the Honorary and Sub-Deputy Magistrates, office buildings for the Court Sub-Inspector and the Inspectors with malkhana and hajat, three Civil Court buildings, quarters for the three Munsifs, a dead-house and quarters for the Treasury guards were constructed at the Bagirhat subdivision, and an extension was made to the Sub-jail. Certain buildings were also constructed at the Sadar for the Treasury guards for the jail, school liberary, Police and the Forest Department officers.

Also more then Rs. 2,000 were spent for embankment and about Rs. 500 in miscellaneous improvements in the Khas Mahals.

CHAPTER XXIV.—COMMUNICATIONS.

Roads.

140. During the quinquennial period under review, the District Board of the 24-Parganas expended Rs. 48,130 in the construction of about 19 miles of district roads, the most important of which were a feeder road 4½ miles in length from Cherial to Bawali at a cost of Rs. 18,044, a road about seven furlongs in length from Barashahibs Hât at Garden Reach to Lower Hooghly Mills at Badartolla at a cost of Rs. 13,948, and a feeder road 4½ miles long from Kulsoor to Muslandpur on the Bengal Central Railway at a cost of Rs. 11,110. They also spent Rs. 51,807 in metalling some 15 miles of district roads of which the most important was the road from Basirhat to Kumrakhal, 4¼ miles in length, at a cost of Rs. 19,987. Over Rs. 30,000 were spent in the construction of bridges and culverts, of which the most important were a bridge of two spans of 15 feet each for providing additional waterway in the Calcutta-Jessore road over the Bagjolla khal at a cost of Rs. 6,632 and a similar bridge in the Dum-Dum Cossipore road over that khal at a cost of Rs. 6,678. The District Board of Nadia expended Rs. 57,857 on the improvement of roads and construction of bridges, of which the metalling of the Krishnagar-Plassey road, the improvement of the Bhuramara-Taragonia road, the bridging of the Hanshadanga and Bhauga khals on the former road and of the Arangsdrisha khal on the Krishnagar-Meherpur road, were the most important. For all of these special grants were given from the Provincial revenues. The Board could not spend much on new works, and in all such enterprises they had been materially assisted by Government as the district is large, while its cess income is limited, and it contains a number of district and feeder roads originally constructed from Provincial funds before District Boards come into existence.

141. The District Board of Murshidabad expended on an average about Rs. 18,000 per annum on original works for raising, improving and constructing district roads, culverts and causeways. Their principal undertaking was the raising and metalling of a portion of the Kandi road from Radhaghat to Kulee, for which Rs. 20,000 were allotted by this office from the grant of Rs. 48,000 made to this Division from Provincial revenues for the improvement of communications in backward places. A sum of Rs. 20,000 has also been sanctioned by Government for the construction of feeder roads to the Ranaghat-Murshidabad branch of the Eastern Bengal State Railway. Survey work for all these roads has been finished and plans and estimates of some of them have been sent up by the District Board to the Superintending Engineer for sanction. The District Board of Jessore expended Rs. 73,969 during the quinquennium in metalling 4 miles and 35 chains of district roads and in constructing bridges of about 500 running feet. The District Board of Khulna metalled 14 miles of district roads. They expended Rs. 86,953 on civil works including the cost of Public Works establishment. Owing to the opening of the light railway from Basirhat to Barasat, the metalling of the road from Satkhira to Basirhat has been taken up. A part of the road lies in the district of the 24-Parganas. The cost of the Khulna portion has been estimated at Rs. 50,000,, of which Rs. 30,000 have been allotted from the grant of Rs. 48,000 made to this Division from the Provincial revenues for the improvement of communications in backward places. Rupees 10,000 have also been allotted from the same grant for the improvement of the portion of the road lying in the 24-Parganas.

Arboriculture.

142. The District Board of the 24-Parganas expended on an average Rs. 412 per annum on the maintenance of the existing trees along the district roads, Nadia Rs. 548, Murshidabad Rs. 628, Jessore spent Rs. 1,282 in planting new trees and maintaining the existing ones, and Khulna planted 1,100 new trees, the cost averaging Rs. 368 per annum, including the cost of maintaining the old ones.

River communications.

143. In the 24-Parganas the proposals for the improvement of the water communication between Calcutta and Eastern Bengal are still under the consideration of the local officers. It is proposed to improve Tolly's Nala and to open a steamer route direct from Armenian ghat in Calcutta to East Bengal, viâ., Budge-Budge. The proposed improvements are estimated to cost about one crore of rupees, which will be recouped in less than 30 years. The proposals have been returned to the District Officer for reconciling certain differences o opinion between the local Public Works Department officers and the civil officers, and are now being considered and elaborated by them. The improvements are very desirable in the interests of the trade of Calcutta, and when effected will more than compensate the enormous expenditure involved. The deepening of certain navigable channels at a cost of about five lakhs in connection with the Mograhat drainage scheme has been sanctioned by Government. The local Public Works officers are to carry out the scheme.

CHAPTER XXVI.—EDUCATION.

144. Table XXVI shows the state of education in the last year of the quinquennial period under review as compared with the last years of the preceding two quinquennial periods. The number of schools slightly decreased when compared with the year 1894-95 but it increased by 675 and the number of pupils attending them by 25,337 or 12·8 per cent., when compared with the year 1899-1900. The number of high English schools increased by 25 with 3,339 pupils, as against an increase of 24 schools with 5,175 pupils in the preceding quinquennium. The number of of middle schools decreased from 387 in 1894-95 to 369 in 1899-1900 and further to 324 in 1904-1905 and the number of pupils attending them from 25,790 to 23,539 and further to 20,372 during the same periods. The decrease occurred in the number and pupils of vernacular institutions (Middle Vernacular Schools) in all the districts in the Division though there was a slight increase in those of Middle English Schools. The decrease is due chiefly to the fact that those institutions have lost their popularity with the people who prefer to educate their boys in English and under a better staff of teachers This has contributed to the increase in the number and pupils of High Engilish Schools. The number of Primary schools decreased by 81 when compared with the year 1894-95 but has increased by 654 as compared with 1899-1900, the increase being steady and appreciable in the case of Upper Primary Schools. The number of pupils attending both the Upper and Lower Primary Schools rose by 24,137, while during the preceding quinquennium it fell by 3,357. The number of Special schools increased by 41 owing to the establishment of Guru-training schools and returned 1,939 pupils, as against 911 in 1899-1900 and 620 in 1894-95. The Division has a total population of 8,145,332 persons according to the census of 1901, of whom there were 621,221 boys of school-going age at 15 per cent. of the male population. The number of pupils actually at school was 35·9 per cent. of the boys of school-going age, as against 33·3 per cent. in the last year of each of the two preceding quinquennial periods.

The total expenditure on education shows a gradual increase under all the heads except Middle Schools. The expenditure from the Provincial revenues increased chiefly under the heads "Primary" and "Special" schools and decreased under the head "High Schools". The District Boards' expenditure increased to an appreciable extent under the heads "High Schools" and "Primary Schools" The expenditure from the Municipal funds increased under the heads "High and Primary Schools," but it decreased greatly under the head Middle schools as compared with the year 1894-95 though there was a slight increase as compared with the year 1899-1900. The expenditure from other sources increased under the heads "high" and "speical" schools but gradully decreased in the case of Middle and Primary Schools. The rise in the expenditure from the Provincial revenues on primary education was due to special grants made for the improvement of primary education.

University education.

145. There are four colleges in the Division, of which the one at Daulatpur in Khulna is an unaffiliated one and is reported to be doing fairly good work though it has a poor laboratory. The three other colleges, viz., the Krishnagar College in Nadia, the Berhampore College in Murshidabad and the Narail Victoria College in Jessore send up pupils for examinations in arts, the College in Narail being, however, a second grade College only, while the two others are first grade Colleges. The Berhampore College has been transferred to the management of a Board of Trustees with Maharaja Manindro Chandra Nandi of Cossimbazar as President by whom it is now financed and the District Magistrate and the District Judge as members. It now imparts instruction up to the M. A. standard of the Calcutta University in Arts and up to the B. L. standard in Law of the same University.

CHAPTER XXVII.—HOSPITALS AND DISPENSARIES.

151. Appendix XXVII to this report shows the working of hospitals and dispensaries in the Division during the quinquennium 1900—1904 as compared with the two preceding quinquennial periods There were 58 indoor and outdoor dispensaries in the Division during the period under report, against 53 in 1895—99 and 42 in 1890—94. The increase of five dispensaries during the period under report was due to the establishment of four new dispensaries in the 24-Parganas, viz, Tentulia, Pelpukur, Magrahat and Garden Reach, to the inclusion in this category, of the Jhenidah and Bangoon dispensaries which had hitherto treated only police cases as indoor patients and to the closure of the Arnakali Zanana Hospital in Murshidabad in the preceding quinquennium which was then reported but not removed from the list. The number of outdoor dispensaries also rose, of which Nadia contributed three, Jessore one and Khulna five.

The total average annual income in the present quinquennium was Rs. 1,81,109, against Rs. 1,36,717 in 1895—99 and Rs. 91,323 in 1890—94. There was an increase in all districts in the income derived from municipal and District Board grants except in the 24-Parganas, where however, private subscriptions have more than compensated the loss from that source.

The average annual number of in-patients treated during the present quinquennium was 6,227, against 5,231 in 1895—99 and 3,938 in 1890—94, and that of out-patients was 431,397, against 333,462 in 1895—99 and 199,831 in 1890—94. The rise was gradual in all the districts and is probably due to the greater appreciation by the public of the English method of treatment and the care taken of the patients treated in the dispensaries. The average annual total number of patients similarly rose from 203,769 in 1890—94 to 338,693 in 1895—99 and to 437,624 in 1900—1904. The daily average number of in-patients treated during the quinquennium was 125·3, against 113·7 in 1895—99 and 95·2 in 1890—94, and that of out-patients 4,649·2, against 3,934·9 in 1895—99 and 4,898·6 in 1890—94. The cost of diet per in-pattent has risen from annas two in 1890—94 to annas two and pies six in 1900—1904, and the total number of out-patients treated was 5·2 per cent of the total population of the Division against 4·2 in 1895—99 and 2·9 in 1890—94.

152. In the 24-Parganas a new masonry building was constructed during the quinquennium for the Baruipur Municipal Dispensary, and the site of the North Dum-Dum Municipal Dispensary was shifted from Nimta to Birati, where a new building was constructed for the purpose The Garulia dispensary opened an indoor ward and the Joynagar dispensary had a building constructed for the same purpose, but the latter could not be opened for want of funds. Towards the close of the year 1904-1905 Government sanctioned some improvements in the North Suburban Hospital at Cossipore at an estimated cost of Rs. 28,000 and granted a contribution of Rs. 20,000 for the purpose. The improvements are being carried out under the supervision of the Public Works Department of Government.

153. In the district of Murshidabad the Berhampore Charitable Dispensary was considerably improved by the addition of a female ward for receiving in patients, the construction of a cottage ward and the addition of a separate out door dispensary from the donation of Rs. 6,000 given by Raja Jogendra Narayan Roy of Lalgola for the purpose. The same gentleman has also given a further sum of Rs. 5,000 for the construction of an operation room in the dispensary and Government has contributed Rs. 500 for surgical equipments. It is proposed to add quarters to the Murshidabad Dispensary for the Lady Doctor attached to it and Government has sanctioned a contribution of Rs. 500 for its equipment. The Kandi Grish Chandra Hospital, which is maintained from the interest of an endowment of Rs. 1,60,400 made by the late Kumar Girish Chandra Sinha of Paikpara, supplemented by an annual grant of Rs. 600 from the local municipality, is reported to be very popular and certain improvements are proposed to the existing building for which purpose land has already been acquired. Babu Dhanput Singh Nowlakha made a generous gift of Rs. 15,000 for the construction of a new building for the Azimganj Dispensary, the foundation-stone of which has already been laid. This gentleman has paid a further sum of Rs. 1,070 for the equipment of the dispensary towards which Government has also contributed Rs. 500. Considerable improvements have been effected in the Jangipur Dispensary building also.

154. In Jessore medical centres were opened at Kaliganj, Sripur and several other places to treat cases of malarial fever which prevailed with virulence in 1904-1905 and Civil Hospital Assistants from the nearest dispensaries visited those centres on fixed days to distribute medicine to the patients who came from the surrounding villages. The district is exceedingly unhealthy and malarial fever prevails here to an appalling extent. The facilities for medical relief are most inadequate and a great many more dispensaries and hospitals are considered to be absolutely necessary, though the District Board has not yet been able to undertake the additional work for want of funds. In Khulna a pauper ward was added to each of the dispensary buildings at Khulna and Bagirhat, and the suggestions of the Inspector General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, as regards improvements in furniture, buildings, instruments, and separation of male and female patients as well as other suggestions were carried out during the quinquennium. The "Floating Dispensary" opened by the District Board of Khulna to give immediate medical help in cases of epidemic diseases in the distant interior of that river district is specially mentioned as having worked satisfactorily and fulfilled the object in view.

155. Besides the public dispensaries there were several private charitable dispensaries in the Division, of which the following are specially mentioned as having done exceptionally good work during the period under review:—

(1) The dispensary at Krishnagar, maintained by the Church of England Zanana Mission for the treatment of women.

(2) The Natudah Dispensary, maintained by the Pal Choudhuries of Natudah.

(3) The Ranaghat Medical Mission's Hospital and Dispensary at Ranaghat, opened under the direction of Mr. J. Monro, C.B., formerly of the Bengal Civil Service.

The last-named Mission has, besides this hospital at Ranaghat for men and women, dispensaries at Kaliganj, Santipur and Bhawanipur in addition to the original dispensary at Ranaghat. Its operations have been at present temporarily suspended or reduced.

XXXIV.—SOCIAL AND POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS.

174. There are no social or political institutions of any importance in this Division. In the 24-Parganas, the only institutions worth mentioning are the Branch Indian Association at Diamond Harbour, the Barasat Association, the Barrackpore People's Association and the Halisahar Goodwill Fraternity, besides which there are some rate payers' associations in some of the municipalties, whose object is to bring the views of a minority of the Municipal Commissioners to the notice of Government. Of the associations referred to above the Branch Indian Association, which is composed chiefly of local pleaders, is now almost defunct. The Barasat Association is the oldest institution in the subdivision, where it is doing some good work. It maintains a girls' school and a small library, helps the needy and watches and criticises the proceedings of the Municipal Commissioners. The Barrackpore People's Association degenerated in character and submitted some malicious petitions, on which it has ceased to be recognised by the Government. It is to be regretted that the Home for Hindu widows at Baranagore ceased to exist in 1901-1902 owing to the continued ill-health of its founder, Babu Sashipada Banerji. There are Hari Sabhas at Diamond Harbour, Gopalnagar, Natra and other places. These are purely religious institutions. In Nadia there are no social or political institutions. There are only some local societies for charitable purposes, besides some rate-payers' associations in the towns. The Collector says that the pleaders' and muktears' libraries form centres for the support of the Congress movement. There is a Murshidabad branch of the Indian Association in the Murshidabad district, whose objects are both political and social. Under instructions from Calcutta, the association dealt with such subjects as the separation of the Judicial from the Executive Department of the Government, the reform of the Police, the Calcutta University Bill, the Partition of Bengal, etc. The other associations at the head-quarters of the district are the Murshidabad Muhammadan Association, which aims at the intellectual and moral amelioration of the condition of the Muhmmadan community, and the Anjumani, the aim of which is to help the poor and the distressed. Besides these there are (1) the "Kayastha Samiti" at Jangipur, the object of which is to fix the social position of the Kayasthas and to bring about the fusion of the four classes of that caste into one; (2) the "Arangabad Sanmilani" also in the Jangipur subdivision, the chief object of which is to construct and repair roads, to sink wells, and to assist the helpless, the sick and the old; and (3) the "Mahisya Samiti," which deals exclusively with social matters relating to the caste of Mahesyas. In Jessore the "Brahmachari Asram" is maintained by Rai Jodunath Mojumdar Bahadur, by whom it was originally started with the object of imparting instruction in the Vedas and the other sacred books of the Hindus. It has not, however, so far proved very successful. There are in the district some other institutions of a purely local character, such as the "Kalia Young Men's Association," the "Jessore Young Men's Association" and the "Magura Progressive Union," the last two of which have now a merely nominal existence. A few "Hari Savas" also exist here and there, where men occasionally meet, discuss religious matters and sing religious songs. The Khulna People's Association in Khulna, though an old institution, now exists merely in name and is in evidence only when His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor visits the town A new club, named the "Gentlemen's Club," was started at Khulna in 1903-1904 This is a social institution, and has no concern with politics. There are two religious institutions in the district one at Khulna, called the "Dharma Sabha," and the other at Bagerhat, known as the "Hari Sabha."

CHAPTER XXXVI.—RELATION BETWEEN LANDLORDS AND TENANTS.

177. In the 24-Parganas the relations between landlords and tenants are reported to have been fairly satisfactory during the quinquennium except in a few cases. It is said that in the Sundarban tracts within the Diamond Harbour and Basirhat subdivisions, some of the petty landholders, who are known as gantidars or lotdars, are in the habit of inducing tenants to take up lands for reclamation on easy terms under invalid documents, and subsequently, as soon as the lands are brought under cultivation, of trying to oust them in favour of a new set of tenants. This occasionally led to the institution of cases under sections 107 and 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code in connection with reclaimed lands in the Sundarbans. The raiyats of the Sundarbans are generally rack rented and oppressed by the lotdars. There were complaints against * * * * *

*, for neglecting to repair the embankments which he was bound to repair under the leases granted to him and for not giving printed rent-receipts to his tenants. Under the instructions of Mr. Stevenson-Moore, the Subdivisional Officer of Diamond Harbour, called upon the landlord to produce the counterfoil rent-receipts. This has had the desired effect and matters are now going on smoothly. The tenants of * * * also complained against their landlords for oppression and exaction of abwabs and a naib of the former was convicted under section 348, Indian Penal Code, and sentenced to suffer rigorous imprisonment for three months and to pay a fine of Rs. 200. The sentence has had a salutary effect and the relation between these landlords and their tenants has now become more satisfactory. There were complaints also against * * * * * * * * * and a few minor proprietors that they did not keep the embankments which protect the lands of their tenants from the ingress of salt water in proper repair, and that they were enhancing rents by consolidating abwabs with them and were refusing to give pattas except with conditions which were illegal and oppressive. Some of these matters are still pending at the end of the year. In the Basirhat subdivision * * * * * * * * tried to get enhanced rents from their tenants. The landlords in the Barasat and Basirhat subdivisions are largely absentees, * * * * and * *. The tenants in the Basirhat subdivision, whose crops were destroyed by the floods of September 1900, got some help from their landlords in the shape of seed-grains. It is reported that the Port Canning Company treat their tenants with kindness and consideration, and spend a large amount annually for the construction and repair of embankments. Raja Benay Krishna Deb of Sovabazar, the heirs of the late Babu Prosad Das Dutt, the late Maharaja Durga Charan Law, and Babu Mohendra Nath Patra of Belpukur are well spoken of as zamindars. The last named gentleman contributed a sum of Rs. 3,000 towards the establishment of a dispensary at Belpukur, and in previous years he subscribed liberally towards other works of benevolence and public utility.

178. In Nadia the abandonment of the indigo cultivation and the transfer of old established concerns to land syndicates gave rise to many disputes in the northern part of the district, especially in the Shikarpur concern in 1903-1904. The demand of produce rents for other than indigo lands and of enhanced rents as compensation for abandoning the claim to grow indigo was strenuously opposed by the tenants. It is probable that the utbandi system which prevails generally will gradually give place to a more settled tenure. The tenants in many cases claim occupancy rights and there were rumours that the utbandi system was to be abolished and that a low rate had been fixed for utbandi lands. Litigation is still going on in the Civil Courts, but the matters in dispute have, in most cases, been arranged. The levy of abwabs is still reported occasionally. Babu * * * is responsible for most of the litigation in the civil and settlement courts, the chief point at issue being the standard of measurement.

179. In Murshidabad the relations between the landlords and their tenants were generally cordial with only a few exceptions. The estate of the Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad continued to be well managed. Raja Jogendra Narain Roy of Lalgola is said to be a model zamindar who deserves great praise for his peaceful and benevolent disposition and his sympathy with his tenants. Munshi Zillar Rahman alias Raja Mian of Talibpur and Chaudhuri Keramatulla of Salar did their best to alleviate the distress of their tenants in 1903-1904, when the Kandi subdivision was visited with a drought. In the case of the long-standing dispute between Maharaja Manindra Chandra Nandi of Cossimbazar and his Beldanga tenants, a survey and record-of-rights was sanctioned by Government, but as the work was about to be taken in hand, the leading tenants went over to the Maharaja's party and applied to have the matter dropped. The other tenants, however, are still urging on the necessity for the proceedings being continued The question has not yet been settled.

180. The big zamindars in Jessore are, for the most part, absentees and take little interest in the welfare of their tenants. It is stated that they spend very little on local works of public utility or philanthropy. The naibs are generaly ill paid, illiterate and unscrupulous, and are oppressive towards the tenants. The * zamindars are on chronic bad terms with the Jalias or fishermen * *, and there have been numerous cases, civil and criminal, between the parties. The Narail zamindars have, it is reported, improved in their conduct towards their tenants. In the Jhenidah subdivision there were disputes between Mr. Shirreff and his tenants, as the former demanded increased rent, and several criminal cases were instituted. One of the tahsildars of Mr. Shirreff was also murdered by the tenants. A survey and record-of rights of the villages was ordered by Government and taken in hand, but it was subsequently stopped on the application of Mr. Shirreff who stated that he had come to an amicable settlement with his tenants. Raja Promotho Bhushan Deb Roy of Naldanga is reported on favourably as a benevolent and sympathetic zamindar and Mr. Shirreff also is, on the whole, commended as a good landlord. In Khulna, as in Jessore, the zamindars are mostly non-residents and their properties are left entirely under the supervision of the local agents who are generally ill-paid * *. Abwabs or illegal cesses were, it is reported, exacted by * * * * *

*. Roy Hari Charan Choudhury Bahadur and Babu Girija Nath Roy Choudhury, among the resident zamindars, and the Honble Justice Chandra Mahdeb Ghose, Babu Narendra Kumar Mitter and Mr. B. Pal Choudhury, among the non-resident zamindars are said to have taken an interest in the welfare of their tenants and to have managed their properties satisfactorily. It is, however, to be regretted that little interest is taken by any of the zamindars in improving agriculture.

181 The only personal knowledge of agricultural affairs in the Division which I have yet acquired is with reference to the southern part, principally Sundarban grants. It seems to me that progress is very much retarded because the landlords or settlement-holders will not honestly accept the duty of embanking. They try to shuffle it off on their tenants by clauses in kabuliyats etc. But it is self-evident that it is only the landlord who can effectively maintain circuit embankments against salt water.

XXXVII.—GENERAL REMARKS.

182. The quinquennium under report was, on the whole, a period of general prosperity throughout the Division, though the crops in particular localities had suffered greatly in 1900-1901 from the floods brought about by the excessive rainfall of that year. The construction of the Murshidabad section of the Ranaghat-Murshidabad Railway, which is now almost completed, will no doubt prove a great boon to the people of Nadia and Murshidabad and will supply a long felt want. The new railway will be opened for passenger traffic before long, and the resources of those districts are sure to benefit by the facilities which a railway affords to trade and commerce.

Much improvement in the efficiency of the rural police is expected from the panchayati system which is now being gradually introduced and the appointment of highly respectable men, who are being vested with various powers under the Criminal Procedure Code, as presidents of panchayets. The expansion of the system will have to be carefully watched and fostered by the district officers in order to ensure its success. The new panchayets with their extended powers are likely to make a good many mistakes and at the same time, are likely to be sensitive as to the manner in which these are corrected while, where there is much factious feeling, they may not improbably be found incompetent to take the proper measures for preservation of the peace. In such matters the system will require very delicate handling.

The reduction of the salt duty and the raising of the minimum limit of assessment under the Income-tax Act from Rs. 500 to Rs. 1,000 have been much appreciated by the public. There was progress in about all branches of the administration during the past quinquennium. General improvement seems most apparent in the southern part of the Division. Although the various systems of Sundarbans reclamation which have hitherto been tried, have none of them been very successful, yet there is a steady increase in cultivation and population in the comparatively new country north of the Sundarbans. This was shown by the great increase in the valuation of Khulna at the last revaluation, as it produces increased road cess revenue, it reacts upon communications. The people of these districts are apparently becoming alive to the great importance of keeping their waterways open for the sake of health and for facility of traffic.

Adding this amount to the accumulated balances of previous years, the total surplus revenue on the 31st March 1905 was Rs. 28,70,425.

Revenue Reserve Fund.

2. Of the above amount, a sum of Rs 18,1[illegible],827 has already been set aside for the formation of a Revenue Reserve Fund, and a further contribution of Rs. 7,03,768 will now be made, increasing the total at credit of the Fund to Rs. 25,21,595.

Capital expenditure.

3. A sum of Rs. 30,67,305 was expended during the year on various new works; the more important works completed or in progress were:—

A four-storied warehouse at the jetties;
A 30-ton floating crane;
Construction and equipment of berth No. 14 in the tidal basin;
Enlargement of the grain depôt at Kantapukur;
Transit sheds at the docks to accommodate the tea brought by inland vessels;
Provision of two more berths for the export of coal in Dock No. 2;
The second Dry Dock, which was nearly completed within the year and is now in use.
Two despatch steamers for use in the survey of the Port Approaches; and A self-contained light-vessel and buoys illuminated by gas.

The expenditure was met partly by temporary advances from Revenue Funds and partly by overdrafts on the Bank of Bengal.

4. The capital debt of the Trust on the 31st March 1905 was Rs. 4,98,10,320. Against this debt the Commissioners hold properties, including works in progress, stores, cash and securities in hand, of the value of Rs. 6,68,24,200: this does not include the Strand Bank and Howrah Foreshore lands, the capitalised value of which at present rates of rent would amount to a considerable sum. At the same time a sum of Rs. 47,10,343 has been accumulated by annual contributions from Revenue towards a Sinking Fund for repayment of the debenture loans, and may therefore be treated as an additional asset. The position of the Commissioners with respect to their debt is threfore satisfactory.

Depreciation and Insurance Funds.

5. In addition to the Revenue Reserve and Sinking Funds, the Commissioners have a Depreciation Fund for vessels and plant and a Fire Insurance Fund. The additions made to these funds during the year amounted to Rs. 2,36,299 and Rs. 13,900, respectively; but a sum of Rs. 4,60,433 had to be withdrawn from the Depreciation Fund to meet expenditure chargeable to that Fund. At the close of the year, the balance at credit of these funds stood at Rs. 11,89,663

6. The following table, reproduced from the Commissioners' report, shows the details of the receipts and charges of the Revenue Account for the year under review, as compared with the similar figures for the previous year.

It is to be noted with reference to the above that but for reductions in various rates which have been granted, the revenue of 1904-1905 would have been greater by Rs. 1,20,000.

The most noticeable feature is the large increase of 4½ lakhs in the receipts from river dues. At present these dues are levied by annual requisitions of this Government under the powers given by section 108 of the Calcutta Port Act. The question whether the river dues should be now regarded as a permanent source of income to the Port Trust is under consideration.

There is a material decrease in the net receipts from the Commissioners' Railway which is due to the charges for hire and demurrage of extra wagons and engines required to meet the increase in the shipments of seeds and coal. The Commissioners have taken steps to increase their rolling stock and to improve their sidings which will facilitate unloading and will avoid charges for demurrage.

The receipts from the wet docks continue to expand, but so do the working expenses, and the net result is a little behind that of the previous year. The goods exported over the dock quays aggregated 3,526,370 tons which is a figure far above that of any previous year. The principal increases are in the items wheat and seeds, and coal. So far the docks have been very little used for the import of goods and only 29,067 tons were landed there during the year under review. The dry dock continues to give a substantial return on the apital invested in it, which is stated at Rs. 8,65,918.

Vessels berthed at the jetties.

7. Two hundred and fifty-nine vessels, with an aggregate tonnage of 905,991, were berthed at the jetties during the year, against 266 vessels, with a tonnage of 852,630 in the year 1903-1904. The average tonnage of vessels has increased from 3,205 to 3,498. The average number of days that each vessel occupied the jetties was 6·8 days.

The present accommodation at the jetties is insufficient for the requirements of the trade of the Port. This is illustrated by the following table given by the Commissioners in their report:—

	1902-03.	1903-04.	1904-05.
	No. of day's delay.

,, ,, 5	1	3	1
,, ,, 6	...	1	...
	34	44	63	vessels.
	64	94	110	days.

In addition to the above, nine vessels bringing import cargo discharged at the docks owing to a jetty berth not being available. Although 27 per cent. of import cargo steamers were more or less inconvenienced for want of jetty berths, the total period during which one or more berths were vacant during the year was 414 days. This is a matter demanding earnest attention from the Commissioners.

Since the close of the year under review, the difficulties have been accentuated by the failure of jetty No. 2. The work of reconstruction is in hand, and estimates, aggregating Rs. 26,36,800 have been sanctioned for an extension of the jetties which will provide for two more berths.

9. Mr. F. G. Dumayne held the office of Vice-Chairman throughout the year, but he was absent on leave for six months and two days from the 28th April 1904, during which period Mr. F. Palmer officiated for him. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to the Commissioners for the able management of the affairs of the Trust during the year under review.

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

THE MONSOON OF 1905.

THE following report is published for general information.

R. W. CARLYLE,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 22nd January 1906.

METEOROLOGICAL SUMMARY FOR THE MONSOON PERIOD OF 1905.

THE most striking feature of the last cold weather in Northern India was the nearly steady procession of shallow and diffuse areas of low pressure followed by areas of high pressure travelling across India from west to east. The immediate effect on the direction of the wind was that while a depression was approaching Bengal from the west, there was an indraught of warm moist air from the south and south-west, and after its centre had passed eastwards and the barometer was rising again the wind shifted round through west and north-west to north, which implied a descent of cold air from the Himalayas and a corresponding fall of temperature This constituted a so-called "cold wave," and the succession of such conditions was the feature of the whole north east monsoon period of 1904-1905.

The development of cloud round such a depression was such as to diminish the daily range of temperature, and it was especially the night temperature during the "warm wave" preceding each "cold wave" that was so much above normal as to more than compensate for the defect of the maximum day temperature. It was only with the advancing high pressure and descent of cold clear air that night temperature began to fall rapidly below the normal. This succession of phenomena was common to all these "waves," and only varied in minor details.

Considerable rainfall was also associated with these depressions, so that the total rainfall for the pre-monsoon period was largely in excess of the normal for every division of the Province

No less than five such complete cycles of events, each with its accompanying "cold wave," passed over the whole of Bengal and Assam during January. Four of them, especially the first and the fourth, gave fairly general rainfall, that due to the first being everywhere heavy.

This succession of cold waves continued with only a slightly longer period into February, and they were at the same time marked by greater intensity of cold. The first one gave almost universal, though light, rain to the Province on the 5th and 6th. The second gave considerably heavier rain on the 16th, 17th and 18th, and the third gave only very little local rain on the 23rd and 24th. The cold wave that followed immediately in the wake of the first of these depressions established a record in the matter of cold over the whole Province during the nights of the 9th and 10th. The rainfall of January had failed to make up for the deficiencies of the period from 16th October to 31st December 1904 in East and South-West Bengal and Orissa, and that of February made it good in South-West Bengal only.

Another shallow depression which had just reached the western border of the Province at the end of February gave general rain everywhere except in North Bengal on the 1st and 2nd of March, and was followed by three more depressions of the same general character in steady succession through the whole month. The sharp fall of temperature after the 1st was followed immediately by a period when the Province was under the influence of a diffused low pressure area, giving very unsettled weather and widely-scattered rain every day from the 7th to the 12th. After a second fall of temperature there was a rise to just above normal on the 17th, followed by rain on the 21st and 22nd over the whole Province except South Bihar and Chota Nagpur. The fourth depression of the month was of a still more irregular kind, and gave only very light rain widely scattered both as to time and space. The wider variation of these March depressions from the standard type was to be expected as associated with the change of the season—the fall of the barometer over the land to initiate the hot-weather conditions. So far as pressure and temperature was concerned, these were in fact practically established over North-East India by the end of March. Orissa was the only division where the rainfall was still in slight defect, and in every other division it was in large excess.

The essentially unsteady barometric conditions of the preceding months were fully maintained throughout April with the same accompaniments of low temperature and large rainfall, so that at the end of the month the only residual deficiency in Orissa was wiped out and the excess for all other divisions increased. The depressions and cold waves of April were, however, still less clearly defined and more irregular in character than their predecessors. The usual nor'westers were even more frequent than usual.

These thunderstorms were equally numerous in May, being apparently facilitated in their formation by the strong south-east winds which prevailed during the greater part of the month. They were responsible for lowering the temperature and affording abundant rain.

Though meteorological conditions were practically normal at the end of May, and though an advance of the monsoon current had actually taken place up the east of the Bay, giving rain to Burma during the first week of June, this advance proved only to be a premature effort, and the weather over the Province relapsed to a condition of quite abnormally oppressive heat during practically the whole month, only relieved during the last week by a thin veiling of cloud, which proved to be the forerunner of the true monsoon. Rainfall for the month was in very large defect in every division, and the large total excess for the whole north-east monsoon period, which had been fully maintained up to the end of May, was reduced to just above normal in Bengal and to nearly 25 per cent. below normal in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and Orissa. Such rain as fell—practically only in Assam, North and East Bengal and a few showers in South-West Bengal—was due to a second feeble effort at advance of the rain-bearing currents again along and from the east side of the Bay.

The monsoon can scarcely be said to have "burst" on any particular day in Bengal, but it may be regarded as having been practically and actively established by the passing of a cyclonic storm westward across the coast of Orissa on the 30th of June. During the first few days of July rain was continuous and heavy everywhere in Bengal, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur, and extended up to Bihar on the 4th of the month. A steady series of typical monsoon cyclonic storms from the Bay of Bengal maintained an almost continuous and copious precipitation all over the Province for the rest of the month, which was more than sufficient to compensate for the deficiencies of the preceding month. The actual excess above normal was, however, confined to the first half of the month, there being even a slight defect after the 16th from which date the monsoon rain is usually calculated. This abundant rain naturally reduced the temperature rather below normal, with only slight rises above normal during the very brief intervals of a day or two when no rain fell.

The same steady rain continued all over the Province almost without intermission throughout August, but whereas in July it was directly due to a succession of no less than five small cyclonic storms forming at the head of the Bay, August was remarkable for the entire absence of such local depressions, and its precipitation was the outcome of an ascensional movement on a much grander scale in the normal monsoon current. The total rain for the month was more than double the usual amount in North Bengal, in large excess in Bihar and East Bengal, nearly normal in South-West Bengal, and in considerable to large defect in Chota Nagpur and Orissa; but it was only in the last division that there was any serious deficiency on the total for the first eight months of the year. The mean temperature only varied by 1° or 2° from normal, being above in those divisions where there was too little rain, and below where the rainfall was heavy.

This strong monsoon current was fully maintained throughout September by an abnormally steep pressure-gradient up the Bay. Contrary to what is usually expected, there was not a single "break" in the rains of any importance. During the month three depressions formed over South Bengal, and two cyclonic storms developed in the Bay, one of which travelling westwards crossed the coast at Calingapatam and caused very serious devastation along the Circars coast. The total rainfall for the month was above its normal amount in every division of the Province, the excess being especially large in East Bengal, Chota Nagpur, and Bihar, and least where it was least wanted, viz., in North Bengal. September was in fact a most beneficial month for Bengal, and at the end of the month Orissa was the only division with a deficiency of 17 per cent. still to be made good.

Unfortunately this was not achieved during October, whose rainfall was very seriously deficient in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and Orissa. East and South-West Bengal were the only divisions where the rainfall for the month was abundant. The weather of October was in fact in a sense abnormal, though such abnormality is always to be expected during the transition period from the south-west to the north-east monsoon.

After a couple of days' continuance of the very heavy precipitation which was falling at the end of September, rain ceased altogether, and for the greater part of the month the whole Province groaned under all the unpleasant conditions of one long break in the rains. Towards the end of the month an area of unsettled barometric conditions travelled right round the Bay almost parallel with the coast, finally developing into a small cyclonic storm which ultimately passed inland near Chittagong on the 26th and broke up in the Assam Hills. This depression was associated with the last effort at revival of the monsoon current, and gave rain successively all round the coast and finally in East and North Bengal and Assam.

On the whole then the south-west monsoon of 1905 was a most generous one in Bengal, though Orissa again did not get quite its full share and Bihar was unfortunate in the restriction in time of the wet season—in particular on account of its stopping prematurely early.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

PUBLIC.

Calcutta, the 26th January 1906.

No. 188.—The following correspondence is hereby published for general information :—

(1) Home Department letter No. 30, dated 11th January 1906, to the Editor of the Statesman
(2) Letter dated 12th January 1906, from the Editor of the Statesman.
(3) Home Department letter Nos. 146—155, dated 26th January 1906, to all Local Governments.

No. 30 (Public), dated Calcutta, the 11th January 1906.

From—H. H. RISLEY, ESQ., C.S.I., C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,
To—The Editor of the Statesman.

THE Government of India observe that in the issue of the Statesman, dated 7th January 1906, there was published in extenso a note by Lord Curzon relating to the court language of the Sambalpur district and certain connected matters. This document was obviously of a confidential character, and it seems to the Government of India impossible that it can have been communicated to you by any authorised person or that its publication by a responsible newspaper can be in any way excused. Before proceeding further in the matter they have decided to invite you to give them any explanation which you may wish to offer of what they are at present constrained to regard as a gross breach of journalistic propriety. The Government of India would be glad to receive a very early reply to this letter.

Dated Calcutta, the 12th January 1906.

From—S. K. RATCLIFFE, ESQ., Editor, Statesman,
To—H. H. RISLEY, ESQ., C.S.I., C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

YOUR letter No 30 of January 11th. I would venture respectfully to demur to some of the expressions used by you in reference to the matter. These appear to imply that the Statesman published a document which it knew to be of a strictly private character and which there was reason to believe had been obtained by improper means. Such, however, is not the case. The document had been in our possession for a considerable time, and was referred to as being already well known in an article on Lord Curzon's administration in the Statesman of 19th November 1905. It bore no mark to indicate that it was confidential. There was, indeed, nothing to show that it was not a note upon the file, although we recognised that its publication would not have been desirable so long as the matter with which it is concerned was under discussion. It was eventually printed in our columns, first as containing no information the publication of which could embarrass the Government, and, secondly, as including certain comments which, while interesting to the public, could not at this distance of time be anything but harmless. May I be permitted to add, with all deference to the view taken by the Government of India, that a newspaper which has never to our knowledge been accused of the improper use of official documents is the last to be knowingly guilty of a "gross breach of journalistic propriety."

Nos. 146—155, dated Calcutta, the 26th January 1906.

From —H. H. RISLEY, Esq., C.S.I., C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,

To —The Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras.
" Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay.
" Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.
" Chief Secretary to the Government of the United Provinces.
" Chief Secretary to the Government of the Punjab.
" Chief Secretary to the Government of Burma.
" Chief Secretary to the Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam.
" Honourable the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.
" Honourable the Chief Commissioner of the North-West Frontier Province.
" Chief Commissioner of Coorg.

On the 7th January last there appeared in the columns of the Statesman, an English newspaper published in Calcutta, a confidential note written by Lord Curzon as Governor-General on 24th May 1902 on the subject of the court language of the Sambalpur district and certain connected questions. The publication of such a document was regarded by the Government of India as a grave breach of journalistic propriety, but before proceeding further in the matter they decided to give the Editor, Mr. S. K Ratcliffe, an opportunity of offering an explanation of his action Copies of the letter addressed to him and of his reply are enclosed for the information of the Governor in Council / His Honour the Lieutenant Governor / your information.

2. The explanation furnished by Mr. Ratcliffe in no degree palliates his original offence. His letter discloses an acquaintance with Secretariat procedure which it is difficult to reconcile with his categorical statement that he did not know the document which he published "to be of a strictly private character" and had no reason to believe that it had been obtained by improper means Nor can the Governor-General in Council accept the excuse that the paper which came into Mr Ratcliffe's possession "bore no mark to indicate that it was confidential." The good sense and honourable forbearance which are traditional with journalists of standing, whether European or Indian, have hitherto rendered it unnecessary for the Government of India to depend upon mechanical devices for the protection of the legitimate secrecy which attaches to the preliminary discussions incidental to the transaction of public business. No one guided by these traditions could possibly regard Lord Curzon's note, from its style, its tone, the references and comments which it makes, and the instructions which it conveys, as other than confidential. Finally, the Government of India are unable to pass over without comment the pretensions involved in the following passage:—"There was, indeed, nothing to show that it was not a note upon the file, although we recognised that its publication would not have been desirable so long as the matter with which it is concerned was under discussion." Here Mr. Ratcliffe not only asserts by implication the right to publish "notes upon files," which are in their nature confidential documents and can only come into the possession of a newspaper by the betrayal of trust on the part of some employé of the Government, but he also arrogates to himself unfettered discretion to determine when such publication is desirable. The Government of India believe this to be the first occasion on which the Editor of a journal professing to be innocent of "the improper use of official documents" has put forward a claim of this description.

3. The Government of India infer with some confidence that the general sense of the more influential journals in India, which have maintained a seemly reticence in respect of the incident, condemns the breach of professional etiquette which Mr. Ratcliffe has permitted himself to commit. But they feel bound to mark their own disapproval of his conduct in some more conspicuous manner. They have accordingly directed—

(1) that the privilege of admission to the Press-rooms at Calcutta and Simla shall be withheld from representatives or correspondents of the Statesman;

(2) that no Gazettes, communiqués, notifications, public notices, reports, published proceedings, or official information of any kind shall be supplied to that newspaper by any office or department of, or subordinate to, the Government of India;

(3) that no official advertisements shall be sent to it by any of the aforesaid departments or offices.

I am now to ask that [with the permission of the Governor in Council / Lieutenant-Governor] similar orders regarding the communication of information and the publication of advertisements may be issued by the Government of Madras / you in respect of all the departments and local authorities under their / its / your orders. In some instances it will no doubt be found that the publication of notices and advertisements is within the discretion of the courts of law or of local bodies. In such cases it will suffice if the wishes of the Government of India are brought to the notice of such authorities.

4. These orders will remain in force so long as the persons responsible for the Statesman newspaper shall not give an assurance that they fully recognise the impropriety of the indiscretion committed by their present Editor. If, however, they withdraw his unwarranted claim and make public apology for the publication of Lord Curzon's note, the Government of India will be glad to restore to that newspaper the facilities now withheld.

No. 40 (first publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 1372 of 1905) that during a recent survey of the vicinity of the Minerva rock, Balayan bay, Luzon, no trace of this danger could be found, the depths in its assigned position varying from 175 to 200 fathoms.

This shoal was originally reported by the Master of the British ship Minerva, who stated that his vessel struck on it at 2 A.M. on the 10th September 1834. Its existence has always been considered doubtful, and as it has previously been searched for without effect, it has now been expunged from the Chart.

PACIFIC OCEAN—NEW GUINEA, NORTH-EAST COAST.

Durour island—Amended position.

No. 46 (first publication).—With reference to notice to Notice to Mariners No. 461, dated 25th November 1905, issued by this Office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 1384 of 1905 that the position of Durour island, north-east coast of New Guinea, has been fixed by the officers of H.I.M.S. Mowe

The latitude of the eastern point of the island was determined by meridian altitude, taken on shore, to be 1° 27′ 30″ S. Owing to cloudy weather the longitude of this point could not be obtained by astronomical observations, but was determined on the passage to Maty island, by means of bearings taken when both islands were in sight, to be in about longitude 143° 6′ 20″ E.

The position of this island on the Chart has been amended accordingly.

CHINA SEA—GASPAR STRAIT.

Pare Joie reef—Reported position.

No. 47 (first publication)—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 323, dated 26th August 1905, issued by this Office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 1385 of 1905) that a repeated and careful search has been made for the Pare Joie reef in the position reported by the American S. S. Mississipi in May 1905, without any trace of its existence being found.

It is consequently considered that the Mississipi must have been deceived by the appearance of the water, but as a reef does doubtless exist in this vicinity, on which the ship Pare Joie remained aground for 24 hours, it is probable that the position given by that vessel is the most reliable.

Pare Joie reef has, therefore, been transferred on the Chart from the position given by the Mississipi to the situation originally assigned to it by the Pare Joie, viz., to a position from which Gaspar island summit bears S. ¼ E., distant 5¼ miles. It has been marked P. D.

Approximate position, lat. 2° 19½′ S., long. 107° 4½ E.

As this Buoy will probably need to be moved slightly as the work of deepening the Outer Harbour progresses, it must be taken only as indicating the edge of the shoal, and vessels navigating that part of the channel should not approach it within 50 ft.

Note.—This affects Admiralty Chart 2389b, 1750, and 1752.

AFRICA, EAST COAST—Port of Bartholomeu Dias.

General Instructions.

No. 29 (second publication).—The following Notice to Mariners (No. 2 of 1906), issued by the Bombay Government, is republished for general information :—

The following information, dated September 1905, has been received from the Port Officer, Beira, through the Consul General for Portugal in British India :

The port is marked by beacons on land. These are six in number giving three courses by means of which the bar may be crossed and the harbour entered with absolute safety.

Bearings of the Beacons.

The bearing of the first pair of beacons Nos. 1 and 2, when in line, is S. 83° W., that of the second pair Nos. 3 and 4, S. 18° W., and of the third pair Nos. 5 and 6, is S. 10° 15′ E.

Situation, form and colour of the beacons.

Beacons Nos. 1 and 2 are on firm land covered by low mangroves, where the East margin of the bay and the port of Bartholomeu Dias properly speaking begins.

The bearing of these beacons is tangent to the southern border of a dense and tall grove of pines (movinjes) which rises on the S.-E. extremity of the Movin-jes or Maconde island.

The grove is conspicuous to any one entering the port, since it rises from the sea, as a green clump of verdure, and is seen standing out alone before sighting the margin of the bay. It is a splendid landmark.

Beacon No. 1 is a quadrilateral tower surmounted by a triangular appendix, jutting out slightly over the sides of the tower. It is 20 metres high and 2 metres broad. The tower on the seaward side is painted in three vertical stripes, the one in the centre being black and those on the sides white. The triangular appendix is white with a black circle in the centre.

Beacon No. 2 is a triangular tower also ending in a triangular appendix, it is 25 metres high and 3·50 metres broad, and is alternately opened and closed in horizontal bands of 3 metres. The part which is covered is painted black so that the impression is produced of black bands alternating with others of light blue or gray.

The triangle is painted black with a white circle in the centre.

Beacon Nos. 3 and 4 are situated within the port, on the W. shore, on an unmistakable site locally called 'Chamadouro da Pedra.' On the border of this low and slightly undulating land, which is in general of a dark green tone, owing to the mangroves that cover it, there suddenly rises, forming a point, a yellowish white patch which looks like a big rock cut vertically with the shore. In the whole port of Bartholomeu Dias this feature is unique and may be seen over the sands forming 'Macovane Point' soon after entering the first part of the channel: as marked by beacons Nos. 1 and 2.

Beacon No. 3 is in the shape of a column surmounted by a square, of which two opposite angles are fixed vertically on the prolongation of the axis of the column. It is black having in the centre another white square.

Beacon No. 4 is a tower exactly like beacon No. 2, but of smaller dimensions 18·50 mr. high and 2 mr. wide.

Beacons Nos. 5 and 6 are situated near 'Govuro Point' which is covered by a clump of tall pines, and here the commandant's house or residency stands. The house is not seen as it is surrounded by trees, but the point is clearly distinguished a little before leaving the second part of the channel, not only by the special form of the trees but also by the wooden jetty and by the flagstaff rising a few metres from it.

Beacon No 5 is in the shape of a column, painted in three vertical bands, the centre one being black and the others white. It ends in a triangular appendix, painted white with a black circle in the centre. It is 11·75 mr. high and 0m. 80 mr wide.

Beacon No. 6 is also a column, surmounted by a square, having arcs painted black in the angles, and two concentric circles in the centre of the figure; the outer being black and the inner one white.

The column is painted in black and white horizontal bands. It is 16 mr. high and 1 wide. The beacon is seen between two dense mangrove clumps, the one on the west growing up to the water's edge.

Currents.

The wide bay which precedes and serves as a sort of vestibule to the Port of Bhartholomeu Dias between Macovan Point on the S. and Mafomene on the N. has both at flood and ebb tide a complex system of currents which must be taken into account when entering and leaving the port.

This is due to the fact that many rivers and rivulets besides the Govuro flow into the outer basin and the influence of the mouth of the Save is strongly felt. Thus the tide has to flow simultaneously on the S. after passing the N.-W. point of the peninsula, to enter the port and to the W. and N. to enter the canals and rivers near the north and centre of the basin. As the volume of water is greater in those two directions owing to the area to be covered being larger, the current at flood tide during the passage of the part of the channel marked by the beacons 1 and 2 is felt running N.-W. At ebb tide it is the contrary, the current running towards S.-E. and being stronger than during flood tide.

In the second part of the channel (marked by the beacons 3 and 4) the chief influence owing to its proximity, is that of the mouth of the Govuro, the flood tide runs W.-S.-W. deflecting to the S. inside the port. The ebb tide runs E.-N.-E. and is stronger than the flood tide.

In the third part of the channel (marked by beacons 5 and 6) the direction and strength of the tide is the same as in the preceding part, until the N.-W. point of the peninsula is reached; from that point the ebb and flow currents run parallel to the shore.

Instructions on entering and leaving the port.

From the above notes on the currents the following simple directions are deduced:—

In the first part of the channel.

With flood tide keep the beacons well in line.

With ebb tide let beacon No. 2 open out on the N of beacon No. 1 until the S. side of the former is tangent to the N. face of the latter. Thus is corrected any setting of the vessel to the S. which helped by the strong current at ebb tide, might have thrown it on the bank which borders the land from Macovane Point to the extreme W. of the Govuro peninsula. The highest point of this bank is naturally marked by the line determined by the 'Chamadouro da Pedra' and by a group of three big trees which rise behind it, and are easily distinguished in the low green mangrove.

The direction of this line is S. 27° W. and after passing the point the beacons may follow even with strong ebbs, until the vessel enters the second part of the channel.

In the second part of the channel.

With flood tide keep beacons 3 and 4 well in line. With ebb tide let No. 4 open a little on the W. of No. 3, to avoid the current carrying the ship toward the point of the tongue of sand which projects N.-N.-W. of the peninsula, which may generally be distinguished by the lighter colour of the water.

In the third part of the channel.

With flood tide keep beacons 5 and 6 in line.

With ebb tide let the beacon 6 open slightly to the W. of No. 5 until the point of the peninsula is passed, then follow the land and seek anchorage freely.

Floating mark.

To the W. of the third part of channel and very near it E. and W. of the small bend which forms the N.-W. corner of the right margin of the bay, there is a barrel painted red.

It marks a patch which is covered by 11½ feet of water at low water spring tides. From this mark inwards parallel to the land the port has a depth of 6 fathoms to close to the shore, the bottom being sand and mud.

This mark is also of great service when leaving the third part of the channel and entering the port.

Anchorge.

It may be said in general that ships may safely anchor in two long lines of more than a mile in extent parallel to the shore, starting in the N.-W. corner and ending in the small bay on the S point of which beacon No. 6 is placed.

At present, the usual anchorage is near the jetty referred to, on either side of it, and here the depth is 7 to 8 fathoms, with a bottom of mud or sand.

The port is protected from all winds, though those blowing over low lands, when very strong, cause a rough sea, but as there is no space for waves to form, on the E. owing to lying so close to the shore, and on the S.-W. owing to the succession of banks which guard the port in that direction, and as it is splendid holding ground, ships run no risk of dragging their anchors or wearing their moorings.

Bearings.

The following are the bearings to enter the first channel when going into the port :—

Inhamabue Point (situated S.-E. and immediately following Macovane Point)	S. 25° W.
Macovane Point	S. 39° 30′ W.

Point E. of the Mueve island (situated E. of the high land of "Machanga" at the entrance of the "Save") N. 14 E.

The point determined by these bearings is in the extension of the line passing through beacons Nos. 1 and 2 and is almost on the E. edge of the bank at the entrance. The depth is 6 fathoms.

Lowest soundings in the channel.

The lowest soundings are to the E. of the outer bank, which runs uninterruptedly from Inhamabue Point to 1¼ miles beyond Mafomene Point. Three small patches were found at low water spring tides of 13½ feet.

In the rest of the channel the depth varies from 18 to 35 feet at low water.

Establishment of the port

4h. 50m.

Vertical rise of tides.

Spring rise	12 feet.
Neap tide rise	7½ feet.

Coordinates of Macovane Point.
